Allied Forces Engage In Biggest Viet Push

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. troops launched their biggest operation of the war in a push near the Communist's iron triangle, it was announced Sunday.

For security reasons the Vietnamese high command was not even notified of the operation until the last minute and no Vietnamese government troops took part.

8,000 Americans Used
The Royal Australian Battalion joined 6 American battalions and 3,000 artillerymen. A U. S. commander said there were 8,000 Americans taking part, making it the largest U. S. effort to date.

A spokesman said so far there has been only light contact with the enemy in the operation which began Saturday.

Two American helicopters were shot down and a third crashed apparently due to mechanical failure. Part of the multibattalion force was lifted by helicopter into several landing zones for a sweep toward the Saigon River 20 miles northeast of the capital in Hau Nghia province.

Aussies Kill Six
In sporadic contact Sunday, the Australians killed six Viet Cong while allied casualties were light. American troops ran into light opposition in four helicopter landing zones.

The Australians seized three weapons, 5,000 rounds of ammunition, 35 grenades and some equipment, a U. S. military spokesman announced.

The allies were, roughly, deployed in a "U" shaped formation with the open end facing the river. Intelligence agents reported that a Viet Cong regimental headquarters and possibly two battalions may be in the area.

"Iron Triangle"
Just across the river is the iron triangle, one of the strongest Viet Cong positions in the country. The area of the American operation has not been anti-Communist troops in years.

Backing up the huge operation were batteries of 105 and 155 millimeter artillery and self-propelled 8-inch howitzers in the field and 175 millimeter cannons in American base camps some miles away.

U. S. commanders hoped that if a major Viet Cong force can be flushed out, it could be destroyed by massive artillery barrages.

One fear was that the Communists would slip across the Saigon River into the iron triangle. Flares illuminated the river at night, but the Viet Cong in the past have managed to slip out of what appeared to be American commanders to be airtight traps.

Attacks Succeed
Earlier U. S. jet pilots were reporting excellent results from massive raids on the Ho Chi Minh Trail through eastern Laos during the lengthening pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam, informed sources said Saturday.

Squadrons totaling up to 300 planes, packing nearly 1,000 tons of bombs and rockets, are hitting daily at strategic jun-

Dominican Rebels End Seizure

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican armed forces agreed Saturday to surrender control of the government radio station to the Organization of American States, removing one issue in the continuing Dominican crisis.

The armed forces chiefs remained adamant, however, in their rejection of President Hector Garcia-Godoy's plan to transfer 34 top officers of the regular army forces and the former rebel force abroad for diplomatic service or training.

No Position Change
"The armed forces are as united as ever on this issue, there is absolutely no change in our position," Commodore Francisco Rivera Caminero, who still considers himself armed forces minister, told newsmen.

He had been ordered to Washington, and a successor appointed.

Regular army troops seized the government radio station, the most powerful in the country, Thursday night to protest the announced transfers.

The occupation resulted in a charge by the provisional government that the inter-American peace force had refused an appeal from Garcia-Godoy for help in regaining possession of the station, Radio Santo Domingo.

An authorized OAS source said this charge was "not essentially correct." Diplomats of the OAS met in Washington Saturday to consider the complaint, but adjourned without acting on it after learning that the Dominican armed forces had backed down on this issue.

Major Issues Face Assembling Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Congress confronted with the possible escalation of fighting in Viet Nam and the threat of inflation at home convenes for its 1966 session in a solemn mood Monday.

President Johnson will keynote his program with a nationally broadcast State of the Union address Wednesday night to a session in which the funding of "Great Society" social reforms will collide with skyrocketing costs of the Southeast Asia conflict.

To Discuss War
Johnson is expected to dwell at length on Viet Nam peace efforts and the impact of the war on the domestic front.

With his world-wide peace offensive having shown no tangible signs of Communist withdrawal to negotiate, Johnson apparently will hear conflicting demands from lawmakers who favor resumption of aerial attacks on North Viet Nam and those who believe the bombing lull may yet open a way to peace.

Submission by Jan. 25 of a new budget calling for around $115 billion in expenditures for the fiscal year beginning July 1 will touch off a guns vs. butter battle. Members who believe domestic spending on such projects as the anti-poverty program should have equal priority with military outlays will be pitted against those who say that financing of the war must come first and don't think even a booming economy can support both.

There are some indications that Johnson will scale down requests for domestic programs. To offset this, he is likely to ask for action on non-costly legislation designed to benefit consumers, such as truth in packaging and truth in lending bills.

No Tax Increase
The White House has said that the President is not now considing any request to increase taxes. But the possibility of some such action has not been ruled out if increased federal spending depends the threat of inflation.

Senate and House Democratic leaders have promised quick action on an expected presidential request for an additional $12 billion or $13 billion in supplemental defense appropriations. Republicans say they will demand an accounting of exactly where this money is to be spent but few cuts are likely.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana has forecast a limited program of new legislation. But there are a number of vexing issues left over from last year.

Other Topics
—Minimum Wage: A House committee bill proposing an increase from $1.25 to $1.75 hourly and extending coverage to 7.3 million additional workers is likely to be passed back.

—Unemployment Compensation: There is strong opposition to establishing federal standards and action is doubtful.

—Food for Peace: Expansion of this program is probable.

—Foreign Aid: New requirements for economic self-help and social reforms may be written into the program.

—Income Tax: An increase in withholding rates above the present flat 14 per cent is possible.

—Highways: Congress will have to decide whether to go on with the interstate program despite mounting Viet Nam costs.

The Senate Commerce Committee has scheduled a detailed inquiry into the massive electric power failure in the Northeast on Nov. 9-10. Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said the starting point will be the Federal Power Commission's report that there is no guarantee that it will not happen again.

At one time or another in the past year pilots based in Thailand in South Viet Nam and aboard U. S. 7th Fleet carriers in the South China Sea have made runs over Laos. Announced combat activity of the latter two groups has been limited for the last 16 days to strikes against the Red enemy within South Viet Nam.

Field Operations
In this field, U. S. Air Force and Navy planes were credited Saturday with destroying 318 huts and other buildings in 284 sorties against Viet Cong hideouts and supply centers. One of the Navy raids set off fiery explosions that hurled flames 150 feet into the air. Eight guerrilla sampans were sunk.

Guns of four 7th Fleet destroyers were in action on the South China Sea coast. Observers said they had wrecked 30 buildings and sank three boats of the Viet Cong.

Mingled with military developments were two terrorist incidents:

—Viet Cong bushwhackers killed an English missionary, John Hayward, who headed a leprosy mission south of Da Nang. Hayward, about 30, was trapped in his car behind two freight

He assailed U. S. gestures for peace as tricks, and said peace can come only when the United States halts bombing raids "unconditionally and for good" against North Viet Nam.

Pham spoke at a reception in Hanoi for a Soviet delegation headed by Alexander N. Shelepin. Radio Hanoi broadcast an account of it.

Replying, Shelepin repeated Soviet support for North Viet Nam's four peace demands.

These include the evacuation of South Viet Nam by U. S. troops before talks begin. The United States has rejected this.

Shelepin had talks during the day with President Ho Chi Minh and other Vietnamese officials but the nature of the talks was not disclosed in either Hanoi broadcasts or by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Red China, meanwhile, said the United States hopes to sell its Viet Nam peace campaign through Shelepin.

Pham seemed to counter Chinese criticism of the Soviet Union in praising Moscow for its help in the war. The Chinese had charged that the Russians have skimmed on their help.

The officials are Treasurer William J. Scott, Auditor Michael J. Howlett and Finance Director James Ronan.

The idea for the independent survey came from Rep. John Parkhurst, R-Peoria, a commission member, who said it could throw light on the question whether a special legislative session is needed to provide more revenue.

The Illinois Budgetary Commission is taking steps to work up an appraisal of how the state is getting along under the present two-year budget.

To that end, the commission has requested three state fiscal officials to submit written reports giving their estimate of the state's financial condition as related to lapsed appropriations, expenditures, estimated revenue and actual tax collections.

The officials are Treasurer William J. Scott, Auditor Michael J. Howlett and Finance Director James Ronan.

The idea for the independent survey came from Rep. John Parkhurst, R-Peoria, a commission member, who said it could throw light on the question whether a special legislative session is needed to provide more revenue.

The bipartisan commission is made up entirely of legislators. In state administration circles, the talk has been leaning toward a special session although a decision is not expected before the end of February.

By that time, huge December sales tax collections will have accumulated in the treasury and fiscal experts will have the experience of one-fourth of the biennium on which to base their calculations.

Some budget officials figure the state could squeeze by under its present tax income until January 1967 when the next regular legislative convenes.

To do this, they say, Kerner might have to freeze a large part of planned building construction and also order a general tightening on expenditures.

Kerner has frowned on the delay. He claims the state would be $67 million short in general revenue funds and have no operating cash by the close of the current budget period June 30, 1967.

Even if December sales tax returns hit a record high, as budget officials expect, it would not necessarily rule out a special session.

Kerner aides point out the governor's budget counted on a vastly greater yield — as much as $190 million — over the 1963-65 fiscal period.

Republican spokesmen, including Scott and Senate Majority leader W. Russell Arrington of Evanston, have challenged Kerner's forecast of a deficit.

If a special session were called, Kerner would face the hurdle of scraping up votes in the GOP controlled Senate which junked most of his tax program at the 1965 regular meeting.

After the Budgetary Commission receives reports from Scott, Howlett and Ronan, it plans to request information from other officials on the status of highway funds.

Kerner's 1966 highway program falls short of previous years, attributed by the administration to lack of funds. The legislature last year rejected Kerner's proposed three cent gas tax hike but offered him one cent which he refused.

Budgetary Group Probes Illinois' Financial Status

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Budgetary Commission is taking steps to work up an appraisal of how the state is getting along under the present two-year budget.

To that end, the commission has requested three state fiscal officials to submit written reports giving their estimate of the state's financial condition as related to lapsed appropriations, expenditures, estimated revenue and actual tax collections.

Pope Plans Extended Peace Try

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI offered Saturday to go "even beyond usual protocol" in his personal campaign for peace in Viet Nam.

The pontiff asked diplomats accredited to the Vatican from 55 countries to urge their governments to seek an end to the conflict, and he promised to continue his own efforts by any means.

Pope Paul spoke in French to the diplomats gathered in the Vatican's Consistorial Hall to give him their New Year's greetings.

No Steps Given
He did not specify what further steps he might take in his quest for an end to the fighting. He did not mention by name the United States, the Soviet Union or Red China to whose leaders he has sent personal appeals to seek a negotiated and just solution of the Viet Nam crisis.

The Vatican has not disclosed whether he has received replies. "God is our witness," the Pope said, "that we are ready on our part, to attempt any means, even beyond usual protocol forms, at any time that we think the Church can usefully bring to governments the weight of its moral authority in order to maintain and promote a just peace."

"Temporal Task"
Pope Paul said this was undoubtedly a "temporal task," but he added it had been "undertaken and carried out through means appropriate to our function, and for a spiritual aim: The health of society and the true wellbeing of mankind."

"Peace is such a great, such a precious present, which is ardently sought by all mankind, that we do not hesitate to ask you to urge your governments to continue their efforts, as we shall continue ours, in order to re-establish peace where it is wounded and to reinforce it where it already exists," the Pope said.

Louisiana Fires Cause $650,000 Worth Of Damage

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Fire officials Saturday placed a conservative $650,000 damage tag on the pre-dawn fires which chewed up two floors of a skyscraper bank building and destroyed a suburban school.

Gretna Fire Chief Leo Rose said the second fire, in McDonogh No. 26 Elementary School, just across the Mississippi River from New Orleans, "definitely was arson," but no motive had been established. School authorities said the school was not integrated, and had not figured in any racial controversy.

Three firemen were injured fighting the bank building blaze, a repeated general alarm which drew 125 fire fighters and 26 pieces of equipment.

The weekend, however, brought an easing of the incredible flow of vehicles which had all but turned Manhattan into a week-long traffic jam.

With the financial impact mounting by an estimated $100 million a day, businessmen across the country were reported to be feeling the jolt to the nation's financial center.

Poor Hard Hit
Within the city, the strike hit hardest at the poorer peoples, the ones most dependent upon the subway trains and buses operated by 34,400 workers represented by the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union, also an AFL-CIO affiliate.

Howlett spoke to the Sons of the American Legion.

"It really makes very little difference what the beatniks say or do," Howlett said. "The United States is in Viet Nam to stay and we are not going to back down there, or in Laos, or in Berlin, or anywhere else where we are confronted by the Communists."

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., second ranking Democrat on the Foreign Relations group, said he feels that "we must escalate our military efforts" if there is no Communist response to the President's efforts.

Sen. J. Caleb Boggs, R-Del., one of those who made the tour with Mansfield, said "as our Viet Nam report indicates, we felt that at the time we were on the trip that prospects for effective peace negotiations were slim."

"At the same time, it is necessary to make every possible effort to arrive at negotiations..."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, another of the touring senators, said he is hopeful the peace offensive will be successful.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., second ranking Democrat on the Foreign Relations group, said he feels that "we must escalate our military efforts" if there is no Communist response to the President's efforts.

OFF TO WORK—New York: En route to work on this, the seventh day of the transit strike that has crippled New York, a young man has it made as he heads downtown on Second Avenue Friday. (UPI Telephoto)

Report Progress In Strike Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—This city's multimillion-dollar transit strike entered its second week Saturday with 6,500 subway cars and 4,000 buses still idle, but mediators reporting some progress toward restarting them.

President Michael J. Quill of the Transport Workers Union, AFL-CIO, and eight other labor leaders remained imprisoned.

Pending was the New York Transit Authority's court effort to obtain heavy union fines for their contempt of an injunction forbidding the strike.

Issues Unresolved
Peace talks continued, with mediators stating a goal of restoring transit service by Monday morning but conceding that eight, or ten "hard money" issues were unresolved. Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay prodded them to drive toward weekend settlement.

Much negotiating ground remained to be traveled, the mediators said, before the metropolitan area's 15 million inhabitants could return to their normal modes of transportation.

The weekend, however, brought an easing of the incredible flow of vehicles which had all but turned Manhattan into a week-long traffic jam.

With the financial impact mounting by an estimated $100 million a day, businessmen across the country were reported to be feeling the jolt to the nation's financial center.

Poor Hard Hit
Within the city, the strike hit hardest at the poorer peoples, the ones most dependent upon the subway trains and buses operated by 34,400 workers represented by the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union, also an AFL-CIO affiliate.

Howlett spoke to the Sons of the American Legion.

"It really makes very little difference what the beatniks say or do," Howlett said. "The United States is in Viet Nam to stay and we are not going to back down there, or in Laos, or in Berlin, or anywhere else where we are confronted by the Communists."

Bomb Halt Causes Washington Split

WASHINGTON (AP)—Key senators divided sharply Saturday on whether President Johnson should continue the pause in bombing of North Viet Nam in the absence of any public sign of Communist willingness to negotiate.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who has warned that the failure to start peace talks could lead to general war in Asia, said he is supporting the President's peace offensive 100 per cent.

"I am hopeful that the end is not in sight in the President's efforts to bring about honorable negotiations," Mansfield said.

Other Viewpoint
However, Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee said in a separate interview that "the suspension of bombing has gone on too long already." He said he believes the Communists are using the lull to build up the air defenses. As he has before, he advocated bombing of North Viet Nam port facilities.

"I see no difference between bombing their ports and bombing their highways, roads and ground supply routes," he said.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he doesn't know whether any peace feelers have come from the Communist side and isn't sure whether the bombing lull will accomplish anything.

Dirksen took occasion to reaffirm that he is supporting Johnson's course in Viet Nam despite the Illinois senator's comments Friday that the United States must force the Viet Cong to lay down their arms before there can be negotiations.

Johnson has offered to begin talks without prior conditions.

Surrender Not Asked
Mansfield said he does not believe unconditional surrender of the Viet Cong should be made a requirement for peace talks.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., was reported to be supporting Johnson's suspension of bombing and the President's efforts to enlist aid in major world capitals toward bringing about peace talks.

Although relations between the President and the Foreign Relations Committee chairman remain frosty because of the latter's criticism of U.S. troops in the Dominican Republic, Johnson has acted to brief Fulbright on developments.

Undersecretary of State George W. Ball visited Fulbright at his vacation spot in Puerto Rico to inform the chairman of peace offensive aims.

Seeks Stepup
Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., second ranking Democrat on the Foreign Relations group, said he feels that "we must escalate our military efforts" if there is no Communist response to the President's efforts.

Polish Cardinal Grounded

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski was reported Saturday to have been barred by the government from leaving Poland on the eve of his departure for the Vatican.

The spiritual leader of Polish Roman Catholics had planned to leave Sunday for Rome, presumably to report to Pope Paul VI on deteriorating church-state relations and growing obstacles to a papal visit to Poland later this year.

Polish Catholic sources said that when the cardinal left the Vatican Ecumenical Council last month he had instructions to start negotiations for a papal visit next May during the 1,000th anniversary of Christianity in Poland.

Passport Withdrawn
But informed Warsaw sources said the church was notified Friday by the premier's office that the prime minister's diplomatic passport to travel abroad had been withdrawn on grounds he had engaged in political activities harmful to the state on his last trip to Rome.

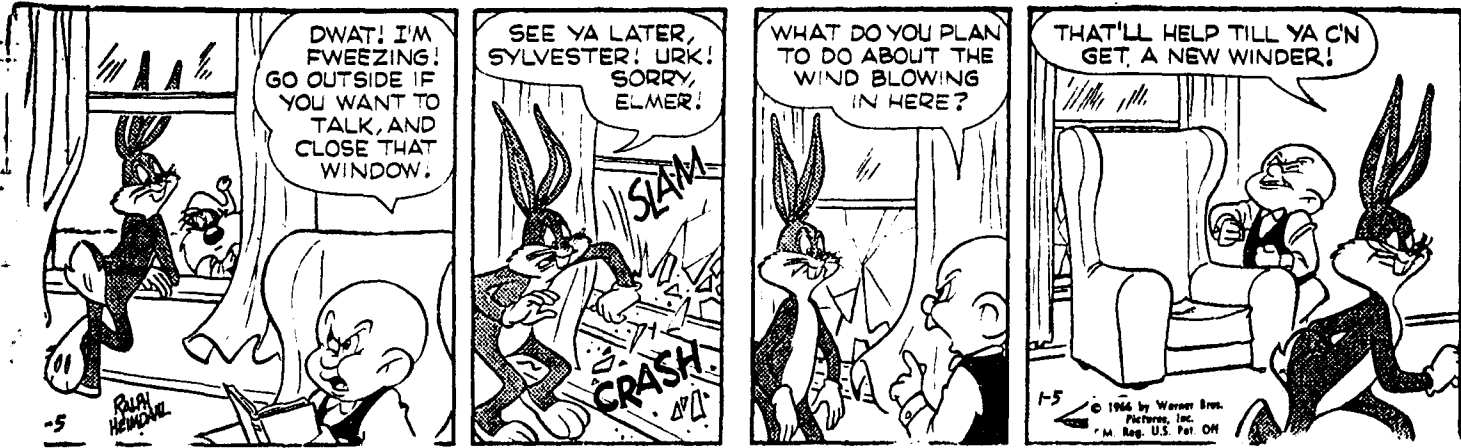

Cardinal Wyszynski and the Polish bishops in Rome last month sent a letter to the bishops of West Germany asking them to join the millennium celebrations and to work for Polish-German reconciliation. The Communist government reacted with a storm of angry press attacks, accusing churchmen of meddling in foreign policy.

U.S. Visit Planned
If the travel ban is continued, it would also keep the cardinal from making a planned trip to the United States and Canada next August to participate in Polish anniversary celebrations there.

The cardinal had been to Rome 11 times since October 1956, when the Communists freed him from three years of house arrest.

His office had treated the planned Vatican trip as a secret, but other sources said he was to leave Sunday by train. On

Deduct Expenses From Rental Income

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Special Writer

Only the net amount received on rental income is taxable. In general the expenses deducted from gross rental income consist of: Depreciation—Repairs—Other Expenses.

The depreciation figure is an annual write-off of a proportionate part of the investment over the estimated useful life of the property.

Since a two-family home is the most common type of rental property, our example will illustrate how a typical landlord accounts for his income.

We will assume the home was built in January, 1960, at a cost of $35,000 of which $5,000 was the cost of the land and $30,000 the cost of the building. Depreciation is taken only on the building.

Since the landlord and his family occupied half of the two-family home the expenses attributable to their half are not a factor in the rental income computation.

Assuming a life expectancy of 40 years, a 2½% annual depreciation in the home of 40 years, a 2½% per cent yearly write-off could this case then would be 12x2½% investment attributable to the rented section.

We have the straight-line method of depreciation (abbreviated S. L. on the schedule). This allows the identical 2½% per cent write-off annually over the useful life of the property. (NEXT: Returns of military personnel)

According To Hanoi Hannah

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
AN KHE, Viet Nam — (NEA) — Hanoi Hannah is a North Vietnamese radio celebrity whom some GIs here envision as a luscious lotus blossom and others figure as being just a haggard old hag with a wart on her nose.
In any event she's kicks. Her nightly broadcasts to U.S. troops provoke howls of glee. Unfortunately for Hannah, she is trying to be serious.
"Hey, guys," a soldier will cry, "I'm getting Hannah on short wave."
"Oh, zow!"
"Maybe she'll play that Communist love song again."
"You mean the one about the militiaman and his plowhorse?"
"Yeah, yeah. Ain't it sexy?"
"Hey, knock it off, will ya?"
The radio's oriental music fades. "Good evening friends," Hannah says stiffly. "A very warm hello from Radio Hanoi."
"Talk to me sweetheart," says a trooper slapping his knee.

"What a broad," sighs another.
"Here I am Hanny baby." "Hey, shaddup so's I can hear."
Unlike Tokyo Rose in World War II, Hannah is all business. No sex and sensuality. No reminders of mom's apple pie or mental sniffs of the perfume on the girl every soldier leaves behind.
Not on The People's time. She comes on like a WAC sergeant.
News first with Commie coloring.
Fiction and fishy fact.
"The latest war tabulations on American casualties since July," she says precisely, "indicate more than 10,000 have been killed (more nearly a 20th of that). In addition, over 800 U.S. jet fighters have been shot down over North Viet Nam (about 150)."
"In other news, U.S. pilots have admitted killing helpless civilians in South Viet Nam during the bombing raids (half true)."

"Despite the continued aggression of U.S. imperialism, however, the South Vietnamese Liberation armies (Viet Cong) are at all times vigilant and ready to bring down more planes and kill more troops."
"Ain't she something?" a GI groans.
"What a cat," another adds. "She ain't too sharp on figures, is she?"
"Say, speaking of figures, I wonder . . ."
"What kind of talk is that?" "Man, that's three months away from women talk."
Hannah's shows are invariably the same. After the news is an editorial denouncing U.S. escalation of the war. Then a recording by an Asian soprano who sounds as if she's having her ears pierced. Then, Mailbag Time ("write us for the truth, friends").
There is no small talk, no intimacies and no nonsense. There is only propaganda. Just another part of this weary war. And the only part, unfortunately, one can just turn off.

With their chow, American soldiers also get a transistorized dose of "Hanoi Hannah." They can turn her off, though.

Beardstown Firm Taking "Red" Out Of Hot Dog

BEARDSTOWN — Oscar Mayer & Company, which is making rapid strides in the erection of a new $5 million dollar plant here, is taking the new Illinois law that eliminates the red hot dog in its stride.

The Mayer's have been cutting down on the amount of coloring in the famous Oscar Mayer wieners for weeks to "lessen the impact on housewives who might otherwise think something was wrong when the color is completely eliminated."

Swift & company says the new law is of no concern to them, but a representative of Armour & company says that while the taste will be the same "it just won't be the same hot dog to consumers."

Upholstering Business Sold

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Smith who parlayed a small upholstery business into a concern doing work for customers in all 50 states and in a number of foreign countries, have sold out and are planning a vacation tour through the U.S. and Canada.

"Smitty's Cut and Cover Shop" has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carter of Rensselaer, Ind., and the couple has bought the Smith residence.

The unique business was started here in 1954 as a simple upholstery operation on furniture. Then it branched out for work on antique cars, and Smitty developed a "Do It Yourself Kit" for antique car dealers. This caught on quickly and after doing a bit of advertising in magazines, Smitty found sales were being made all over the country.

He set up a U.S. map in his enlarged building and began using colored pins to indicate the areas in which he had customers. The pins soon were arrayed in areas in every state. Later foreign orders came in from France, Mexico and elsewhere.

So famous did the local shop become that antique cars were brought from hundreds of miles away to be upholstered here.

Smitty plans to stay in Beardstown for several weeks before starting a trip in a trailer outfit.

Robert Skiles, post office custodian employee, has been off duty the past few days due to an accident at home in which he suffered three cracked ribs in a fall.

Terry Clark, a First State Bank employee, is soon to go to service and his place will be taken by Bob Schall, former Huss Clothing company worker. Mr. Schall is also pastor of the Assembly of God church.

A gas heating unit is being installed at the post office this week, displacing the old coal and stoker combination. The unit is being installed by a St. Louis firm which was low bidder on the job.

Irish Costal Town Has 'The Right' Ratio

DINGLE, Ireland (AP) — is one little stretch of downtown Dingle where there are nine full-fledged bars, huddling together like old friends supporting one another, with nothing to separate them but walls. Jimmy Flahive's bar is down at the far end, out where the wild Atlantic winds pound in to Dingle Bay.

Why does one small town have so many bars?

"Ah," Jimmy Flahive said, "You're looking at Dingle with prejudice, with a one-sided point of view. Be objective, sir. Look at it logically and say to yourself, 'It's London, and New York and Paris what's wrong. They don't have enough bars. Dingle's got the proportion right.'"

A short, broad-shouldered man, with a face as brown as a whisky bottle, joined the discussion, reasoning:

"Look at it this way, sir. With a population just under 1,000, and the number of bars just under 50, we have a drinking place for every 20 souls—men, women and children. But as many of the women don't, and as none of the children do, we figure we've got one bar for every eight full-grown drinking men."

Up the road from James Flahive's bar, another foreigner was drinking in Nora Kennedy's bar. He was from Cahirciveen, 18 miles across Dingle Bay, and for that reason a foreigner in Dingle.

Dingle lays claim to being the most westerly town in Europe, to being closer to the United States than any other town in Europe.

"That's not so," said the man from across Dingle Bay. "Cahirciveen's closer to America than Dingle."

A tall man with a rain-soaked overcoat and a blue-red nose, looked up from his stout at the far end of the bar and said: "You talk like a fool. All but an idiot would know that Dingle is more west than Cahirciveen. Look at the bloody map."

As tempers flared I intervened, offering to go to a shop that advertised "Tourist Information" to settle the question.

The shop also sold dry goods and, as the door opened, a bell clanged somewhere well back in the unlighted interior. Finally a woman appeared.

"Is this the tourist office?"

"It is."

"You have some information on Dingle?"

"We closed on Oct. 15."

"But you're open."

"The shop's open, but the tourist office is closed," she said.

"Have you any pamphlets about Dingle?"

"They collected them and took them away," she replied, "but if you want to know anything, just write me a letter."

She disappeared into the gloom of the shop.

Outside an Atlantic storm raged—as no doubt the argument still did—down in one of Dingle's 48 licensed bars.

Elliott Bank Seal Shows Heritage Of Local Area

Three major elements of the Morgan County-Jacksonville heritage have been brought together in the Elliott State Bank Centennial Medallion. The three elements are the strength of its farming background, the spirit of its schools and colleges and the vitality of its industrial community.

Each of these community characteristics has played an important part in making Jacksonville and Morgan County a good place to live. That is why they were symbolized in the bank's Centennial Seal. The farming background is represented by the stalk of corn, the educational spirit by the bell tower, and the industrial vitality by the meshed gears.

Coin, Currency Collections Display Old U.S., Other Countries

A valued collection of rare U.S. coins and currency and interesting foreign and ancient money will be displayed at Elliott State Bank throughout January as part of the bank's 100th Anniversary Celebration. The display is composed of six valuable collections gathered over the years by the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis; the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company of New York; Harris Trust and Savings Bank; and The American Nat'l. Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago.

The Federal Reserve collection is arranged to present a history of the development of currency in the United States. The collection of the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company not only includes historic coins of the United States and England but also ancient coins from Egypt, Persia, Judea and Rome. Some of the Egyptian coins were minted in 247 B.C.

Coins of member countries of the United Nations comprise the Harris Trust and Savings Bank display.

The American National Bank and Trust Company exhibit is called a century of United States coins and contains sets of proof coins dating from 1863 to the present.

During its 100 years of service to this community, the Elliott State Bank has seen a great deal of money come and go. But none of it quite as interesting as that on display on the second floor lobby (Trust Department) throughout January.

Red Carpet Down For VIPs At Elliott State

The red carpet is out at Elliott State Bank. This is the bank's way of showing how it feels about the many people it has had the pleasure of serving during the 100 years and the many it will serve in the future in the Jacksonville and Morgan County community.

The red carpet is traditionally reserved for VIPs—and the people at Elliott are following this tradition. They want everyone to know that friends and customers of Elliott State Bank are VIPs—Very Important People.

The warm welcome you get at Elliott State Bank doesn't stop with the red carpet either. During the Centennial Celebration, the bank's tellers will be wearing red jackets to add another touch of welcome for the VIPs.

According To Hanoi Hannah

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
AN KHE, Viet Nam — (NEA) — Hanoi Hannah is a North Vietnamese radio celebrity whom some GIs here envision as a luscious lotus blossom and others figure as being just a haggard old hag with a wart on her nose.

In any event she's kicks.

Her nightly broadcasts to U.S. troops provoke howls of glee.

Unfortunately for Hannah, she is trying to be serious.

"Hey, guys," a soldier will cry, "I'm getting Hannah on short wave."

"Oh, wow!"

"Maybe she'll play that Communist love song again."

"You mean the one about the militiaman and his plowhorse?"

"Yeah, yeah. Ain't it sexy?"

"Hey, knock it off, will ya?"

The radio's oriental music fades. "Good evening friends,"

Hannah says stiffly. "A very warm hello from Radio Hanoi."

"Talk to me sweetheart," says a trooper slapping his knee.

"What a broad," sighs another.

"Here I am Hanny baby."

"Hey, shaddup so's I can hear."

Unlike Tokyo Rose in World War II, Hannah is all business.

No sex and sensuality. No reminders of mom's apple pie or mental sniffs of the perfume on the girl every soldier leaves behind.

Not on the People's time. She comes on like a WAC sergeant.

News first with Commie coloring.

Fiction and fishy fact.

"The latest war tabulations on American casualties since July," she says precisely, "indicate more than 10,000 have been killed (more nearly a 20th of that). In addition, over 800 U.S. jet fighters have been shot down over North Viet Nam (about 150)."

"In other news, U.S. pilots have admitted killing helpless civilians in South Viet Nam during the bombing raids (half true)."

"Despite the continued aggression of U.S. imperialism, however, the South Vietnamese Liberation armies (Viet Cong) are at all times vigilant and ready to bring down more planes and kill more troops."

"Ain't she something?" a GI groans.

"What a cat," another adds.

"She ain't too sharp on figures, is she?"

"Say, speaking of figures, I wonder..."

"What kind of talk is that?"

"Man, that's three months away from women talk."

Hannah's shows are invariably the same. After the news is an editorial denouncing U.S. escalation of the war. Then a recording by an Asian soprano who sounds as if she's having her ears pierced. Then, Mail-bag Time ("write us for the truth, friends").

There is no small talk, no intimacies and no nonsense.

There is only propaganda. Just another part of this weary war.

And the only part, unfortunately, one can just turn off.

With their chow, American soldiers also get a transistorized dose of "Hanoi Hannah." They can turn her off, though.

Fear Soviet Activity Will Bring Chinese Troops

HONG KONG (AP) — A growing number of Chinese in Hong Kong believe increasing Soviet activity in North Viet Nam seriously increases the danger that Red China will send combat troops into the Viet Nam war.

"The depth of Peking's paranoia hatred against Russia, and particularly against the Russian presence in Asia, is being under-estimated by Westerners," says a well-educated Chinese refugee doctor, only 18 months out of Red China and with most of his family still there.

He was referring to the often expressed belief of Western government officials and diplomats here that China will do everything in its power to keep North Viet Nam fighting — everything, that is, short of sending in combat troops.

Cannot Win
Their consensus — and some have official contacts in both Peking and Hanoi — is that the Chinese leadership knows it can not win an all-out war with the United States at this time and thus will not risk such a war by sending combat troops into Viet Nam.

One Western source who has studied the Chinese Communists since the end of World War I says: "China appears convinced that the United States would send its bombers against China if China should send fighting troops into Viet Nam."

"The Chinese Communists are at a power crossroads. They can not now afford an all-out war which they surely know they can not win and which would, therefore, destroy them in China."

This man and other Westerners in the business of trying to gauge what the Red Chinese will do under any given circumstance do not underestimate the Communist hatred for both the United States and the Soviet leadership.

But they credit Peking with having a realistic outlook which would rule out risking all-out war until China has a stockpile of nuclear weapons and means of delivering those weapons. Most Western intelligence sources here say that is at least seven to 10 years away, unless China gets major missile help from the Soviet Union.

Until recently, most Chinese refugee intellectuals, industrialists and professional men here appeared to agree with that Western appraisal.

Not Realistic
Now, however, some of these Chinese — a number of whom still have good contacts on the China Mainland — believe Western observers are overestimating.

Bag Ten Deer In Jersey Area Hunting Refuge

JERSEYVILLE — Deer hunting in the Crab Orchard Refuge was excellent when the season was opened on the animals this month according to reports from ten Jerseyville hunters who each bagged a fine specimen in the area.

Of the ten deer killed by the Jerseyville men, the largest was bagged by Lloyd Green. He and Alfred Teppen went to the refuge and hunted January 2nd. Green's buck was an eight point animal and weighed 185 pounds.

Delbert Allen went to Crab Orchard Monday and bagged a six point buck. Other local hunters who went to the refuge January first and got a deer each are Robert Green, William "Bill" Parish, Robert Darr, Duce Skinner, Russel Baze, Eldon Kanallikan and Joe Darr.

The Jerseyville hunters reported the state was permitting the killing of two thousand deer in the sixteen thousand acre refuge. When that many have been taken, the estimated remaining population will be five thousand of the animals.

They reported the cover for deer in the refuge is now excellent. The hardest part of the hunt in most cases was getting the deer to the checking station. Lloyd Green reported he had to drag his eight point buck a distance of one hundred yards through a fairly open field and then another one hundred and fifty yards through a timber area.

At the checking station this season, the animals are disemboweled and the viscera retained for study in state laboratories to determine if the animals are suffering from any disease or infection.

River Traffic Tie-Up Near End Says Cass Pilot

BEARDSTOWN — Captain Ben Jamison, home for the holidays, reports his belief that river traffic which has been tied up at Joliet and Lockport for several days, will soon be moving.

Jamison, who is pilot of the Mike Creditor of the Ohio River company, said four other companies boats were stalled in "the canal bottleneck."

Reports from Joliet said that traffic was "strictly stopped" as a result of action Friday night when the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, concerned over the possibility of floods from heavy rains, diverted water through a spillway. This lowered the water level in the canal and brought about the tie-up.

Fifty or more barges at Lockport snapped their moorings and floated away from piers piling up against the dam. Ten barges sank.

Traffic in the Chicago Sanitary and Ship canal was virtually halted.

Bag Ten Deer In Jersey Area Hunting Refuge

JERSEYVILLE — Deer hunting in the Crab Orchard Refuge was excellent when the season was opened on the animals this month according to reports from ten Jerseyville hunters who each bagged a fine specimen in the area.

Of the ten deer killed by the Jerseyville men, the largest was bagged by Lloyd Green. He and Alfred Tepen went to the refuge and hunted January 2nd. Green's buck was an eight point animal and weighed 185 pounds. Delbert Allen went to Crab Orchard Monday and bagged a six point buck. Other local hunters who went to the refuge January first and got a deer each are Robert Green, William "Bill" Parish, Robert Darr, Duce Skinner, Russel Raze, Eldon Kanallakan and Joe Darr.

The Jerseyville hunters reported the state was permitting the killing of two thousand deer in the sixteen thousand acre refuge. When that many have been taken, the estimated remaining population will be five thousand of the animals.

They reported the cover for deer in the refuge is now excellent. The hardest part of the hunt in most cases was getting the deer to the checking station. Lloyd Green reported he had to drag his eight point buck a distance of one hundred yards through a fairly open field and then another one hundred and fifty yards through a timber area.

At the checking station this season, the animals are disemboweled and the viscera retained for study in state laboratories to determine if the animals are suffering from any disease or infection.

Irish Costal Town Has 'The Right' Ratio

DINGLE, Ireland (AP) — High, but far from dry, on the westernmost tip of Ireland, Dingle is one of the world's great oases for the drinking man.

With a population of less than 1,000 men, women and children, Dingle has 48 licensed bars.

It even has bars in butcher shops and groceries.

"And why not?" asked dark-eyed Margaret O'Grady. "Suppose you're in the butcher's. You're waiting for your order. Now, what's more natural than stepping over to the other side of the shop and buying a drink?"

Down by the waterfront there is one little stretch of downtown Dingle where there are nine full-fledged bars, huddling together like old friends supporting one another, with nothing to separate them but walls.

Jimmy Flahive's bar is down at the far end, out where the wild Atlantic winds pound in to Dingle Bay.

Why does one small town have so many bars?

"Ah," Jimmy Flahive said, "You're looking at Dingle with prejudice, with a one-sided point of view. Be objective, sir. Look at it logically and say to yourself, 'It's London, and New York and Paris what's wrong. They don't have enough bars. Dingle's got the proportion right.'"

A short, broad-shouldered man, with a face as brown as a whiskey bottle, joined the discussion, reasoning:

"Look at it this way, sir. With a population just under 1,000, and the number of bars just under 50, we have a drinking place for every 20 souls—men, women and children. But as many of the women don't, and as none of the children do, we figure we've got one bar for every eight full-grown drinking men."

Up the road from James Flahive's bar, another foreigner was drinking in Nora Kennedy's bar. He was from Cahirciveen, 18 miles across Dingle Bay, and for that reason a foreigner in Dingle.

Dingle lays claim to being the most westerly town in Europe, to being closer to the United States than any other town in Europe.

"That's not so," said the man from across Dingle Bay. "Cahirciveen's closer to America than Dingle."

A tall man with a rain-soaked overcoat and a blue-red nose, looked up from his stout at the far end of the bar and said: "You talk like a fool. All but an idiot would know that Dingle is more west than Cahirciveen. Look at the bloody map."

As tempers flared I intervened, offering to go to a shop that advertised "Tourist Information" to settle the question.

The shop also sold dry goods and, as the door opened, a bell changed somewhere well back in the unlighted interior. Finally a woman appeared.

"Is this the tourist office?"

"It is."

"You have some information on Dingle?"

"We closed on Oct. 15."

"But you're open."

"The shop's open, but the tourist office is closed," she said.

"Have you any pamphlets about Dingle?"

"They collected them and took them away," she replied, "but if you want to know anything, just write me a letter."

She disappeared into the gloom of the shop.

Elliott Bank Seal Shows Heritage Of Local Area

Three major elements of the Morgan County-Jacksonville heritage have been brought together in the Elliott State Bank Centennial Medallion. The three elements are the strength of its farming background, the spirit of its schools and colleges and the vitality of its industrial community.

Each of these community characteristics has played an important part in making Jacksonville and Morgan County a good place to live. That is why they were symbolized in the bank's Centennial Seal. The farming background is represented by the stalk of corn, the educational spirit by the bell tower, and the industrial vitality by the meshed gears.

Coin, Currency Collections Display Old U.S., Other Countries

A valued collection of rare U.S. coins and currency and interesting foreign and ancient money will be displayed at Elliott State Bank throughout January as part of the bank's 100th Anniversary Celebration.

The display is composed of six valuable collections gathered over the years by the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis; the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company of New York; Harris Trust and Savings Bank; and The American Nat'l. Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago.

The Federal Reserve collection is arranged to present a history of the development of currency in the United States.

The collection of the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company not only includes historic coins of the United States and England but also ancient coins from Egypt, Persia, Judea and Rome. Some of the Egyptian coins were minted in 247 B.C.

Coins of member countries of the United Nations comprise the Harris Trust and Savings Bank display.

The American National Bank and Trust Company exhibit is called a century of United States coins and contains sets of proof coins dating from 1863 to the present.

During its 100 years of service to this community, the Elliott State Bank has seen a great deal of money come and go. But none of it quite as interesting as that on display on the second floor lobby (Trust Department) throughout January.

Red Carpet Down For VIPs At Elliott State

The red carpet is out at Elliott State Bank. This is the bank's way of showing how it feels about the many people it has had the pleasure of serving during the 100 years and the many it will serve in the future in the Jacksonville and Morgan County community.

The red carpet is traditionally reserved for VIPs—and the people at Elliott are following this tradition. They want everyone to know that friends and customers of Elliott State Bank are VIPs—Very Important People.

The warm welcome you get at Elliott State Bank doesn't stop with the red carpet either. During the Centennial Celebration, the bank's tellers will be wearing red jackets to add another touch of welcome for the VIPs.

New Berlin Civic Units Aid Needy During Holidays

NEW BERLIN — The American Legion Auxiliary of Post 743, New Berlin, met January 4 in the legion home. The president, Mrs. Carl Meyer, reported on the Community Christmas fund sponsored by the auxiliary. A total of $156.09, plus canned goods, and good used clothing, was given to the fund by individuals, the Volunteer Fire Fighters, American Legion, New Berlin Woman's Club, the Legion Auxiliary and the Church of Christ, Jacksonville.

Ten needy families received Christmas dinner baskets, and two of these also received the clothing.

The auxiliary expressed deep appreciation to the entire community for the support of the project, and laid plans to establish a Community Christmas Fund for needy of the area, early in the fall of '66.

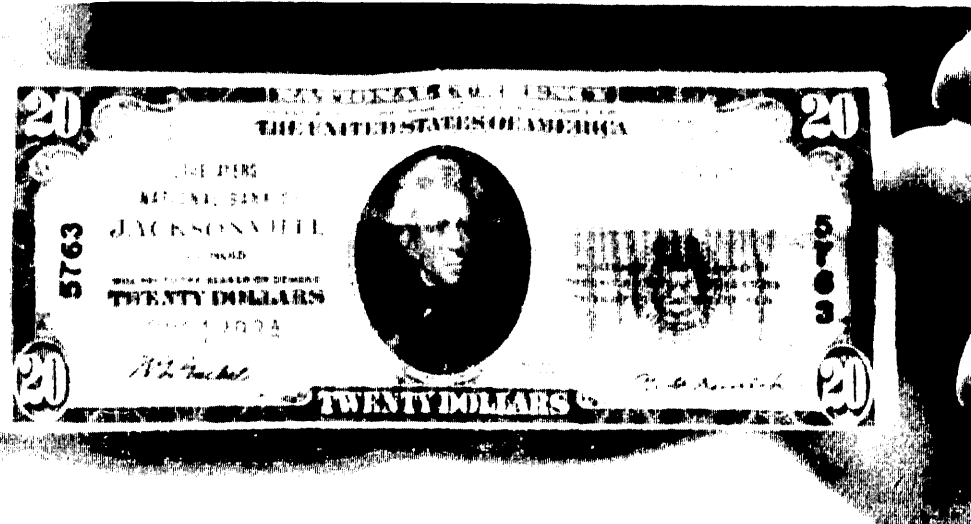

Other civic groups of New Berlin who also gave to needy families at Christmas included the American Legion Post 743 who purchased new clothing for seven children, gave Christmas Dinner baskets to eight families and gave three tons of coal to one family.

St. Mary's Civics Club of St. Mary's Grade school gave four baskets of food and toys to which the Legion Auxiliary added meat for the Christmas dinner.

A total of twenty-two families enjoyed a happier Christmas due to the combined efforts of the civic groups of New Berlin.

OLDTIMER — This $20 bill was discovered amongst a stack of $500 of similar bills this week at the Farmers State Bank. Cashier Leon B. Stewart found this bill, which was issued to the Avers National Bank of Jacksonville in 1929. The bills, apparently a collection which had been cashed in, were from national banks from several states in the union. It was not uncommon for the national mint to print the name of the national bank on the bills, the above of which is national currency.

Fear Soviet Activity Will Bring Chinese Troops

HONG KONG (AP) — A growing number of Chinese in Hong Kong believe increasing Soviet activity in North Viet Nam seriously increases the danger that Red China will send combat troops into the Viet Nam war.

"The depth of Peking's paranoia against Russia, and particularly against any Russian presence in Asia, is being under-estimated by Westerners," says a well-educated Chinese refugee doctor, only 18 months out of Red China and with most of his family still there.

He was referring to the often expressed belief of Western government officials and diplomats here that China will do everything in its power to keep North Viet Nam fighting — everything, that is, short of sending in combat troops.

Cannot Win
Their consensus — and some have official contacts in both Peking and Hanoi — is that the Chinese leadership knows it can not win an all-out war with the United States at this time and thus will not risk such a war by sending combat troops into Viet Nam.

One Western source who has studied the Chinese Communists since the end of World War I says: "China appears convinced that the United States would send its bombers against China if China should send fighting troops into Viet Nam."

"The Chinese Communists are at a power crossroads. They can not now afford an all-out war which they surely know they can not win and which would, therefore, destroy them in China."

"This man and other Westerners in the business of trying to gauge what the Red Chinese will do under any given circumstance do not underestimate the Communist hatred for both the United States and the Soviet leadership."

But they credit Peking with having a realistic outlook which would rule out risking all-out war until China has a stockpile of nuclear weapons and means of delivering those weapons. Most Western intelligence sources here say that is at least seven to 10 years away, unless China gets major missile help from the Soviet Union.

Until recently, most Chinese refugee intellectuals, industrialists and professional men here appeared to agree with that Western appraisal.

Not Realistic
Now, however, some of these Chinese — a number of whom still have good contacts on the China Mainland — believe Western observers are overestimating Peking's realism.

American Trio Sees Honorable Peace Solution

MOSCOW (AP) — A trio of Americans arrived here from Hanoi Saturday and said their conversations there convinced them "that many of the ingredients of an honorable solution" to the Viet Nam war exist.

The leftist group said it spoke for 90 minutes Wednesday with Premier Pham Van Dong of North Viet Nam and also met representatives of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

The group declined to disclose here the substance of what it had learned on a mission sponsored by Viet Report, an American magazine critical of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The group called Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., from Hanoi Tuesday asking a chance to appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee "to make available significant information which we believe is not known to the American people, and perhaps not to the American government," a statement issued here said.

Fulbright was unavailable for comment but two members of his committee expressed doubt in Washington the three could provide any worthwhile information.

Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, second ranking Democrat on the committee, called the three "prejudiced spokesmen" who could offer little not available through diplomatic or intelligence channels, but Sparkman said he would abide by "any decision of Chairman Fulbright on this."

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said that instead of using the committee "for Communist propaganda" the three should be tried for violation of U.S. laws. "I think this presents a clear cut case for the Justice Department to act upon," he said. "If present laws are not adequate then Congress should strengthen them."

Members of the group are Staughton Lynd, 36, an assistant professor of American history at Yale University; Thomas

Hayden, 26, a founder of Students for a Democratic Society, and Herbert Aptheker, 50, the chief theoretician of the U.S. Communist party.

All three have publicly opposed American policy on Viet Nam. Lynd and Hayden have demonstrated against it.

The trio's statement said they had asked Pham whether the U.S. government had made any contact with the North Vietnamese government since President Johnson said Dec. 20 that his administration would knock on all doors in quest of peace.

Pham told them "no," the trio's statement said. "We find it quite disturbing."

If Fulbright does not invite them to appear next week, Lynd said, they would make a full public report in New York Jan. 16. A summary of their findings will be disclosed when they reach New York, Sunday according to present schedule, they said.

They declined to speculate on what would happen when they reach the United States.

Under U.S. law, they could be jailed for five years or fined $5,000 each, or both, for going to China and North Viet Nam without government permission.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made a smashing debut for 1966, carving out its best weekly rise in five months and pushing all popular averages to record highs.

The conciliation of differences between the steel industry and the White House in regard to steel prices supplied a mighty push of new confidence to Wall Street. Steel shares paced a strong rally which drew in a host of other market wheel-horses to give the list the kind of leadership it has not seen in many a moon.

While the cyclical key stocks were rolling ahead, profits were taken on many of the so-called glamour stocks in aerospace, electronics and airlines which rolled up the big gains last year.

Investors were obviously seeking out prospective new favorites for 1966. The week's rally also got help from the normal tendency of investment sources to commit funds in the first week of a new year.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks last week advanced 25.6 to 361.1, a record high. The average made a new high every day. Its gain was the largest since the week ended July 31 when it advanced 7.2.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 16.87 to 986.13, making a record peak for every day of the week's last four sessions.

A similar gain by the Dow industrials next week would place this closely watched barometer above the mark of "Dow 1,000," long regarded as an almost mythical goal.

Cruible Steel, with a 6-point gain, was the most active stock. U.S. Steel, the biggest producer, advanced 2 1/2 to 54 1/2, Bethlehem, the second biggest, rose 1 1/2 to 41 1/2.

Steels actually showed weakness on Monday and irregularity on Tuesday before U.S. Steel announced its $2.75 per ton price increase which the White House found acceptable after Bethlehem's $5 per ton boost for structural steel sparked word of retaliation by Washington.

Of 1,548 issues traded this week, 878 rose and 522 fell. Volume for the week totaled 38,728,054 shares compared with 35,164,470 the previous week.

Treasury bond prices recovered during the past week while corporate and municipal bonds held about even.

The government market wound up 1965 with treasury bond prices at their lows for the year. Some yields were at 40-year highs. As a result some commercial banks began to switch into the treasury securities.

On the New York Stock Exchange bond volume for the week totaled a par value of $51.86 million. That compared with $58.03 million the previous week.

Magnuson Blasts U.S. Promotion Of Tobacco Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, a leading congressional sponsor of a law that requires cigarette packs to carry a health hazard warning, expressed shock Saturday night at a report the Agriculture Department is subsidizing attempts to increase cigarette consumption abroad.

"How can a civilized country promote increased cigarette smoking in foreign countries when its own Congress has decreed that domestic consumers must be warned of the potential hazards of cigarette consumption?" the Washington State Democrat asked in a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, referred to published reports the department is paying Warner Bros. $106,000 to insert scenes designed to stimulate cigarette smoking into a travelogue for distribution in eight countries and is also spending $210,000 to subsidize cigarette commercials in Japan, Thailand and Austria.

An Agriculture Department spokesman said the two programs were prepared under a congressional authorization to expand overseas markets for U.S. farm commodities.

He said one is a feature film on the U.S. tobacco industry and its products, not a travelogue, and will not be distributed where governments have acted to discourage use of tobacco.

Colleges Urge Draft Selection By Testing Plan

FT. STEWART, Ga. (AP) — Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service, said Saturday he has received pressure from colleges to restore Korean wartime draft tests to fill increasing manpower needs.

Hershey said it was his guess that the needs would be similar to those of the Korean War when the draft ran about 80,000 a month. That is more than double the current draft.

"I've been getting a lot of pressure from the colleges to go back to the Korean War test," Hershey said in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press at this Army base where draft directors from ten states met Sunday to discuss ways of filling quotas.

Hershey said the colleges prefer the selective service tests as opposed to the gauge of class standing because this relieves the institutions of involvement in who is drafted.

Hershey said he believes the final decision will be a combination of tests and class standings.

Deferments for college students will become more difficult to obtain, Hershey said. A decision on this will be made after the draft chief talks with his state directors about a possible return to Korean War standards which made it tough to get a deferment.

The conference will be the first of three regional meetings called by Hershey.

"I have always got to prepare for the worst," Hershey, 72, said. "I said two months ago I had a tendency to believe that we are going to stabilize at about 30,000 a month."

"Now I don't know what to think."

"I guess we're trying to get ready for a Korean War affair where it will be about 80,000 a month."

He said the steps of an increased draft, after available 19-year-olds have been taken, would be: 1. College Students 2. The 1Y category — those who failed their draft exams and 3. Childless marriages.

Of the 1Y group, Hershey said he got a concession from the military to take young men scoring as low as 15 on the mental test, as opposed to the 31 points now required.

4th March Held In Alabama City

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — About 300 singing, hand-clapping demonstrators marched into downtown Tuskegee Saturday, blocked a sidewalk on the courthouse square, and left after about an hour.

The demonstrators, mostly Negroes, sat down on the sidewalk but began to move around to keep warm because of a cold wind. The temperature hovered above freezing. Groups of Negroes watched the demonstrators, but few white were seen on the square in this predominantly Negro town of 7,000. Police remained in their cars.

Willie Ricks, a member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, told the group, "This is your fight. We need everybody. We've got to stop this killing."

He urged a group of Negroes to join the demonstrators, and they did.

It was the fourth march since Samuel L. Younge Jr., 21, a Tuskegee Institute student, was killed Monday.

Earlier Saturday, city and county police officers had halted the marchers about two blocks from the school's campus and told them they did not have a parade permit to go downtown.

Public Safety Director Alton L. Taylor told the group that "in the best interest of everyone concerned, you may not proceed any further."

The demonstrators sat down in the street and began singing. Later police allowed the march after conferring with two representatives of the U.S. Community Relations Service, but they mapped the route for the marchers.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Increased production by U.S. farmers to help meet food shortages in other parts of the world was urged Saturday night by Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C.

Cooley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said he would introduce legislation for a "war on hunger" in the coming session of Congress that would expand the present Food For Peace program.

In a paper published by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, Dr. Cornelius P. Cotter called for a constitutional amendment to let Congress overrule the High Court by a two-thirds vote of both houses in two consecutive congressional sessions.

In Prosperous 1965

Spectacular Business Highlights
NEW YORK (AP)— Business highlights in prosperous 1965 were many, and in some cases spectacular.
Top events:
Personal income of Americans rose to an annual rate of $535.9 billion. People spent money at a record rate and saved at a record pace. They spent enthusiastically on automobiles, color television sets, appliances and clothing.
The automobile industry enjoyed its fourth consecutive big year. In the 1965 model year, a record 8.85 million passenger cars were assembled, surpassing the old record of 7,892,000 set in 1964.
The steel industry came up against a United Steelworkers Union strike deadline twice before agreement was reached under prodding of President Johnson. The union got a package of 47.3 cents an hour over 35 months.
The aluminum and copper industries raised prices but were forced to rescind the action under pressure from the Johnson administration.
The prices of such goods as overcoats, men's suits, shoes, tin cans, color television sets and aluminum siding went up.
The government eased depreciation rules to allow faster tax writeoffs. This meant a saving of $700 million a year for business.
Congress enacted a $4.7-billion excise tax cut bill. It wiped out the 10 per cent federal tax on luggage, handbags, furs, jewelry, cosmetics, television sets, household appliances, cameras, musical instruments, phonographs and records, business machines, pens and pencils.
The economy was jolted by two long maritime strikes that idled hundreds of vessels. Sixty thousand dock workers went on strike in January. A 78-day shipping strike in the summer paralyzed ports from Maine to Texas.
The stock market rose steadily in the first part of the year and the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks reached an all-time high in May. Then prices skidded sharply. They staged a comeback and another new high was attained by the Dow Jones average in November.
Business felt the impact of the escalating war in Viet Nam. Aircraft and electronics firms received big orders for war materials and the effect seeped far down into the economy.

'God Is Dead' Leader Takes Words Literally

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A leader in the "God is dead" movement says he takes the phrase literally, holding that God died in Christ on the cross.
"Christianity resurrected the body of Christ," said Dr. Thomas J. J. Altizer, 38, "but that which the Church knew as the resurrected body of Christ is rather the dead body of God."
Dr. Altizer, dark-haired and boyish-looking, is an instructor in liberal arts at Emory, a Methodist university. He describes himself as "an inactive Episcopalian."
His views have stirred a storm of protest in Emory circles, but Dr. Altizer is unrepentant.
He said he and other leaders of the "God is dead" movement, including William Hamilton of Colgate University and Paul Van Buren of Temple University, are simply trying "to work out a new form of Christian theology."
For non-theologians, Dr. Altizer's pronouncements may be somewhat difficult to follow.
He was asked whether he felt that the concept of God is dead. "Absolutely not," he replied. "The crucial theological significance is that God is dead, literally."
"He died in Christ, but His death has only become manifest with the collapse of Christendom. The dead God was resurrected in an alien form by Christianity. When this form of Christianity collapsed, then the reality of the death of God became manifest."
"We believe there is a whole new reality of Christian redemption now present — a new reality of Christ in the world today. This reality has to be understood in a wholly new way and by a wholly new language."
Up to the time of the Reformation, Dr. Altizer said, "God was alive and real as our transcendent father and acted redemptively and judgmentally in history."
One Emory graduate was so upset by the disclosure of Dr. Altizer's religious radicalism that he put an advertisement in an Atlanta newspaper saying: "If this disturbs you (God is dead) as it does me and a few other Emory alumni, write the office of the president of Emory and tell them why you, like me, are not donating to the $25-million building fund."
A university trustee, William R. Bowdoin, called Dr. Altizer "an irresponsible individual who used powerfully bad judgment" and declared "I wish he'd leave promptly."

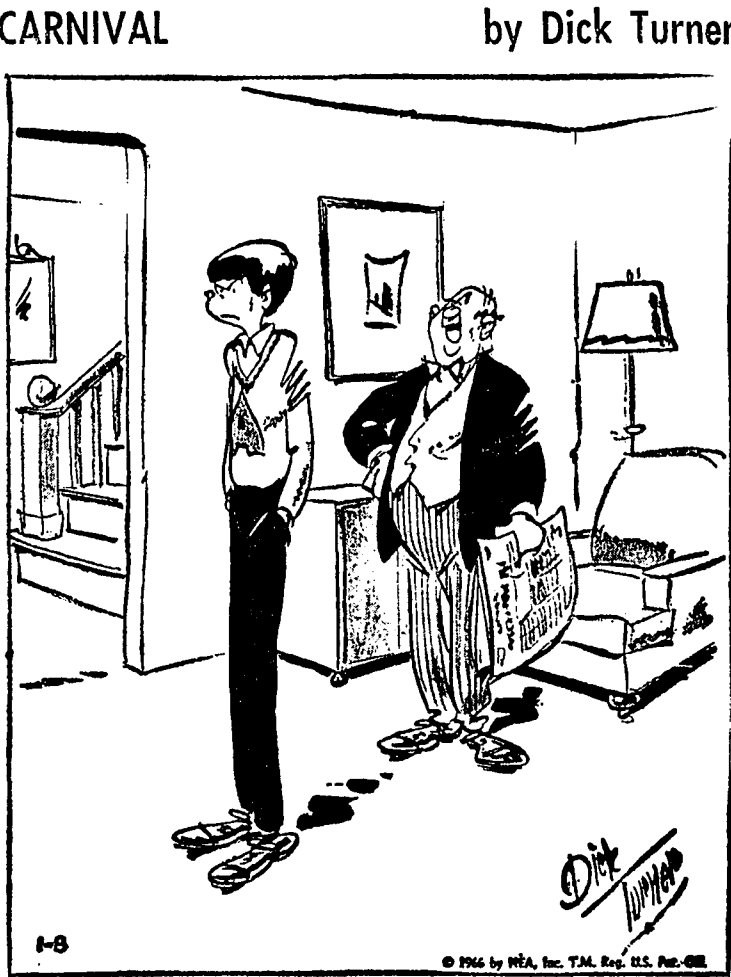

Dr. Sanford Atwood, Emory's president, commented: "Dr. Altizer is a professor who feels he had an idea worth discussing and he has a right to do it."
Dr. William R. Cannon, dean of the Theological School, assured students, alumni and trustees that "God is not dead at Emory. He is very much alive."
But, Dr. Cannon said, "we exercise the privilege of discussion and dialogue and debate."
Dr. Altizer, who attended St. John's College in Maryland and holds three degrees from the University of Chicago, is married and has a 6-month-old son. He came to Emory in 1956 after two years of teaching at Washburn College in Indiana.
He says he has been profoundly influenced in his thinking by Buddhism and other Oriental concepts.

IT MAKES YOUR HOUSE LOOK BIGGER.

Cars are getting to be bigger, so houses are getting to look smaller.
But one little Volkswagen can put everything back in its proper perspective.
A VW parked in front does big things for your house. And your garage. To say nothing of small parking spots.
On the other hand, a VW does make some things smaller.
Gas bills, for instance. (At 29 mpg, they'll probably be half what you pay now.)
You'll probably never add oil between changes. You'll certainly never need antifreeze. Tires go 40,000 miles. And even insurance costs less.
One thing you'd think might be smaller in a Volkswagen is the inside.
But there's as much legroom in front of a VW as in the biggest cars.
When you think about it, you really have only two choices:
You can buy a bigger house for who-knows-how-much.
Or a Volkswagen for $1683.00.

South Rally Gains 27-18 Win In Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The South wiped out an 11-point deficit by blending the running of Bob Burnett with the passing of Randy Johnson and defeated the North 27-18 in the Senior Bowl football game Saturday.

Burnett, the powerful Arkansas halfback, scored twice on two-yard plunges in the South's second half surge in the nationally televised football game.

Johnson, Texas A&I quarterback, threw two touchdown passes, hitting Jim Lindsey of Arkansas with an 11-yard scoring strike in the second quarter and tossing five yards to Charles Casey of Florida in the third quarter that put the South in front to stay. Gary Lane of Missouri had powered the North to an 18-7 halftime lead, throwing two touchdown passes and scoring once himself on a three-yard plunge.

But the South, ignited by a pass interception by Doug Buffone of Louisville, cut the gap to 18-14 in the first three minutes of the third quarter. After the South took ahead, an interception by David Ray of Alabama with 83 seconds left clinched the victory for the Rebels.

The South boosted its lead in the series to 11-5 despite the record pass catching of Tulsa's Howard Twilley, who grabbed 12 tosses for a Senior Bowl record and was named the game's outstanding player.

Lane sent the North off to a flying start when he passed 37 yards to Oklahoma State's Walt Garrison for a touchdown, and hit Bucknell's Tom Mitchell with a 13-yard scoring strike after a blocked field goal.

The North was trying to kick when Bob Kowalkowski of Virginia smashed the ball down. Lane grabbed it and tossed to Mitchell for the score.

Palmer Soars Into Golf Lead With Nine Under

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Arnold Palmer turned the Los Angeles Open golf tournament into a shambles Saturday, blasting out a record-tying nine-under par 62 and a 54-hole score of 200-13 strokes under par.

The fantastic round, in which Palmer put together a string of seven straight birdies, sends him into the final 18 holes Sunday with a lead of seven strokes over Bill Casper, Jr.

Palmer, who had a poor year in 1965, toured the Rancho Municipal Golf Course in 33-29 for his 62, which equaled the tournament record set by Phil Rodgers in 1962.

Dave Ragan, who led the field going into the third round with a one-shot advantage over Palmer and Rex Baxter, Jr., fell back with a 72 and into a group standing at 209 that included Barker, Dave Marr, Paul Harney and others.

Casper, the pre-tournament choice, shot a 66. He was asked how it was to have a five-under par round and still trail by seven. He could only shrug his shoulders.

Palmer began his fabulous run of birdies on the eighth hole and didn't let up until the 15th.

Wisconsin Upsets Rated Iowa 69-68

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin upset seventh-ranked Iowa, 69-68, Saturday, spoiling the favored Hawkeyes' Big Ten basketball opener.

Iowa scrambled back from a nine-point deficit and had a chance to win it with two seconds to go. But Gary Olson, fouled in a frantic rebound scramble, missed both free throw chances.

The Badgers, 1-1 in the Big Ten, led 15-13 at halftime.

Ken Gustafson led Wisconsin with 17 points. Gerry Jones had 17 for Iowa but Chris Pervall, the team's leading scorer, was held to 15.

Iowa made good use of its full court press early in the game and stepped out to a 24-12 lead in the first eight minutes. Gustafson hit two straight field goals to tie the count at 31-31.

The lead then changed hands five times before Gustafson and Mike Carlson scored on drive-ins to put Wisconsin ahead 40-35 at the half.

The Badger offense picked up steam in the second half, with seven minutes left, Wisconsin led 60-51. Iowa got back into the ball game on three straight field goals by sophomore Houston Breedlove. That sent it into a wild finish.

American Trio
Sees Honorable
Peace Solution

MOSCOW (AP) — A trio of Americans arrived here from Hanoi Saturday and said their conversations there convinced them "that many of the ingredients of an honorable solution" to the Viet Nam war exist.

The leftist group said it spoke for 90 minutes Wednesday with Premier Pham Van Dong of North Viet Nam and also met representatives of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

The group declined to disclose the substance of what it had learned on a mission sponsored by Viet Report, an American magazine critical of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The group cabled Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., from Hanoi Tuesday asking a chance to appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee "to make available significant information which we believe is not known to the American people, and perhaps not to the American government," a statement issued here said.

Fulbright was unavailable for comment but two members of his committee expressed doubt in Washington the three could provide any worthwhile information.

Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, second ranking Democrat on the committee, called the three "prejudiced spokesmen" who could offer little or no available through diplomatic or intelligence channels, but Sparkman said he would abide by "any decision of Chairman Fulbright on this."

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said that instead of using the committee "for Communist propaganda" the three should be tried for violation of U.S. laws. "I think this presents a clear cut case for the Justice Department to act upon" he said. "If present laws are not adequate then Congress should strengthen them."

Members of the group are Staughton Lynd, 36, an assistant professor of American history at Yale University; Thomas

Hayden, 26, a founder of Students for a Democratic Society, and Herbert Aptheker, 50, the chief theoretician of the U.S. Communist party.

All three have publicly opposed American policy on Viet Nam. Lynd and Hayden have demonstrated against it.

The trio's statement said they had asked Pham whether the U.S. government had made any contact with the North Vietnamese government since President Johnson said Dec. 20 that his administration would knock on all doors in quest of peace.

Pham told them "no," the trio's statement said. "We find it quite disturbing."

If Fulbright does not invite them to appear next week, Lynd said, they would make a full public report in New York Jan. 16. A summary of their findings will be disclosed when they reach New York, Sunday according to present schedule, they said.

They declined to speculate on what would happen when they reach the United States.

Under U.S. law, they could be jailed for five years or fined $5,000 each, or both, for going to China and North Viet Nam without government permission.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made a smashing debut for 1966, carving out its best weekly rise in five months and pushing all popular averages to record highs.

The conciliation of differences between the steel industry and the White House in regard to steel prices supplied a mighty push of new confidence to Wall Street. Steel shares paced a strong rally which drew in a host of other market wheel-horses to give the list the kind of leadership it has not seen in many a moon.

While the cyclical key stocks were rolling ahead, profits were taken on many of the so-called glamour stocks in aerospace, electronics and air lines which rolled up the big gains last year.

Investors were obviously seeking out prospective new favorites for 1966. The week's rally also got help from the normal tendency of investment sources to commit funds in the first week of a new year. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks last week advanced 25.6 to 364.1, a record high. The average made a new high every day. Its gain was the largest since the week ended July 31 when it advanced 7.2.

The Dow Jones industrial average week rose 16.87 to 986.13, making a record peak for every day of the week's last four sessions.

A similar gain by the Dow Industrials next week would place this closely-watched barometer above the mark of "Dow 1,000," long regarded as an almost mythical goal.

Crucible Steel, with a 6-point gain, was the most active stock. U.S. Steel, the biggest producer, advanced 2 1/2 to 54 1/2, and Bethlehem, the second biggest, rose 1 1/2 to 41 1/2.

Steels actually showed weakness on Monday and irregularity on Tuesday before U.S. Steel announced its $2.75 per ton price increase which the White House found acceptable after Bethlehem's $5 per ton boost for structural steel sparked a wave of retaliation by Washington.

Of 1,548 issues traded this week, 873 rose and 522 fell. Volume for the week totaled 38,728,054 shares compared with 35,164,470 the previous week. Treasury bond prices recovered during the past week while corporate and municipal bonds held about even.

The government market wound up 1965 with treasury bond prices at their lows for the year. Some yields were at 40-year highs. As a result some commercial banks began to switch into the treasury securities.

On the New York Stock Exchange bond volume for the week totaled a par value of $51.86 million. That compared with $56.03 million the previous week.

4th March Held
In Alabama City

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — About 300 singing, hand-clapping demonstrators marched into downtown Tuskegee Saturday, blocked a sidewalk on the courthouse square, and left after about an hour.

The demonstrators, mostly Negroes, sat down on the sidewalk but began to move around to keep warm because of a cold wind. The temperature hovered above freezing. Groups of Negroes watched the demonstrators, but few white were seen on the square in this predominantly Negro town of 7,000. Police remained in their cars.

Willie Ricks, a member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, told the group, "This is your fight. We need every body. We've got to stop this killing."

He urged a group of Negroes to join the demonstrators, and they did.

It was the fourth march since Samuel L. Young Jr., 21, a Tuskegee Institute student, was killed Monday.

Earlier Saturday, city and country police officers had halted the marchers about two blocks from the school's campus and told them they did not have a parade permit to go downtown.

Public Safety Director Alton L. Taylor told the group that "in the best interest of everyone concerned, you may not proceed any further."

The demonstrators sat down in the street and began singing. Later police allowed the march after conferring with two representatives of the U.S. Community Relations Service, but they mapped the route for the marchers.

Magnuson Blasts
U.S. Promotion
Of Tobacco Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, a leading congressional sponsor of a law that requires cigarette packs to carry a health hazard warning, expressed shock Saturday night at a report the Agriculture Department is subsidizing attempts to increase cigarette consumption abroad.

"How can a civilized country promote increased cigarette smoking in foreign countries when its own Congress has decreed that domestic consumers must be warned of the potential hazards of cigarette consumption?" the Washington State Democrat asked in a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, referred to published reports the department is paying Warner Bros. $106,000 to insert scenes designed to stimulate cigarette smoking into a travelogue for distribution in eight countries and is also spending $210,000 to subsidize cigarette commercials in Japan, Thailand and Austria.

An Agriculture Department spokesman said the two programs were prepared under a congressional authorization to expand overseas markets for U.S. farm commodities.

He said one is a feature film on the U.S. tobacco industry and its products, not a travelogue, and will not be distributed where governments have acted to discourage use of tobacco.

Colleges Urge Draft Selection
By Testing Plan

FT. STEWART, Ga. (AP) — Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service, said Saturday he has received pressure from colleges to restore Korean wartime draft tests to fill increasing manpower needs.

Hershey said it was his guess that the needs would be similar to those of the Korean War when the draft ran about 80,000 a month. That is more than double the current draft.

"I've been getting a lot of pressure from the colleges to go back to the Korean War test," Hershey said in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press at this Army base where draft directors from ten states meet Sunday to discuss ways of filling quotas.

Hershey said the colleges prefer the selective service tests as opposed to the gauge of class standing because this relieves the institutions of involvement in who is drafted.

Hershey said he believes the final decision will be a combination of tests and class standing.

Deferments for college students will become more difficult to obtain, Hershey said. A decision on this will be made after the draft chief talks with his state directors about a possible return to Korean War standards which made it tough to get a deferment.

The conference will be the first of three regional meetings called by Hershey.

"I have always got to prepare for the worst," Hershey, 72, said. "I said two months ago I had a tendency to believe that we are going to stabilize at about 30,000 a month."

"Now I don't know what to think."

He said the steps of an increased draft, after available 19-year-olds have been taken, would be: 1. College Students 2. The IV category — those who failed their draft exams and 3. Childless marriages.

Of the IV group, Hershey said he got a concession from the military to take young men scoring as low as 15 on the mental tests as opposed to the 31 points now required.

Washington
Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Increased production by U.S. farmers to help meet food shortages in other parts of the world was urged Saturday night by Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C.

Cooley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said he would introduce legislation for a "war on hunger" in the coming session of Congress that would expand the present Food For Peace Program.

The proposed legislation would not remove present controls on farm production, he said, but would permit increased production directly for worldwide distribution.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Education estimated Saturday night that the number of students seeking degrees at colleges and universities in the fall of 1974 will number 8.7 million.

That would be a 74 per cent increase over the five million enrolled in the fall of 1964.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress should have authority to override Supreme Court decisions that declare its legislation unconstitutional, a Wichita State University political scientist said Saturday night.

In a paper published by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, Dr. Cornelius P. Cotter called for a constitutional amendment to let Congress override the High Court by a two-thirds vote of both houses in two consecutive congressional sessions.

Jacks Blow Big Lead But Win 8th

By BUFORD GREEN

Jacksonville folded under a press for the second night in a row but still had enough left to squeeze out a slim 46-44 Capitol Conference triumph over Decatur MacArthur, at the JHS Bowl Saturday night.

Leading by 15 at halftime and by 16 at one point in the third quarter, the Crimsos fell completely apart after that and the surging Generals threw a king-sized score into the hosts in the closing minutes.

MacArthur's John Renner had a chance to send the game into overtime with a one-and-one free throw chance after time had run out but missed the first. Three times in the final three minutes the Decatur team was within two points and had the ball but never did tie the game.

The winning margin turned out to be three free throws by Ron Coleman, the last one coming with five seconds left in the game. Coleman and Gary Ginder were the Crimsos' only offensive punch in the game. Coleman's 21 and Ginder's 20 accounted for all but five of the Jacks' total.

After all but playing dead in the first half, in which they got only 13 points, the Generals threw a full-court press at the Crimsos to start the second half, picked up their shooting from the outside and were quickly back in the ball game.

While MacArthur came alive offensively in the second half, Jacksonville reacted just the opposite. The hosts hit six field goals in the second half, all in the third quarter, and scored a total of 14 points in the final two periods.

Start Off Hot
Ginder and the Crimsos started off in fine offensive fashion, with Ginder scoring the first eight points in the game, two 15-footers, one on a layup thanks to an assist by Coleman and another on an assist by Mike Tendick. Coleman sank a 15-footer for an 8-0 JHS lead before MacArthur got a shot off. The Crimsos' full-court press forced the Generals into mistakes the first four times they had the ball.

Ginder hit two more buckets and Coleman one on an assist by Tendick, as Jacksonville led 14-8 at the close of the opening frame. MacArthur went scoreless the first four minutes in the period.

Coleman and Ginder scored all the Crimsos' points in the second period except for a 15-footer by Abe Brown, and Jacksonville increased their lead to 28-13 at intermission as MacArthur hit only two of their ten shots from the floor in the period.

After Jacksonville's lead grew to 37-21 on a Ginder tip midway in the third round, the Crimsos folded and the rallying Generals began to close the game.

Generals Come Back
MacArthur's Joe Doolin hit four straight from the corner and the Generals ripped off nine straight, thanks to four Crimsos turnovers, and closed the gap to 40-35 with 52 seconds left in the stanza. Tendick, a 5-9 junior guard starting his first game of the season, hit one from the top of the key with one second left to post a 42-35 count entering the final eight minutes.

Coleman, who missed the last two minutes of the third quarter and the first four of the final period with four fouls, hit two of three throw chances in the next 30 seconds to boost the lead to 45-41 with 2:12 to play.

Doolin canned another from the deep corner and Jim Blankinsip hit the first of two free throw chances to make it 45-44 with :26 left.

Down To Wire
Coleman put the Jacks up by two with the first of two free throws with five seconds remaining. MacArthur's Renner was fouled by Robin Manker with time out but missed the first to insure the Crimsos victory.

For the game Jacksonville hit an even 40% on 18 of 45 from the field, while MacArthur canned 17 of 36 for a hot 47% clip. JHS outrebounded the losers 24-18, and were assessed with 12 turnovers to 14 by the Generals.

The win boosts Jacksonville's overall record to 8-4, 2-1 in the conference where they are now tied for the lead with Decatur Eisenhower and Springfield Griffin. MacArthur dropped to 5-5 and 0-3.

Elmhurst Avenges Loss To IC, 92-80

ELMHURST — The Illinois College Blueboys dropped their first game of the new year to Elmhurst, here Saturday night, by a score of 92-80.

Elmhurst jumped off to an early lead and ran it up to a 48-31 margin at halftime behind the hot shooting of guard Leo Boughton with 21 and reserve Don Anderman with 23 for the night.

IC lost the ball on many turnovers and were forced to shoot from the outside by the tight Elmhurst defense. The Blueboys found themselves unable to work the ball into their big men under the basket, Paul Runkle and Larry Greathouse.

At the beginning of the second half, IC came out with a 1-2-2 zone defense which enabled them to pull within eight points of the Elmhurst Bluejays at one time.

Charles Martin with 13, Dan Runkle with 12, Dick Clough with 11 paced the Blueboys in this non-conference tilt.

IC now holds a 3-4 record for the campaign including an 85-75 win over Elmhurst on December 10, on IC's home floor. The Blueboys travel to Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, on Tuesday, January 11, to meet Iowa Wesleyan and return home Friday, January 14 to play Greenville College and Rose Poly on January 15.

Matte Holds Key For Colts Today In Playoff Bowl

MIAMI (AP) — Will Tom Matte pass or run?

That's the question that will be bugging the Dallas Cowboys when they square off against the Baltimore Colts here Sunday in the National Football League's Playoff Bowl involving conference runners-up.

The Colts, who lost quarterback Johnny Unitas and Gary Cuozzo in the final two weeks of the season, are 3½-point underdogs to a fast-moving Dallas team that won five of its last seven games.

The game, with a 1:45 p.m. EST kickoff in the 72,200 capacity Orange Bowl, will be televised nationally by CBS.

Despite loss of its quarterback punch for the final two games, the Colts beat Los Angeles 20-17 to tie for the Western Conference championship and then lost an overtime thriller 13-10 in the playoff to the Green Bay Packers.

The Packers went on to beat Cleveland for the league crown.

The Colts finished with a 10-3 record compared with the Cowboys' erratic 7-7-0. The Cowboys, who lost the services of quarterback Don Meredith in mid-season, dropped five in a row after starting with two victories.

Now Meredith, who throws bullets to speedster Bobby Hayes and Buddy Dial, is healthy again and has the Cowboys moving while the Colts have found a signal-calling savior in Mattie, a halfback who hadn't passed since his undergraduate days at Ohio State.

Matte, a stocky 205-pound competitor, threw only seven passes in the Los Angeles game and 12 against Green Bay. In practice for the Playoff Bowl, however, he has been planting himself in a pocket and shooting sharp passes to ace receivers Raymond Berry and Jimmy Orr.

"We had to be cautious in our games with Los Angeles and Green Bay and couldn't afford to make any mistakes," said Baltimore Coach Don Shula.

"Against Dallas, we figure we're going to have to loosen up a bit."

Lewis' Hot Second Half Decides Game

By SANDY PETERSEN

A late Lewis surge ended a 'Chuck Hundley for President' campaign Saturday night, as the fast-breaking Flyers posted an impressive 87-78 triumph over a stubborn MacMurray quintet on the Highlanders' court.

Hitting the nets on 18 of 32 attempts during the second half, Lewis came from a 45-42 intermission deficit to tie the contest with 7:30 remaining, and surged into front in the closing minutes of play for the victory.

Junior guard Hundley sparked the underdog Highlanders' effort for the night, dropping in 28 points, 19 of which came in the first half, and grabbing off 18 rebounds.

Hundley repeatedly rose to the occasion during both frames to drive the Highlanders back on top, only to have the impossible to defense Flyers attack counter the effort.

Using the patent Lewis offense, the visitors garnered an amazing 50.5% shooting clip from the floor, while the Highlanders managed a more than respectable 40.2% clip.

Lewis guard Bob Blackburn and teammate forward Harry Mosier, who combined for 40 markers, led the fast-breaking unit which settled for 15 to 18 lookers on 2-on-1 and 3-on-2 situations all night.

The clubs exchanged buckets during the opening minutes of play, with Lewis finally gaining the first substantial bulge at 20-12 midway through the round.

Hundley Gets Hot
Not to be denied, the Hundley-led Highlanders fought back to a 22-20 deficit, with the 'presidential nominee' nailing three straight jumpers from the 17-20 foot range.

Playing even ball during the following minutes, the Clan closed the gap to take a 36-34 advantage with 3:00 to be played in the half.

Hundley and reserve forward Al Killoran sparked the surge with 11 points to their credit, while guard Tom Cochran chipped in four.

Four more by Hundley moved the margin to 42-39 before an even exchange of tallies left the intermission tally 45-42, MacMurray.

A Lewis cold spell, which first took its toll in the closing minutes of the first half, continued to plague the visitors, as the Clan opened the spread to 48-42, and later added one more to the bulge, holding a 58-51 advantage with five minutes gone in the frame.

Lewis guard Harry Mosier, who gained 19 in the battle, then vanguarded the Flyers' surge for the triumph, eventually tying the contest at 65-65 with four straight two-pointers.

After again coming from behind to knot the encounter at 70-70, Lewis moved out on top for good as their balanced attack turned on their range-finders to gain an 81-74 spread to coast in with the win.

The win moves Lewis to an 8-2 slate on the season, while the Clan dropped to an even 6-6 record.

Beaty Insures 59-58 Havana Win Over Rushville
HAVANA — Ken Beaty hit two free throws after the final buzzer to give Havana a 59-58 win over Rushville in a Spoon River Conference game here Saturday night.

Beaty with 24 points and Jon Brown with 21 led Havana to its eighth win of the campaign in a game that saw the score tied seven times. Bob Rexroat and Mike Freitag paced the losers with 13 points a piece.

With Rushville up 58-57, Beaty was fouled in the act of shooting just as the final horn sounded. Stepping to the free throw line, Beaty connected on both free throws to give Havana a one point victory.

Havana, hitting 19-40 from the floor for 47% is 2-2 in conference action and 5-8 for the season. Rushville, scoring on 44% of their field goal attempts, is 2-2 in conference play and holds a season record of 4-7.

PRO GRID MONEY WAR CONFUSING

Every football fan in the country is well aware of the astronomical figures being tossed around by the two rival professional football leagues in their bidding for the top college stars of this year. Six-figure estimates are not uncommon, and there seems no end in sight.

With most of the top stars of this, and future, college seasons already under wraps, one can do a little totaling and see just how ridiculous this entire money battle has become.

For instance, if the figures being tossed around by those who are in a position to know are true, 20 of the top players already signed by various pro teams cost over $7 million, just what the United States paid for Alaska.

If that sounds unbelievable, consider: 1. astronaut Frank Borman, while setting space records hurtling around the world in his space capsule, found time to try to persuade Texas star Tommy Nobis to sign with the AFL Houston Oilers; 2. Texas A&M star Donny Anderson is said to have turned down an $887,000 package offer; 3. as soon as USC star and Heisman Trophy winner Mike Garrett signed with Kansas City of the AFL, rumors started flying to the effect that he signed with the Chiefs only because he had been promised the franchise would be shifted so he could play in Los Angeles.

All this and more for players who have not played a minute of pro ball yet. Imagine how, as they have themselves noted, all this spending makes the established veterans of the NFL and AFL feel. While they are playing full time for fractions of what the not-yet rookies draw, it seems reasonable to expect a bit of animosity.

One can realize that as long as one league offers outlandish figures, the other has to do likewise to stay in competition for the big name college stars. One can also understand that an agreement between the two as to limits and recruiting procedures could very easily put a stop to the money war.

With years of tradition and probably money ahead, the NFL again won the annual race, both in quality and quantity. In all, to date, the NFL has signed 75 percent of the 232 players they drafted that are immediately eligible to sign contracts to turn professional, 175 to the 40 thus far inked by the AFL. Eighteen are still unsigned. On the other side, the AFL has brought into camp 46 per cent of its 181 draftees, losing 78 of those to the NFL. One-hundred-fifteen players in all were drafted by both leagues, with the NFL getting 79 and the AFL 28. Four are still unsigned.

Nine of the NFL teams were successful in signing their top draft choices, but you can bet they had to pay handsomely for them.

We're sure there is a solution to this mess. As soon as the two leagues begin to fully recognize the other, you may expect to see owners quickly put an end to this and save themselves quite a bit of money.

The best gesture we've heard of in response to this highest-bidder game was Chicago Bear owner-coach George Halas' move when he felt his top draft choice was playing both ends against the middle to get the most money. He simply told the rest of the NFL teams, "Any team in the NFL can have draft rights to him, we don't want him if it's just going to be a battle to see who has the most money."

Pittsfield Nips Winchester 56-49 On Early Spurt

WINCHESTER — Pittsfield jumped out ahead of a cold Winchester team in the first quarter here Saturday night and went on to gain a 56-49 victory.

Winchester got off to a slow start in the first quarter missing their first 17 field goal attempts, as Pittsfield took a 14-1 lead. The two teams played evenly for the remainder of the game, but Winchester was not able to make for their early 13 point deficit.

The loss by Winchester gives them a 4-9 season total. Pittsfield is 10-2 for the season.

Illinois pulled away to a 29-23 advantage and led 53-41 at the half.

U. OF BUFFALO COACH QUILTS
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Dick Offenhamer, head football coach at the University of Buffalo, resigned Saturday because "it is a time to call a halt" to 30 years of football.

Furnas said no successor has been named.
Offenhamer, who was a half-back at Colgate under Coach Andy Kerr, came to Buffalo in 1955 after serving as coach of Colgate's freshman team.

In 11 years, his Buffalo team played 100 games, winning 58, losing 37 and tying five.

OVER THE TOP: MacMurray's Chuck Hundley goes in for a layup under the outstretched hand of Lewis College's Harry Mosier as two more Lewis defenders converge on the play. Hundley scored 28 points but Lewis whipped the Highlanders 87-78.

South Rally Gains 27-18 Win In Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The South wiped out an 11-point deficit by blending the running of Bob Burnett with the passing of Randy Johnson and defeated the North 27-18 in the Senior Bowl football game Saturday.

Burnett, the powerful Arkansas halfback, scored twice on two-yard plunges in the South's second half surge in the nationally televised football game.

Johnson, Texas A&I quarterback, threw two touchdown passes, hitting Jim Lindsey of Arkansas with an 11-yard scoring strike in the second quarter and tossing five yards to Charles Casey of Florida in the third quarter that put the South

Palmer Soars Into Golf Lead With Nine Under

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Arnold Palmer turned the Los Angeles Open golf tournament into a shambles Saturday, blasting out a record-tying nine-under par 62 and a 54-hole score of 200-13 strokes under par.

The fantastic round, in which Palmer put together a string of seven straight birdies, sends him into the final 18 holes Sunday with a lead of seven strokes over Bill Casper, Jr.

Palmer, who had a poor year in 1965, toured the Rancho Municipal Golf Course in 33-39 for his 62, which equaled the tournament record set by Phil Rodgers in 1962.

Dave Ragan, who led the field going into the third round with a one-shot advantage over Palmer and Rex Baxter, Jr., fell back with a 72 and into a group standing at 209 that included Baxter, Dave Marr, Paul Harney and others.

Casper, the pre-tournament choice, shot a 66. He was asked how it was to have a five-under par round and still trail by seven. He could only shrug his shoulders.

Palmer began his fabulous run of birdies on the eighth hole and didn't let up until the 15th.

Wisconsin Upsets Rated Iowa 69-68

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin upset seventh-ranked Iowa 69-68 Saturday, spoiling the favored Hawkeyes' Big Ten basketball opener.

Iowa scrambled back from a nine-point deficit and had a chance to win it with two seconds left. But Gary Olson, fouled in a frantic rebound scramble, missed both free throw chances.

Iowa made good use of its full court press early in the game and stepped out to a 24-12 lead in the first eight minutes. Gustafson hit the tie count at 31-31.

The lead then changed hands five times before Gustafson and Mike Carlin scored on drives-in to put Wisconsin ahead 40-35 at the half.

The Badger offense picked up steam in the second half, with seven minutes left, Wisconsin led 60-51. Iowa got back into the ball game on three straight field goals by sophomore Houston Breedlove. That sent it into a wild finish.

Travelers' Landmark For Half A Century Undergoing Changes

A landmark for weary travelers in Central Illinois for almost a half century is presently undergoing extensive remodeling which is expected to be completed sometime in mid-1966.

According to a statement released Saturday, work is presently underway on the Dunlap Motor Inn, which will include conversion of many rooms in the hotel into efficiency and one-bedroom apartments with modern kitchenettes.

The statement released, "The Dunlap Motor Inn, one of Jacksonville's largest and best-known buildings and institutions is now undergoing extensive renovation and modernization according to an announcement by Mrs. Millicent R. Samuel, president of the Jacksonville Hotel Inc., owner of the property, and by Fred Law who is associated with the owners in the renovation program.

"John A. Mayes of the American Institute of Architects, of Glen Ellyn, has been retained as the architect, and on the first floor he is designing substantial additional office space, some of which is already allocated.

"A new arrangement of restaurant and cocktail lounge facilities is being planned. A new zone-control system of cooling and ventilating will be added.

New Windows, Doors
"The outside will be modernized by replacing existing wooden sash windows and doors with aluminum frames and new large size plate glass. The West State street entrance will be framed in white cut stone.

"In the building's four upper floors, which are already fully air-conditioned, the modernization program will include conversion of many bedrooms to efficiency and one-bedroom apartments with modern kitchenettes and re-designed bathrooms.

"Much new piping, wiring, and interior decorating will be included. A new automatic elevator has been ordered for installation in May.

"Crabtree-Neff, Inc. is serving as general contractor. "The work is to progress in stages permitting present guests and commercial tenants to continue their occupancy during renovation with a minimum of inconvenience.

"Many rooms continue to be reserved for transient overnight guests.

"The restaurant and cocktail lounge facilities will be available during this period for both resident guests and the public, as will rooms for smaller private dinner and luncheon groups and meetings.

"Law, who has devoted many years to urban real estate and its modernization, stated that competent real estate opinion places the reproduction cost of the building with its five floors of fire resistant type construction, air-conditioning and elevators, plus land and parking lot, at well over $1,000,000.

Good Location
"This takes into account a location which has been classified as undoubtedly 'the best' in close proximity to churches, court house, banks, savings and loan, and many shops and offices, and which has within the building not only restaurant and cocktail lounge, but barber and beauty shops as well.

"The owners state that upon completion of the entire project this summer, Jacksonville will have one of the finest residential facilities in downstate Illinois with the best in restaurant and cocktail lounge as well as attractive office space."

The Dunlap Hotel was constructed almost within one year to the day.

A grand opening was held December 15, 1925 when the building was completed. Estimated cost of building was $400,000.

Jarvis Hunt of Chicago served as the architect, and the contract was let to J. B. French & Company of Chicago, who began demolishing the old buildings on the site December 1, 1924.

The new Dunlap was a community sponsored project, which began with an original group of 100 men, who pledged to take 2,000 shares of stock, or sell that amount to others.

Then came the general drive, which was spearheaded by the Chamber of Commerce. Subscriptions were secured from more than 600 persons.

First Directors
Directors elected from among the subscribers to head the proposed corporation were W. B. Brown, H. M. Capps, E. E. Crabtree, M. F. Dunlap, Harrison King, J. W. Merrigan, J. Rodgers, R. Y. Rowe and J. W. Walton.

Officers were Millard F. Dunlap, president; H. M. Capps, vice-president; Harold C. Welch, secretary and Wilbur Hauck, treasurer.

The Journal of December 15, 1925 noted that the "new hotel has been leased for a term of years by the Dunlap Hotel company, a closed corporation formed under the laws of Illinois. Its officers were E. O. Perry, president, and E. C. Perry, secretary-treasurer. J. H. (Mac) McHenry was the resident manager.

In 1936, the present owners took control of the hotel and formed the Jacksonville Hotel Inc., for the operation of the corporation.

Present officers are Mrs. Millicent Samuel, president; Dr. Reginald Norris, vice-president; Mrs. Walter Bellatti, secretary and John Bellatti, treasurer.

The new Dunlap Hotel of 1925 bore a hostelry heritage. In 1857, the Dunlap Hotel came into existence, located on the present site of Eisner's supermarket. The former residence of Col. James Dunlap was converted into the hotel, with served travelers for nearly three quarters of a century.

Captain Alexander Smith, who became a clerk there about 1866, advanced from that position to manager and finally became owner about 1880.

The accident occurred at the B&O crossing on the Arenzville road, two miles east of Beardstown near the city cemetery and Casswood Industries plant.

McLean Man Urges Scientists Develop The 'Miracle' Crops

John English, a McLean county farmer living on rural route 3, believes our scientists could employ their time much more profitably in developing new crops than they are doing in their quest to get to the moon. About mid-December he addressed the following letter to the editor of the Bloomington PANTAGRAPH and several papers have reprinted it.

Editor, The Pantagraph:

The crop year has been rather difficult, yet the farmer responded with extra hours and power so that the yields were phenomenal. As we see most of our McLean County turned upside down in preparation for another season we might well ask ourselves if this plant called corn is so sacred that its shortcomings must be overlooked or can we, in a country that is quite literally reaching for the moon, ask our plant breeders to come up with something better?

The ideal grain crop would be an aggressive long life perennial that was a host to a nitrogen fixation bacteria. It should form a sod sufficient to crowd out most weeds and thick enough to prevent soil and water losses all year long. It should be full season but not necessarily in one calendar year. There should be enough varieties to stagger the harvest time from July to November.

The early variety should have good regrowth in the fall in preparation for next year's crop so that the yield for early varieties would be on par with later ones. We would want this

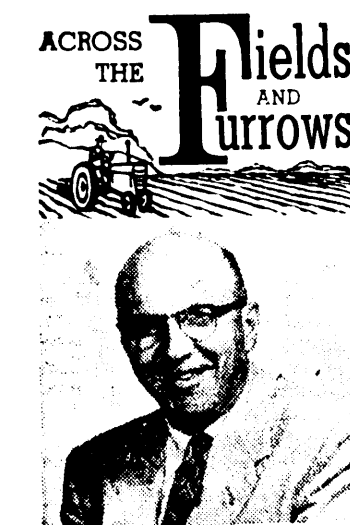

Folk Singers Entertain 4-H Federation

The Morgan County 4-H Federation was entertained by a musical program at their January meeting. Folk tunes were sung and played by Rob McCall, John McCall and Karen Hardesty.

A special feature of the program was an enthusiastic talk by Vernie Thomas who recently attended 4-H Congress in Chicago. He spoke of the strong support major businesses all over the United States give to 4-H. The fifteen hundred delegates from the fifty states, Puerto Rico and Canada had many unforgettable experiences such as having Vice-President Humphrey as a guest speaker and receiving a telegram from President Johnson, Thomas said.

His trip to club congress was sponsored by the Illinois 4-H Foundation. He was awarded the trip for his outstanding work in entomology.

President Tom Johnson presided over the meeting. He announced the Officers Training School to be held Feb. 2 and urged all clubs to reorganize so their officers could attend.

LOOKS LIKE TWO IN A ROW!

An amazing year for agriculture has just drawn to a close. Most signs point to a buck-to-back repeat for 1966. Gross Farm Income for 1965 will be nearly $5 billion dollars. Realized net income, after deducting production costs, is calculated to reach 14 billion dollars. This would be the highest since 1952. Heaviest contributors to the banner year were cattle and hogs. Meat animal prices in 65 averaged 15% above a year ago. Looking ahead to this year U.S.D.A. estimates a 14.5 billion dollar net realized farm income. Continued favorable outlook for livestock. New farm legislation and expanding markets are expected to contribute to this rosy prospect. Government payments to farmers, about 17% of 1965's income, is likely to comprise 24% of next year's returns.

From The Corn Crib:

The Midget League game had been hard fought, and the villain of the evening in the eyes of the losing team was a base umpire. Several of his close decisions had raised protests. After the game, one little fellow on the losing team, spine the umpire in the crowd, went up to him. "It was really a good game, Mr. Umpire," the pint-sized player said politely. "I'm sorry you didn't get to see

ILLINOIS OUTLOOK

LETTER

SOME SURPLUS STOCKS SWELL.

OTHERS SHRINK

You probably have been hearing claims that most of our surplus stocks of farm products have been used up. Many people accept these claims without question, but some of you have asked us for facts and figures. We have done some checking on supplies and will report what we have found.

First, though, let's recognize the fact that some extra supplies are desirable. We won't argue about how much we ought to keep for emergencies. We will just look at the stocks on hand and the levels of production in relation to what can be sold at market prices.

Feed Grain Stocks Cut 30 Percent. The carryover of feed grains at the beginning of this marketing year was estimated at 55 million tons, down only about one-third from the all-time high four years ago. But because 1965 production was about 5 million tons greater than expected use and exports, the carryover at the end of this year may be up to 60 million tons. Production exceeded use and exports despite the expenditure of about 13 billion dollars to restrain it. The expected carryover represents about one-fourth of average annual production.

Wheat Stocks Trimmed. Carryover stocks of wheat have been reduced about 40 percent since the high time five years ago. Stocks of old wheat on hand next July 1 are expected to be around 750 million bushels. This amount would equal our use for food for 1 1/2 years or exports for one year.

We should recall, however, that last year we were able to sell only 162 million bushels of wheat to foreign buyers for dollars, while we shipped 566 million bushels under the surplus disposal — foreign aid programs. Costs of the wheat program continue to be very high — apparently around $12 billion a year.

Only Half of Rice Is Sold at Market Prices. Carryover stocks of rice were reduced from a high of 35 million hundredweight in 1956 to only 7 million hundredweight last fall. This amount is only 10 percent of a crop. But we ship about one-fourth of our production of rice for export and surplus disposal programs, and another quarter is exported at cut-rate prices.

Milk Surplus Continues Large. Milk production exceeded commercial sales by 12 percent in 1965. Government purchases of butter and cheese for price support represented 6 percent of all milk produced; and when the non-fat dry milk powder is added, government purchases were 12 percent of the total production of milk solids-not-fat.

These percentages were a little smaller than in the pre-greenfield era, but were larger than in the 1950s. The Laughlin of Hillview, Alternates to the meat board are Bill Wear, Hillview; Donald Smith, Roodhouse; Ray Westerhold, White Hall, Paul Daum, Carrollton and Neil Twitchell of Greenfield. Eugene Breckon will be the chairman of the meat committee.

The new officers were installed by the retiring chairman, Dan McLaughlin, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. John Melvin and Mrs. Curtis Twitchell, both of Greenfield.

The Greene county NFO meets on the first Tuesday night of each month at the Hopkins Hall in Roodhouse.

FAMILY FARMS MAINTAIN LEAD

The family farm appears to be firmly entrenched in American agriculture, according to latest data of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The number of farms this year was placed about 3.4 million.

A rough estimate of farm ownership in 1964 showed family-operated farms accounting for 96 percent of all farms and for roughly 73 percent of total marketings. This compares with about 95 percent of total farms and 66 percent of total marketings in 1949.

The average size of farms in 1965 was estimated at 341 acres. This was up from an average of 288 acres in 1959.

ATE ACORNS

The American Indians gathered acorns and prepared them for their use by crushing and soaking them to remove the bitterness. Pioneers in the United States also ate acorns when food was scarce.

BRIMFUL See New Approach As Congress Takes Up Farm Legislation

By Jim Brim

We are now in 1966. It's seed catalog time. You'll be poring over them shortly.

Planning the crops to plant or the variety of seeds for the garden are part of the joy of tilling the soil. The anticipation of producing a crop is often times the best part of the job, but it shouldn't be this way. A well planned, cared for crop gives the most satisfaction at harvest time. There are many things that can happen between now and harvest time.

A perennial problem in crop production is that of weeds. Spend some time this winter planning weed control.

Consider the crops, corn or soybeans, your type of soil, costs, the various weed control chemicals available and the weeds you are having difficulty with.

Foxtail, in particular, has caused sizeable corn and bean losses in many fields — losses that add to many dollars.

Consult your farm adviser, read up on the subject, listen to suppliers. Then plan a weed control program.

Now you should repair farm equipment, help the kids enjoy their Christmas toys, watch grain and livestock prices.

Keep livestock beds clean and dry. Provide them with plenty of clean water that has the chill taken off of it. These two things will go toward healthier stock and more profitable production.

THE HOG Rent Payer of Europe — Mortgage Lifter of America.

In January everyone takes stock of how things are doing. Merchants check inventory, businessmen check their profit and loss statements for the past year, we are all checking our bank accounts and wondering how we are going to pay the necessary bills, income tax and social security tax.

Everyone wonders what will happen during 1966, but we won't know until it's over. We do know what happened in 1965 and it's time to get the totals ready so the income tax forms may be completed and taxes paid. The high hog prices will increase the hog farmers income considerably — quite the opposite from some low price years.

Before you call it quits on your 1965 income tax return, check to be sure you reported sales of dairy or breeding stock as capital gains, not as regular income. Check the income averaging rule. Report C C loans the same as before — same year as loan receipt if reported that way before, same year as grain was delivered if done this way before.

Check up to determine farm expenses you may have paid with cash. Expenses such as farm magazines and publications, farm organization dues, hardware, farm travel expenses and small repairs.

Deduct farm share of telephone, electricity and fuel. Take deduction for business share of car expense.

Pay children reasonable wages for their work on the farm and deduct as farm expense. Each youngster's income is tax free up to $900.

Walk through the farmstead to make sure all depreciable property is listed and depreciation taken. Include buildings, fences, water systems, tanks, augers, motor equipment, attachments, etc.

Now You Should

Finish thanking those who gave you Christmas presents. Continue living up to New Year's resolutions.

Wear and use Christmas presents.

Clean frost from windshield completely.

New spark plugs, points, and condenser work wonders for hard to start engines, especially in cold weather.

Consider planting some trees this spring. There are many small unused areas that would be better off producing posts and poles or maybe some Christmas trees. Trees are available from the State Forestry Dept., but need to be ordered early.

When a man gets too old to set a bad example he starts giving good advice.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The major farm legislation expected to engage the attention of Congress this year is the Food-for-Peace Program under which $17 billion worth of American farm products have been either donated or sold at concessionary terms to needy countries since 1955.

Legislation authorizing disposal of what has been regarded as farm surpluses is due to expire at the end of this year. President Johnson undoubtedly will recommend an extension but with possible significant changes.

A growing problem of hunger abroad — a problem that has gained wide recognition and produced strong demands for greater American effort in solving — will put this legislation in a broader category than farm legislation. It may even become a major foreign policy issue.

There are strong demands that this program be given a change of emphasis. Heretofore it has been mainly one for helping stabilize American agriculture by moving surpluses to underdeveloped countries needing them.

There is much support for the idea that the program managers forget the surpluses disposal objective of the past — largely because surpluses have been greatly reduced — and concentrate on using it as an instrument of foreign policy.

Under this change, American foods would be used primarily to bolster nutritional levels and economies of friendly countries and as a consequence could be put into the hands of congressional foreign affairs committees instead of the agriculture committees.

FBYP Conference Set For Jan. 16-19

The 10th annual Farm Bureau Young People's conference will be held at Holiday Inn East, Springfield, Jan. 16-19. The theme will be "It's Your Future" and the conference is designed to help those staking their future on agricultural production make the best use of all available opportunities for the best rural life possible.

Wayne Tomhave, route 3, president of the local group, says Morgan county will be represented by at least three young people, but he hopes there'll be six.

The cost of conference will be $40, including board, room, cot, ice breaks, tuition. This cost will be shared by the local Farm Bureau and the I.A.A. will pay transportation on a mileage basis.

The conference will be divided into seven subjects, such as farm management, marketing, state legislation, county government, farm organization and federal farm programs. Each delegate may choose any four which particularly interest him or her.

The instructors will be IAA staff members, aided by visiting specialists such as Miss Dorothy Emerson, Washington, D.C.; Dr. Bruce Dunn, Peoria; Dr. Herb True, South Bend, Ind. and F. D. Groat, Detroit Lakes, Mich.

Reservations must be in the Farm Bureau office by Jan. 13. Those wishing more information are invited to call Tomhave or the Farm Bureau office.

Record Book School Jan. 12

All farmers who are interested in the use of the new Illinois Farm Record Book are invited to an instructional meeting Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 12, Farm Adviser George Trull stated last week. The meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m. at Farm Bureau Hall in Jacksonville.

To meet the need for a farm record system that satisfies current tax-reporting requirements, University of Illinois extension economists have revised the Illinois Farm Record Book and it is now available to County Extension Offices.

Farmers who are interested in a do-it-yourself record system should consider this new revised Illinois Farm Record Book, Trull says. Approximately 250 Morgan County farmers use this record.

A. H. Harris, area farm adviser in farm management, will be lead the Jan. 12th meeting. The purpose is to explain the use of the book and how it can be used to best advantage in the analysis of the farm business.

Topics to be covered are — How the Corn Plant Grows, Weed Control Practices to Fit a Changing Corn Culture, Controlling Insects in '66, Facts and Fancies about Planting Dates, How Thick Should You Plant Corn, How to Choose Top Hybrids, and Narrow Rows and Planting Patterns.

The morning meeting gets underway at 10 o'clock. Morgan County is one of 66 Illinois Counties holding corn production meetings this winter.

To Hold Greene County Fair At Later Date

CARROLLTON — The 11th Greene County Fair dates have been set for July 25 through July 30 according to an announcement made this week by Don Allen, the president of the Greene County Fair. This is a change in dates from the usual early part of July which seemed necessary because of other events occurring in the county in July. The change in date was selected at a meeting of the board of directors held Monday evening in the Farm Bureau building in Carrollton.

Committees were named at the meeting Monday and are as follows: R. D. Lemons, grounds superintendent; assistants, Henry J. Steinacher, Vernon Reynolds, Ralph Strang and George Price. This committee was given authority to make needed repairs and improvements with major emphasis to be placed on electrical wiring.

Robert L. Best was selected as chairman of the program committee, assisted by R. D. Lemons, Carl Wright, Don Allen, Bill Shade, Wilbert Joyce and Lloyd McLane. This committee was given authority to enter into contracts to secure entertainment needed to complete a well rounded program.

New department heads include Jack Imman, poems; Wilbur Rathgeber, track; Robert Johnisse, tickets and gates and Marie Houlette, scouts.

Illinois Farm Bureau To Mark 50th Year With Rally Jan. 26

A half-century of service to Illinois agriculture will be celebrated Wednesday, Jan. 26 when the Illinois College observes its 50th anniversary in Champaign-Urbana, the site of the organization's birth in 1916.

The directors of the Morgan County Farm Bureau will complete plans for this county's participation in the giant rally when they meet for the January meeting Tuesday. It is anticipated that from 50 to 75 members and wives of the local Bureau will attend the celebration.

I.A.A. officials expect more than 7,000 farmers and their wives will attend the commemorative program which will be held in the giant U.I. Assembly Hall.

Shuman, Kerner American Farm Bureau Federation President Charles B. Shuman, Sullivan, the seventh president of the IAA who served from 1946 through 1954, and Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner will address the meeting.

NATURE AIDING CATTLE FEEDERS

JERSEYVILLE — The continued mild weather in the Jersey county vicinity has brought about a number of unusual situations.

Many farmers report they have not been feeding any hay to their cattle thus far during the winter. Pastures continue lush green in many areas and this situation combined with stalk fields in which to turn the cattle has made it unnecessary to feed hay.

Many reports are being received regarding blooming violets and pansy beds that are continuing to produce blossoms. The common dandelions have been found in numbers blooming under a January sun.

Australia's total water resources amount to only one-tenth the water the Amazon ed. Davenport Hall was the

Spectacular Business Highlights

NEW YORK (AP)—Business highlights in prosperous 1965 were many, and in some cases spectacular.

Top events: Personal income of Americans rose to an annual rate of $535.9 billion. People spent money at a record rate and saved at a record pace. They spent enthusiastically on automobiles, color television sets, appliances and clothing.

The automobile industry enjoyed its fourth consecutive big year. In the 1965 model year, a record 8.85 million passenger cars were assembled, surpassing the old record of 7,892,000 set in 1964.

The steel industry came up against a United Steelworkers Union strike decline twice before agreement was reached under prodding of President Johnson. The union got a package of 47.3 cents an hour over 35 months.

The aluminum and copper industries raised prices but were forced to rescind the action under pressure from the Johnson administration.

The prices of such goods as overcoats, men's suits, shoes, tin cans, color television sets and aluminum siding went up. Aircraft and electronics firms received big orders for war materials and the effect seeped far down into the economy.

Business felt the impact of the escalating war in Viet Nam.

Airframe and electronics firms received big orders for war materials and the effect seeped far down into the economy.

The government eased depreciation rules to allow faster tax writeoffs. This meant a saving of $700 million a year for business.

Congress enacted a $4.7-billion excise tax cut bill. It wiped out the 10 per cent federal tax on luggage, handbags, furs, jewelry, cosmetics, television sets, household appliances, cameras, musical instruments, phonographs and records, business machines, pens and pencils.

The economy was jolted by two long maritime strikes that idled hundreds of vessels. Sixty thousand dock workers went on strike in January. A 78-day shipping strike in the summer paralyzed ports from Maine to Texas.

The stock market rose steadily in the first part of the year and the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks reached an all-time high in May. Then prices skidded sharply. They staged a comeback and another new high was attained by the Dow Jones average in November.

'God Is Dead' Leader Takes Words Literally

By KATHRYN JOHNSON

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A leader in the "God is dead" movement says he takes the phrase literally, holding that God died in Christ on the cross.

"Christianity resurrected the body of Christ," said Dr. Thomas J. Altizer, 38, "but that which the Church knew as the resurrected body of Christ is rather the dead body of God."

Dr. Altizer, dark-haired and boyish-looking, is an instructor in liberal arts at Emory, a Methodist university. He describes himself as "an inactive Episcopalian."

His views have stirred a storm of protest in Emory circles, but Dr. Altizer is unrepentant.

He said he and other leaders of the "God is dead" movement, including William Hamilton of Colgate University and Paul Van Buren of Temple University, are simply trying "to work out a new form of Christian theology."

For non-theologians, Dr. Altizer's pronouncements may be somewhat difficult to follow.

He was asked whether he felt that the concept of God is dead. "Absolutely not," he replied. "The crucial theological significance is that God is dead, literally."

"He died in Christ, but His death has only become manifest with the collapse of Christendom. The dead God was resurrected in an alien form by Christianity. When this form of Christianity collapsed, then the reality of the death of God became manifest."

"We believe there is a whole new reality of Christian redemption now present — a new reality of Christ in the world today. This reality has to be understood in a wholly new way and by a wholly new language."

Up to the time of the Reformation, Dr. Altizer said, "God was alive and real as our transcendent father and acted redemptively and judgmentally in history."

One Emory graduate was so upset by the disclosure of Dr. Altizer's religious radicalism that he put an advertisement in an Atlanta newspaper saying: "If this disturbs you (God is dead) as it does me and a few other Emory alumni, write the office of the president of Emory and tell them why you, like me, are not donating to the $25-million building fund."

A university trustee, William R. Bowdoin, called Dr. Altizer "an irresponsible individual who used powerfully bad judgment."

Dr. Altizer, who is married and has a 6-month-old son, came to Emory in 1956 after two years of teaching at Washburn College in Indiana.

He says he has been profoundly influenced in his thinking by Buddhism and other Oriental concepts.

Dr. Sanford Atwood, Emory's president, commented: "Dr. Altizer is a professor who feels he has an idea worth discussing and he has a right to do it."

Dr. William R. Cannon, dean of the Theological School, assured students, alumni and trustees that "God is not dead at Emory. He is very much alive."

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

"Let's get the car out of the parking lot while we're waiting for our check. We'll leave Louise as a hostage!"

IT MAKES YOUR HOUSE LOOK BIGGER.

Cars are getting to be bigger, so houses are getting to look smaller.

But one little Volkswagen can put everything back in its proper perspective.

A VW parked in front does big things for your house. And your garage. To say nothing of small parking spots.

On the other hand, a VW does make some things smaller.

Gas bills, for instance. (At 29 mpg, they'll probably be half what you pay now.)

You'll probably never add oil between changes. You'll certainly never need antifreeze. Tires go 40,000 miles. And even insurance costs less.

One thing you'd think might be smaller in a Volkswagen is the inside.

But there's as much legroom in front of a VW as in the biggest cars.

When you think about it, you really have only two choices:

You can buy a bigger house for who-knows-how-much.

Or a Volkswagen for $1683.00.

McLean Man Urges Scientists Develop The 'Miracle' Crops

John English, a McLean county farmer living on rural route 3, believes our scientists could employ their time much more profitably in developing new crops than they are doing in their quest to get to the moon. About mid-December he addressed the following letter to the editor of the Bloomington PANTAGRAPH and several papers have reprinted it.

Editor, The Pantagraph:

The crop year has been rather difficult, yet the farmer responded with extra hours and power so that the yields were phenomenal. As we see most of McLean County turned upside down in preparation for another season we might well ask ourselves if this plant called corn is so sacred that its shortcomings must be overlooked or can we, in a country that is quite literally reaching for the moon, ask our plant breeders to come up with something better?

The ideal grain crop would be an aggressive long life perennial that was a host to a nitrogen fixation bacteria. It should form a sod sufficient to crowd out most weeds and thick enough to prevent soil and water losses all year long. It should be full season but not necessarily in one calendar year. There should be enough varieties to stagger the harvest time from July to November.

The early variety should have good regrowth in the fall in preparation for next year's crop so that the yield for early varieties would be on par with later ones. We would want this regrowth to be sufficiently tall and stiff to provide a snow trap to preserve the moisture for next year and to prevent snow from drifting on our country roads. It must be green enough after frost to prevent fire hazard and should provide sufficient cover for the wild life. The yield need not be on par with corn at first to be competitive for the plant breeder could breed out $20 an acre in production costs.

Of course we would want the crop to be high in the better amino acids. While we are reaching for the moon, we might ask for a group of special perennial crops, one for starch, one for sugar, one for oil, one for protein, and even one for fiber to compete with cotton.

The world's emerging nations are unable to use much of our remarkable system of agriculture for they lack the large industrial complex necessary to supply enormous machinery, oil for power, chemicals for fertilizer and herbicides, and our drying and handling facilities.

Crops that would reduce the dependence of a nation on such a vast industrial complex in order to have an improved agricultural production would not only be a great boon to the world's underdeveloped countries, but would protect our own food supply from natural and man made catastrophes. Perhaps a few million dollars spent on plant breeding would do more good than billions on industrial development.

ILLINOIS OUTLOOK LETTER

SOME SURPLUS STOCKS SWELL. OTHERS SHRINK

You probably have been hearing claims that most of our surplus stocks of farm products have been used up. Many people accept these claims without question, but some of you have asked us for facts and figures. We have done some checking on supplies and will report what we have found.

First, though, let's recognize the fact that some extra supplies are desirable. We won't argue about how much we ought to keep for emergencies. We will just look at the stocks on hand and the levels of production in relation to what can be sold at market prices.

Feed Grain Stocks Cut 30 Percent. The carryover of feed grains at the beginning of this marketing year was estimated at 55 million tons, down only about one-third from the all-time high four years ago. But because 1965 production was about 5 million tons greater than expected use and exports, the carryover at the end of this year may be up to 60 million tons. Production exceeded use and exports despite the expenditure of about 134 billion dollars to restrain it. The expected carryover represents about one-fourth of average annual production.

Wheat Stocks Trimmed. Carryover stocks of wheat have been reduced about 40 percent since the high time five years ago. Stocks of old wheat on hand next July 1 are expected to be around 750 million bushels. This amount would equal our use for food for 1½ years or exports for one year.

We should recall, however, that last year we were able to sell only 162 million bushels of wheat to foreign buyers for dollars, while we shipped 566 million bushels under the surplus disposal — foreign aid programs. Costs of the wheat program continue to be very high — apparently around $1½ billion a year.

Only Half of Rice Is Sold at Market Prices. Carryover stocks of rice were reduced from a high of 35 million hundredweight in 1956 to only 7 million hundredweight last fall. This amount is only 10 percent of a crop. But we ship about one-fourth of our production of rice under foreign aid—surplus disposal programs, and another quarter is exported at cut-rate prices.

Milk Surplus Continues Large. Milk production exceeded commercial sales by 6 to 12 percent in 1965. Government purchases of butter and cheese for price support represented 6 percent of all milk produced; and when the non-fat dry milk powder is added, government purchases were 12 percent of the total production of milk solids-not-fat.

These percentages were a little smaller than in the preceding four years, but were larger than in the 1950s. The dairy surplus disposal and related programs cost $415 million last year. This amount was a little less than in other recent years, but was more than in the 1950s.

Cotton Stocks Climb to New High. Carryover stocks of cotton have more than doubled during the past four years. According to the USDA, the carryover next August 1 will total about 16.2 million bales. This amount will exceed the previous record set 10 years ago and will exceed the five-year average annual production by 7 percent.

Tobacco Stocks Set New Records. Carryover stocks of tobacco have been increasing for four years. New records have been set in each of the past two years. Stocks on hand last October 1 totaled 1,440 million pounds, 26 percent more than in 1961. The carryover is equal to 2½ years' production.

In summary — while stocks of grain have been reduced moderately, surpluses of other agricultural products are at or near record-high levels.

The American Indians gathered acorns and prepared them for their use by crushing and soaking them to remove the bitterness. Pioneers in the United States also ate acorns when food was scarce.

BRIMFUL and running over

By Jim Brim

We are now in 1966. It's seed catalog time. You'll be poring over them shortly.

Planning the crops to plant or the variety of seeds for the garden are part of the joy of tilling the soil. The anticipation of producing a crop is often times the best part of the job, but it shouldn't be this way. A well planned, cared for crop gives the most satisfaction at harvest time. There are many things that can happen between now and harvest time.

A perennial problem in crop production is that of weeds. Spend some time this winter planning weed control. Consider the crops, corn or soybeans, your type of soil, costs, the various weed control chemicals available and the weeds you are having difficulty with.

For example, in particular, has caused sizeable corn and bean losses in many fields — losses that add to many dollars. Consult your farm adviser, read up on the subject, listen to suppliers. Then plan a weed control program.

Now you should . . . repair farm equipment . . . eat sensibly . . . help the kids enjoy their Christmas toys . . . watch grain and livestock prices . . . get the kids ready to go back to school . . . dress according to the weather.

Keep livestock beds clean and dry. Provide them with plenty of clean water that has the chlorine taken off. These two things will go toward healthier stock and more profitable production.

THE HOG — Rent Payer of Europe — Mortgage Lifter of America.

In January everyone takes stock of how things are doing. Merchants take inventory, businessmen check their profit and loss statements for the past year, we are all checking our bank accounts and wondering how we are going to pay the necessary bills, income tax and social security tax.

Everyone wonders what will happen during 1966, but we won't know until it's over. We do know what happened in 1965 and it's time to get the totals ready so the income tax forms may be completed and taxes paid. The high hog prices will increase the hog farmers' income considerably—quite the opposite from some low price years.

Before you call it quits on your 1965 income tax return, check to be sure you reported sales of dairy or breeding stock as capital gains, not as regular income. Check the income averaging rule. Report C C C loans the same as before—same year as loan received if reported that way before, same year as grain was delivered if done this way before.

Check up to determine farm expenses you may have paid with cash. Expenses such as farm magazines and publications, farm organization dues, hardware, farm travel expenses and small repairs. Deduct farm share of telephone, electricity and fuel. Take deduction for business share of car expense.

Pay children reasonable wages for their work on the farm and deduct as farm expense. Each youngster's income is tax free up to $900.

Walk through the farmstead to make sure all depreciable property is listed and depreciation taken. Include buildings, fences, water systems, tanks, augers, motor equipment, attachments, etc.

Now You Should
Finish thanking those who gave you Christmas presents. Continue living up to New Year's resolutions.

Wear and use Christmas presents. Clean frost from windshields completely.

New spark plugs, points, and condenser work wonders for hard to start engines, especially in cold weather.

Consider planting some trees this spring. There are many small unused areas that would be better off producing posts and poles or maybe some Christmas trees. Trees are available from the State Forestry Dept., but need to be ordered early.

ATTEND CONFERENCE IN SPRINGFIELD

Eight members of the Morgan County Farm Bureau were in Springfield Thursday to attend a district policy development meeting. Floyd Nethery, district secretary of organization, presided and each of the resolutions adopted by the Illinois Agricultural Association was reviewed to determine the stand of Farm Bureau in legislative and other matters.

Those from here were Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde York, Mrs. Harold Hembrough, Paul S. Black, Cary Strang and John Chambers.

See New Approach As Congress Takes Up Farm Legislation

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The major farm legislation expected to engage the attention of Congress this year is the Food-for-Peace Program under which $17 billion worth of American farm products have been either donated or sold at concessionary terms to needy countries since 1955.

Legislation authorizing disposal of what has been regarded as farm surpluses is due to expire at the end of this year. President Johnson undoubtedly will recommend an extension but with possible significant changes.

A growing problem of hunger abroad — a problem that has gained wide recognition and produced strong demands for greater American effort in solving — will put this legislation in a broader category than farm legislation. It may even become a major foreign policy issue, and as a consequence could be put into the hands of congressional foreign affairs committees instead of the agriculture committees.

There are strong demands that this program be given a change of emphasis. Heretofore it has been mainly one for helping stabilize American agriculture by moving surpluses to underdeveloped countries needing them.

There is much support for the idea that the program managers forget the surpluses disposal objective of the past—largely because surpluses have been greatly reduced—and concentrate on using it as an instrument foreign policy.

Under this change, American foods would be used primarily to bolster nutritional levels and economies of friendly countries striving to resist Communist pressure both from within and from without.

The program would be used also as an instrument of propaganda — that is, to show the developing areas that this country's free political and economic systems are able to produce more than communism can.

Topics to be covered are — How the Corn Plant Grows, Weed Control Practices to Fit a Changing Corn Culture, Controlling Insects in '66, Facts and Fancies about Planting Dates, How Thick Should You Plant Corn, How to Choose Top Hybrids, and Narrow Rows and Planting Patterns.

The morning meeting gets underway at 10 o'clock. Morgan County is one of 66 Illinois Counties holding corn production meetings this winter.

The conference will be divided into seven subjects, such as farm management, marketing, state legislation, county government, farm organization and federal farm programs. Each delegate may choose any interest which particularly interests him or her.

The instructors will be IAA staff members, aided by visiting specialists such as Miss Dorothy Emerson, Washington, D.C.; Dr. Bruce Dunn, Peoria; Dr. Herb True, South Bend, Ind.; and F. D. Groat, Detroit Lakes, Mich.

Reservations must be in the Farm Bureau office by Jan. 13. Those wishing more information are invited to call Tomhave or the Farm Bureau office.

Record Book School Jan. 12

All farmers who are interested in the use of the new Illinois Farm Record Book are invited to an instructional meeting Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 12, Farm Adviser George Trull stated last week. The meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m. at Farm Bureau Hall in Jacksonville.

To meet the need for a farm record system that satisfies current tax-reporting requirements, University of Illinois extension economists have revised the Illinois Farm Record Book and it is now available to County Extension Offices.

Farmers who are interested in a do-it-yourself record system should consider this new revised Illinois Farm Record Book. Trull says. Approximately 250 Morgan County farmers use this record.

A. H. Harris, area farm adviser in farm management, will be lead the Jan. 12th meeting. The purpose is to explain the use of the book and how it can be used to best advantage in the analysis of the farm business.

Even if you retire with earnings reduced to $1,500 a year, the social security tax must still be paid on the $1,500. Only if you are wise enough to have made investments which return rent, interest or dividends, does the tax cease.

Low incomes up to about $2,500 are favored over high incomes by a two to one ratio. That is, you get almost twice as much in benefits from the first $2,500 of earnings as from amounts of more than $2,500.

As an investment for retirement alone, social security would be a weak system. But combined with all the other benefits for dependents, disability and medicare, the price tag is reasonable. However, the probability is that the tax will increase some more. Even without higher benefits, as people live longer, the system will gradually become bankrupt unless social security tax rates go up.

At the moment, farmers have more to gain from social security than most other groups. There are more older persons among farmers than among city folks. They carry less private health insurance. Their per capita income is substantially lower than urban workers.

Optional reporting of a portion of the gross when net earnings are low gives an advantage to a large number of farmers. It does not take long for a strange mixture to become familiar.

Among those appearing on the January 11th program will be Ellery Knake, extension specialist in weed control, Dr. Steve Moore, extension entomologist, Dr. Walter Scott, extension specialist in crop production, and local farm advisers.

Topics to be covered are — How the Corn Plant Grows, Weed Control Practices to Fit a Changing Corn Culture, Controlling Insects in '66, Facts and Fancies about Planting Dates, How Thick Should You Plant Corn, How to Choose Top Hybrids, and Narrow Rows and Planting Patterns.

The morning meeting gets underway at 10 o'clock. Morgan County is one of 66 Illinois Counties holding corn production meetings this winter.

To Hold Greene County Fair At Later Date

CARROLLTON — The 111th Greene County Fair dates have been set for July 25 through July 30 according to an announcement made this week by Don Allen, the president of the Greene County Fair. This is a change in dates from the usual early part of July which seemed necessary because of other events occurring in the county in July. The change in date was selected at a meeting of the board of directors held Monday evening in the Farm Bureau building in Carrollton.

Committees were named at the meeting Monday and are as follows: R. D. Lemons, grounds superintendent; assistants, Henry J. Steinhart, Vernon Reynolds, Ralph Strang and George Price. This committee was given authority to make needed repairs and improvements with major emphasis to be placed on electrical wiring.

Robert L. Best was selected as chairman of the program committee, assisted by R. D. Lemons, Carl Wright, Don Allen, Bill Shade, Wilbert Joyce and Lloyd McLane. This committee was given authority to enter into contracts to secure entertainment needed to complete a well rounded program.

New department heads include Jack Inman, ponies; Wilbur Rathgeber, track; Robert Johnnie, tickets and gates and Marie Houlette, scouts.

Illinois Farm Bureau To Mark 50th Year With Rally Jan. 26

A half-century of service to Illinois agriculture will be celebrated Wednesday, Jan. 26 when the Illinois College observes its 50th anniversary in Champaign-Urbana, the site of the organization's birth in 1916.

The directors of the Morgan County Farm Bureau will complete plans for this county's participation in the giant rally when they meet for the January meeting Tuesday. It is anticipated that from 50 to 75 members and wives of the local Bureau will attend the celebration.

I.A.A. officials expect more than 7,000 farmers and their wives will attend the commemorative program which will be held in the giant U.I. Assembly Hall.

Shuman, Kerner American Farm Bureau Federation President Charles B. Shuman, Sullivan, the seventh president of the IAA who served from 1946 through 1954, and Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner will address the meeting.

An unusual visual presentation featuring motion picture treatment of historic photographs and events in the development and growth of the IAA is being prepared for the general program which will begin at 2 p.m. Due to the nature of this program the doors will be closed precisely at 2 o'clock.

The film presentation will feature narration and musical background live in Assembly Hall. Henry Charles, professor of voice at Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, has prepared a special musical score for the IUW Chorus and Brass Choir which will provide the musical portion of the program.

Anniversary festivities will begin at 10:30 a.m. when a plaque will be unveiled on Davenport Hall on the University of Illinois campus. It was in this building on January 26, 1916, that farmers from 11 Illinois counties met and founded the IAA which has become the largest statewide general farm organization in the nation with more than 193,600 member families in 99 county Farm Bureaus.

Interior Changed The room in which the first meeting took place no longer exists, but the exterior of the building in which the event took place has changed very little. At the time the IAA was founded, Davenport Hall was the

Many farmers report they have not been feeding any hay to their cattle thus far during the winter. Pastures continue lush green in many areas and this situation combined with stalk fields in which to turn the cattle has made it unnecessary to feed hay.

Many reports are being received regarding blooming violets and pansy beds that are continuing to produce blossoms. The common dandelions have been found in numbers blooming under a January sun.

Folk Singers Entertain 4-H Federation

The Morgan County 4-H Federation was entertained by a musical program at their January meeting. Folk tunes were sung and played by Rob McCall, John McCall and Karen Hardesty.

A special feature of the program was an enthusiastic talk by Vernie Thomas who recently attended 4-H Congress in Chicago. He spoke of the strong support major businesses all over the United States give to 4-H. The fifteen hundred delegates from fifty states, Puerto Rico and Canada had many unforgettable experiences such as having Vice-President Humphrey as a guest speaker and receiving a telegram from President Johnson, Thomas said.

His trip to club congress was sponsored by the Illinois 4-H Foundation. He was awarded the trip for his outstanding work in entomology.

President Tom Johnson presided over the meeting. He announced the Officers Training School to be held Feb. 2 and urged all clubs to reorganize so their officers could attend.

ACROSS THE FIELDS AND FURROWS

LOOKS LIKE TWO IN A ROW:

An amazing year for agriculture has just drawn to a close. Most signs point to a back-to-back repeat for 1966. Gross Farm Income for 1965 will be nearly 45 billion dollars. Realized net income, after deducting production costs, is calculated to reach 14 billion dollars. This would be the highest since 1952.

Heaviest contributors to the banner year were cattle and hogs. Meat annual prices in 65 averaged 15% above a year ago. Looking ahead to this year U.S.D.A. estimates a 14.5 billion dollar net realized farm income. Continued favorable outlook for livestock. New farm legislation and expanding markets are expected to contribute to this rosy prospect. Government payments to farmers, about 17% of 1965's income, is likely to comprise 24% of next year's returns.

ORBITING LABORATORIES

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

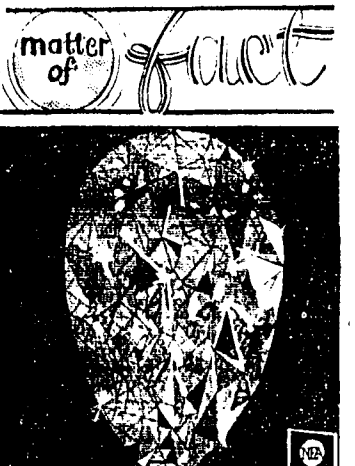

Both the Air Force and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) are planning a series of Orbiting Laboratories. At first these will be more roomy spacecraft than the Gemini-B, through a hatch in the heat shield. This designed for stays in orbit of a month or more. Later they will grow into full-fledged space stations staying in orbit continuously while crews and supplies travel to and from them in ferry rockets.

Return To Earth

After they have boarded the Gemini-B spacecraft the astronauts will disconnect it from the MOL and return to earth, as shown in the picture. On the first few missions the MOL will be used only once. Later, however, a second crew may rendezvous with one of the stations. NASA is planning a program similar to the Air Force's MOL using its three manned Apollo spacecraft, called the Apollo Extension System (AES). The AES calls for 45 day earth orbiting and 28 day moon orbiting experiments. For these missions the Lunar Excursion Module (LEM) will be fitted out as an orbiting Laboratory. It will be connected to the front of the main Apollo spacecraft by the same air lock used on the moon landing mission.

Month In Orbit

The first manned MOL flight will come in the first half of 1968. During their thirty days in orbit the two man crew of this craft will be able to leave their space suits off since the crew compartment and work area will have a comfortable atmosphere. There will be a third compartment leading to the Gemini spacecraft and outer space.

Let's Go Birding

Strange Tree Mates

By Emma Mae Leonhard

During the winter months we expect to see a few Great Horned Owls and hope to see one or two Long-eared Owls, but not usually in the same tree, particularly in the same tree at the same time. December 11 broke our record: in the top of the same Hemlock in Nichols Park sat those two species of owls—one each.

We had seen two Great Horned Owls in the same tree in Diamond Grove Cemetery during more than one year; we had seen one Great Horned Owl more than once in Nichols Park. We had, however, never found a Long-eared Owl before at either owl-haunted place. We always visited the pine groves at Lake Jacksonville for our Long-eared Owl.

How did we know that both these large birds were owls? It was a morning, heavy with clouds, and the refuge for these birds was like a gray cave. Yet we could see these two bulky forms sheltered by the Hemlock branches and knew that they were owls.

Questions Answered

Fortunately for us the heads of the two owls were in a good position for our study, and it was their heads that answered our question as to their identity. The Great Horned had its usual ear-tufts or horns slanting back on either side of its broad brown forehead. The ear-tufts of the Long-eared were longer and were placed toward the center of its narrower brown forehead, sticking straight up rather than slanting out at acute angles like those of the Great Horned.

After posing for us accordingly, they decided to leave us. Folding their tufts back and sailing noiselessly out of their gray refuge, these large round-headed bird shadows, darker than the heavy clouds above them, moved silently and safely to the pines at the edge of the park.

Cat Owls

As they moved away from us, they trod the air as noiselessly as the cat's padded feet tread the earth. These two kinds of owls are sometimes called Cat Owls for their mysterious slyness, their weirdly silent actions, their catlike squalls, and especially their conspicuous ear-tufts not unlike the ears of cats. dare we mention it—for their appetite for song birds, game birds, squirrels, and rabbits.

Yet we like them all, or most of us do.

MR. MURPHY'S GOAT

By John Rankin

With amazing skill and daring 12-year-old Scott Graham swerved his bicycle around the corner from Woodland Avenue into Locust street on the last lap of his afternoon paper route. Then at the end of the block he turned down a narrow and little used road and headed for his last two customers out at the very edge of the city limits.

Slowing his speed as he bounced along over the rock-strewn and thinly populated route the youngster's dark eyes lit up with humor as his thoughts turned to the elderly and rather peculiar pair. Mrs. Lindsay with her flowers and cats and pet snake, and Mr. Murphy next door with his goats, pigs, chickens and ducks had, from time to time, provided some lively entertainment to say the least.

Watch Those Cats

At Mrs. Lindsay's place Scott threaded his bike through a half dozen or more cats getting up to the house and put her paper in a wooden box nailed securely to the wall beside the front door. Then stepping around a pig and a goat he went next door and left Mr. Murphy a copy under a chicken coop on the back porch and had started to leave when a red-hot argument suddenly broke loose back of a shed out near the alley.

Oh, oh, they're at it again, he thought with a touch of humor, or lighting up his features, and waited several moments in the shadows of some vines at the back of the house. And finally as the heated dispute died down somewhat he turned his bicycle headlights on in the deepening dusk and headed for home.

Big Squabble

Mom was in the kitchen as Scott hurried in and slung his coat over a chair and tossed his canvas pouch on the table. "Hey, Mom, you should have heard the big squabble, he began excitedly. "Mr. Murphy and Mrs. Lindsay are really tearing into each other something fierce again."

Her dark eyes showed surprise as she turned from the stove. "But I thought they were on peaceful terms again," she said quietly. "What is it this time, dear? Mrs. Lindsay's cats annoying Mr. Murphy's perchaps?"

Scott's eyes twinkled merrily. "No, Mrs. Lindsay claims Mr. Murphy's goat chewed her wash right off the line and she's really kicking up a storm about it, and threatens to go to the police if he don't get rid of the thing."

Dad came in from another room and stood in the doorway grinning smugly. "I'm sure Mr. Murphy agreed to teach the animal better manners and promised severe disciplinary measures if the act is repeated." He said in a humorous vein.

"Oh no, he didn't. He said he'd rather watch a goat eat an old faded out dress than to hear some people chew the rag," Scott added with a grin.

"Just about anything can pop up in that menagerie," Dad shot back. "Perhaps next we'll learn that Mrs. Lindsay is teaching her pet snake to hide out in Mrs. Murphy's whiskers."

Mom gave Dad a stern look. "Why Mark Graham! I really believe you enjoy the childish and continual bickering of those elderly folks," she said crisply, and turned away.

Trouble Again

A couple of nights later Dad and Scott were in the living room when Mom came in and took a seat by the window. "I trust that Mr. Murphy and Mrs. Lindsay are on peaceful terms again," she remarked casually.

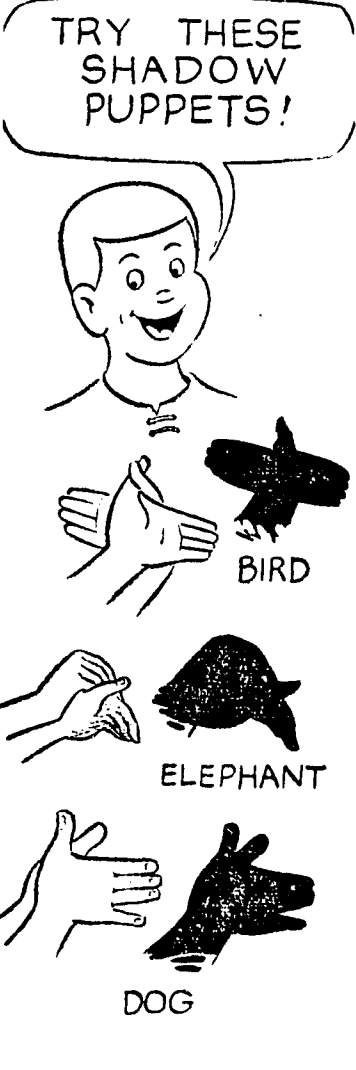

Scott looked up quickly. "Didn't seem much like it when I stopped by there tonight. Mrs. Lindsay has a skunk now running around all over the place with her cats. Mr. Murphy claims it's catching his chickens and swears he'll take the thing to the Humane Society or something if he can get his hands out!"

Lord, help us live "The Golden Rule."

The gossip's sword, to blunt. And though he tries to egg us on.

Help us refuse to once. And counter it with some kind word.

Nor get into a bout. For Thou hath said, where there's "No wood," "The fire." Lord, "Goeth on it!"

TaleBearer

By Mary Pence Claywell

The gossip goes from door to door. His heart, with joy abounds. He drops his bones, and gathers some. Then strews them. . . all around.

I well recall an old one's words. They are so very true. . . "Folk who talk ill of others, out!"

Study Cost Cuts For Sewer Plant In Beardstown

BEARDSTOWN — City officials continue to consider ways and means to cut the cost of a sewage disposal plant for the benefit of Oscar Mayer and company and have secured state permission to cross a highway with the outfall sewer in a cost cutting move.

The disposal plant must be furnished by the city as a part of the agreement which brings the $5 million dollar Mayer slaughtering complex here.

The Goodell Engineering firm of Champaign drew up plans for the plant and the city council authorized revenue bonds to pay for it. But when bids were opened — separate estimates on the lagoon type plant and the outfall sewer — the total cost was over $700,000.

Officials seem optimistic about the prospects for cooperation from Oscar Mayer although no definite announcement has been made as to just what form cost cutting cooperation will take.

Use of bentonite clay for lining the three lagoons which will be a part of the disposal unit has been said to be one big cost item. The bentonite lining for the lagoons is reportedly a way to prevent seepage and odor.

DUNN & THOMPSON

And No Zip Code To Help

Seventy-five years ago Sammy Nichols of the Jacksonville Journal staff made a trip to Pike county and when he returned he observed that one thing about the county was that if a man had nothing else to do he could always get a job being postmaster "because Pike county is very well fixed in that line."

The other day a Journal reader came in with "The Gazetteer of the United States, showing the population of every state, county, town and village, according to the census of 1870." It was published by George F. Cram of Chicago.

There's 334 pages in the book and each page bears three columns of fine print, listing 100 names to the column.

Reading it is mighty hard on the eyes. But it shows that not only Pike county, but every county in Illinois "was well fixed" so far as postoffices were concerned. For Illinois there's 34 columns of postoffices and place names where mail could be directed. It appears that Illinois had about 2,880 postoffices in 1870. Today it has less than 1,300 and the postoffice plans to knock off quite a few of them in the coming months.

50 Different Places
Undoubtedly I skipped one or more postoffices in Pike county, because that crowded, fine print makes for hard reading. But I found 37 postoffices and 13 place names where the people could get their mail — a total of 50 spots on the map that a mail clerk had to know. And know it he did; his civil service certificate proved that and he could sit down in a chair and drone off postoffices by name, county and railroad. If one of these old codgers were alive he'd go over big on TV.

Well, in Pike county there were (numbers indicate population in 1870): Atlas, 30; Barry, 1,354; Baylis, 368; Bedford, 20; Bee Creek, 10; Cool Bank, 60; Detroit, 101; El Dara, 241; Fish Hook, 50; Florence, 150; Griggs, 1,400; Horton Station, 10; Hull, 800; Kinderhook, 500; Martinsburg, 50; Maysville, 20; Milton, 415; Montezuma, 50; Nebo, 452; New Canton, 424; New Hartford, 110; New Salem, 307; Pearl, 928; Perry, 705; Perry Springs, 20; Pike, 10; Pittsfield, 2,295; Pleasant Hill, 310; Rockport, 225; Sheehorn, 10; Shepherd, 25; Shinn, 10; Strout, 25; Summer Hill, 150; Time, 146; Valley City, 50.

Places in the county where a man might get his mail were generally crossroads stores. These included Aladdin, Arden, Brewster, Buck Horn Island, Derry, East Hannibal, East Louisiana, Griggsville Landing, Hadley, Quincy Junction and Wabash.

And just to make things confusing the gazetteer noted that Bee Creek was also known as Chowrow and Baylis was sometimes called Pineville.

Now there are 17 postoffices in Pike county.

Plenty In Greene
Greene county didn't lack for postoffices.

They were Athensville, 150; Baldwin, 390; Barrow, 100; Berdan, 150; Bluff Dale, 65; Carrollton, 2,258; Columbiana, 50; Fayette, 150; Felter, 25; Greenfield, 1,181; Kane, 551; Patterson, 160; Rockbridge, 886; Roodhouse, 2,860; Schutz Mills, 30; Walkerville, 100; White Hall, 1,961; Woody, 65; Wrightsville, 200.

And of course any competent postal clerk of 1870 knew Daum, Drake, Eldred, Happyville, Hurricane, Kaser and Riverdale were in Greene county.

In those days people living around Eldred got their mail at Columbiana, but when the railroad went through the people of Columbiana had to go to Eldred to get their mail.

Didn't Hillview exist in 1870? If so Mr. Cram forgot to put it in his gazetteer.

No Lack In Cass
Cass county also had plenty of postoffices.

They were Arenzville, 356; Ashland, 1,045; Beardstown, 4,226; Berrytown, 390; Bluff Springs, 30; Chandler, 910; Hegener, 40; Little Indian, 10; Newmanville, 25; Philadelphia, 175; Sylvan, 10; Virginia, 1,602.

And if you were a Cass county resident you'd get your mail if it was addressed to either Anderson, C. Berrytown, Burlington, C. S. Gurney or Victoria, Cass County, Illinois.

Scott county, from the beginning, seemed disinclined to scatter postoffices all over the place. The 1870 gazetteer listed Alsey, 150; Bluffs, 421; Exeter, 244; Glasgow, 187; Manchester, 408; Merritt, 100; Naples, 452; Oxville, 120; Riggs, 50; Winchester, 1,542. Only two place names were found: Bloomfield and Plum.

Many Changes Hereabouts
But there's been quite a change in Morgan.

YESTERYEAR

The postoffices listed were Alexander, 150; Arcadia, 100; Bethel, 50; Chapin, 500; Concord, 100; Franklin, 578; Jacksonville, 12,985; Jordanville, 10; Litterberry, 75; Lynn, 200; Markham, 20; Meredosia, 621; Murrayville, 422; Neelyville, 75; Pisgah, 10; Rohrer, 10; Sinclair, 100; Waverly, 1,337; Woodson, 200.

Place names were Arnold, Big Sandy, Evans' Mills, Kershaw's Springs, Morgan, Yatesville and Youngblood Prairie.

Morgan, west of Chapin had a postoffice when it also had the biggest passenger and freight depot in the entire state of Illinois, on the Northern Cross railroad. Arnold later got a postoffice which lived 20 years or so, and Youngblood Prairie also got a postoffice, but it was named Nortonville. In 1870 Nortonville was in Will county. When the town dried up and the residents of Youngblood Prairie petitioned for a postoffice they somehow got the name of Nortonville.

Does anybody know how that happened?
In my boyhood days I stood in awe of the mail clerk in my hometown. And that feeling has not changed, although he's been dead 30 years.

Wonderful Johnny
He stood about 5'3", weighed 110 pounds, had stooped shoulders and a very large nose, was slightly near-sighted, neat and precise to the point of finickiness. I truly believe that he knew the name of every postoffice in the U.S.A., and what railroad or railroads went there.

His memory was dazzling, not only in the postoffice business but in everything. When some of the boys around town got in an argument about when something happened invariably one of them said, "I'll prove it to Johnny." So they went to see Johnny and ask him and he'd snap out the answer, and the loser never doubted for a minute but what Johnny was right, and would pay off his bet without question, pronto.

Johnny never married. When asked why he said he was afraid of marriage, that "if by chance there were children I am afraid they would have my looks and their mother's brains." He said this years before it was credited to George Bernard Shaw when the publicity man for Isadora Duncan, the fabulously beautiful dancer, proposed that Shaw and Miss Duncan wed and produce the perfect child.

I'm not saying Shaw didn't say it, but I heard it from Johnny first.

Watchword: Efficiency
I wonder what Johnny would think of the great efficiency of the postoffice today. According to the publicity section of that great institution developed by Benjamin Franklin it is practically perfect today, and bound to get improved.

How could the postoffice get more efficient? For instance, if you write a letter to a friend in Chicago that letter goes first to Springfield, then to St. Louis and then to Chicago.

Undoubtedly the next time the department "streamlines" operations your letter will go to K.C., or maybe even Denver before it goes to Chicago.

It wouldn't surprise me.

The Leeds (English) MERCURY of the 27th ult. says: About two o'clock on Tuesday morning, as a young man was going home, past the new Congregational Church, Pudney, he was startled by the appearance of a ghostly figure in white, as if it had come out of the adjoining graveyard. Whether it was a "creature of the heat-oppressed brain," (as he was just coming from a public house), or a veritable reality, he could not tell. However, he mustered courage to approach the dreadful object, which he discovered to be a young woman, upright and sound asleep. She had on only a nightdress, and, on being awake, screamed in finding herself in the street.

She was taken to a house near and supplied with clothing, and then accompanied home. She had walked more than half a mile in her sleep, and had got out of bed in a dream, unlocked the door, and started upon her nocturnal journey without having disturbed any of the family.

We heard recently an amusing instance of Southern pride. A Tennessee lady was in Washington, interceding for a pardon for her rebel husband. Her application to the President was well received, and he treated her with great consideration and kindness. In speaking of her interviews with him to a friend, the lady remarked that the President was very cordial and gracious, spoke very kindly of her husband and his family, and invited her to stay at the White House while she remained in Washington. "Well," said her friend, "you accepted the President's hospitality?" "No," remarked the lady, "we never knew the Johnsons."

A man recently got married in Kentucky one day, and hung himself the next. No doubt he wanted to try all varieties of nooses, to see which he liked best.

An incident occurred at St. Louis, illustrating the fact that mules are not only the most sagacious of all four-legged animals, but they sometimes do things on purely scientific principles. A drove of about 200 of these large-minded beasts were brought to the Illinois shore, opposite the city, and it was concluded that the best way to get them across was to start them on the ice and let them walk over. As soon as they reached the ice, instinct taught them that they had embarked on a dangerous journey, and instantly the oldest mule in the drove — one, too, that had never been at a circus and had no education — took the lead, and one at a time the whole 200 "fell in" and followed their leader in single file, with safe spaces between, and thus, stretching themselves in a long line, they crossed the river. The circumstance was witnessed by a number of gentlemen, who were impressed with this wonderful illustration of mule sagacity.

A Chicago clergyman missed his stockings on Christmas morning, and after a long search found one on each horn of a new milch cow, which had been presented to him by his parishioners, and ornamented in this way to indicate that it was a Christmas gift.

A prominent bachelor politician on the Kennebec, remarked to a lady that soapstone was excellent to keep the feet warm in bed. "Yes," said the young lady, who had been an attentive listener, "but some gentlemen have an improvement on that which you know nothing about." The bachelor turned pale, and maintained a wistful silence.

JHS Grabs 46-44 Margin; Mac Falls 87-78

Jacks Blow Big Lead But Win 8th

By BUFORD GREEN

Jacksonville folded under a press for the second night in a row but still had enough left to squeeze out a slim 46-44 Capitol Conference triumph over Decatur MacArthur, at the JHS Bowl Saturday night.

Leading by 15 at halftime and by 16 at one point in the third quarter, the Crimsons fell completely apart after that and the surging Generals threw a king-sized score into the hosts in the closing minutes.

MacArthur's John Renner had a chance to send the game into overtime with a one-and-one free throw chance after time had run out but missed the first. Three times in the final three minutes the Decatur team was within two points and had the ball but never did tie the game.

The winning margin turned out to be three free throws by Ron Coleman, the last one coming with five seconds left in the game. Coleman and Gary Ginder were the Crimsons' only offensive punch in the game. Coleman's 21 and Ginder's 20 accounted for all but five of the Jacks' total.

After all but playing dead in the first half, in which they got only 13 points, the Generals threw a full-court press at the Crimsons to start the second half, picked up their shooting from the outside and were quickly back in the ball game.

While MacArthur came alive offensively in the second half, Jacksonville reacted just the opposite. The hosts hit six field goals in the second half, all in the third quarter, and scored a total of 14 points in the final two periods.

Start Off Hot
Ginder and the Crimsons started off in fine offensive fashion, with Ginder scoring the first eight points in the game, two 15-footers, one on a layup thanks to an assist by Coleman and another on an assist by Mike Tendick. Coleman sank a 15-footer for an 8-0 JHS lead before MacArthur got a shot off. The Crimsons' full-court press forced the Generals into mistakes the first four times they had the ball.

Ginder hit two more buckets and Coleman one on an assist by Tendick, as Jacksonville led 14-8 at the close of the opening frame. MacArthur went scoreless the first four minutes in the period.

Coleman and Ginder scored all the Crimsons' points in the second period except for a 15-footer by Abe Brown, and Jacksonville increased their lead to 28-13 at intermission as MacArthur hit only two of their ten shots from the floor in the period.

After Jacksonville's lead grew to 16, 37-21 on a Ginder tip midway in the third round, the Crimsons folded and the rallying Generals began to close the game.

Generals Come Back
MacArthur's Joe Doolin hit four straight from the corner and the Generals ripped off nine straight, thanks to four Crimson turnovers, and closed the gap to 40-35 with 52 seconds left in the stanza. Tendick, a 5-9 junior guard starting his first game of the season, hit one from the top of the key with one second left to post a 42-35 count entering the final eight minutes.

Coleman, who missed the last two minutes of the third quarter and the first four of the final period with four fouls, hit two of three throw chances in the next 30 seconds to boost the lead to 45-41 with 2:12 to play.

Doolin canned another from the deep corner and Jim Blankinship hit the first of two free throw chances to make it 45-44 with :26 left.

Down To Wire
Coleman put the Jacks up by two with the first of two free throws with five seconds remaining. MacArthur's Renner was fouled by Robin Manker with time out but missed the first to insure the Crimson victory.

For the game Jacksonville hit an even 40% on 18 of 45 from the field, while MacArthur canned 17 of 36 for a hot 47% clip. JHS outrebounded the losers 24-18, and were assessed with 12 turnovers to 14 by the Generals.

The win boosts Jacksonville's overall record to 8-4, 2-1 in the conference where they are now tied for the lead with Decatur Eisenhower and Springfield Griffin. MacArthur dropped to 5-5 and 0-3.

Elmhurst Avenges Loss To IC, 92-80

ELMHURST — The Illinois College Blueboys dropped their first game of the new year to Elmhurst, here Saturday night, by a score of 92-80.

Elmhurst jumped off to an early lead and ran it up to a 48-31 margin at halftime behind the hot shooting of guard Leo Boughton with 21 and reserve Don Anderman with 23 for the night.

IC lost the ball on many turnovers and were forced to shoot from the outside by the tight Elmhurst defense. The Blueboys found themselves unable to work the ball into their big men under the basket, Paul Runkle and Larry Greathouse.

At the beginning of the second half, IC came out with a 1-2-2 zone defense which enabled them to pull within eight points of the Elmhurst Blueboys at one time.

Charles Martin with 13, Dan Runkle with 12, Dick Clough with 11 paced the Blueboys in this non-conference tilt.

IC now holds a 3-4 record for the campaign including an 85-75 win over Elmhurst on December 10, on IC's home floor.

The Blueboys travel to Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, on Tuesday, January 11, to meet Iowa Wesleyan and return home Friday, January 14 to play Greenville College and Rose Poly on January 15.

Matte Holds Key For Colts Today In Playoff Bowl

MIAMI (AP) — Will Tom Matte pass or run?

That's the question that will be bugging the Dallas Cowboys when they square off against the Baltimore Colts here Sunday in the National Football League's Playoff Bowl involving conference runners-up.

The Colts, who lost quarterback Johnny Unitas and Gary Cuozzo in the final two weeks of the season, are 3-2-point underdogs to a fast-moving Dallas team that won five of its last seven games.

The game, with a 1:45 p.m. EST kickoff in the 72,000 capacity Orange Bowl, will be televised nationally by CBS.

Despite loss of its quarterback for the final two games, the Colts beat Los Angeles 20-17 to tie for the Western Conference championship and then lost an overtime thriller 13-10 in the playoff to the Green Bay Packers. The Packers went on to beat Cleveland for the league crown.

The Colts finished with a 10-3-1 record compared with the Cowboys' erratic 7-7-0. The Cowboys, who lost the services of quarterback Don Meredith in mid-season, dropped five in a row after starting with two victories.

Now Meredith, who throws bullets to speedster Bobby Hayes and Buddy Dial, is healthy again and has the Cowboys moving while the Colts have found a signal-calling savior in Matte, a halfback who hadn't passed since his undergraduate days at Ohio State.

Matte, a stocky 205-pound competitor, threw only seven passes in the Los Angeles game and 12 against Green Bay. In practice for the Playoff Bowl, however, he has been planting himself in a pocket and shooting sharp passes to ace receivers Raymond Berry and Jimmy Orr.

"We had to be cautious in our games with Los Angeles and Green Bay and couldn't afford to make any mistakes," said Baltimore Coach Don Shula. "Against Dallas, we figure we're going to have to loosen up a bit."

Lewis' Hot Second Half Decides Game

By SANDY PETERSEN

A late Lewis surge ended a Chuck Hundley for President' campaign Saturday night, as the fast-breaking Flyers posted an impressive 87-78 triumph over a stubborn MacMurray quintet on the Highlanders' court.

Hitting the nets on 18 of 32 attempts during the second half, Lewis came from a 45-42 intermission deficit to tie the contest with 7:30 remaining, and surged out in front in the closing minutes of play for the victory.

Junior guard Hundley sparked the underdog Highlander's effort for the night, dropping in 28 points, 19 of which came in the first half, and grabbing off 18 rebounds.

Hundley repeatedly rose to the occasion during both frames to drive the Clansmen back on top, only to have the impossible to defense Flyers attack counter the effort.

Using the patented Lewis offense, the visitors garnered an amazing 50.5% shooting clip from the floor, while the Clansmen managed a more than respectable 40.2% clip.

Lewis guard Bob Blackburn and teammate forward Harry Mosier, who combined for 40 markers, led the fast-breaking unit which settled for 15 to 18 footers on 2-on-1 and 3-on-2 situations all night.

The clubs exchanged buckets during the opening minutes of play, with Lewis finally gaining the first substantial bulge at 20-12 midway through the round.

Hundley Gets Hot
Not to be denied, the Hundley-led Highlanders fought back to a 22-20 deficit, with the 'presidential nominee' nailing three straight jumpers from the 17-20 foot range.

Playing even ball during the following minutes, the Clan closed the gap to take a 36-34 advantage with 3:00 to be played in the half.

Hundley and reserve forward Al Killoran sparked the surge with 11 points to their credit, while guard Tom Cochran chipped in four.

Four more by Hundley moved the margin to 42-39 before an even exchange of tallies left the intermission tally 45-42, MacMurray.

A Lewis cold spell, which first took its toll in the closing minutes of the first half, continued to plague the visitors, as the Clan opened the spread to 48-42, and later added one more to the bulge, holding a 58-51 advantage with five minutes gone in the frame.

Lewis forward Harry Mosier, who gained 19 in the battle, then vanguarded the Flyers' surge for the triumph, eventually tying the contest at 65-65 with four straight two-pointers.

After again coming from behind to knot the encounter at 70-70, Lewis moved out on top for good as their balanced attack turned on their range-finders to gain an 81-74 spread to coast in with the win.

The win moves Lewis to an 8-2 slate on the season, while the Clan dropped to an even 6-6 record.

Beaty Insures 59-58 Havana Win Over Rushville

HAVANA — Ken Beaty hit two free throws after the final buzzer to give Havana a 59-58 win over Rushville in a Spoon River Conference game here Saturday night.

Beaty with 24 points and Jon Brown with 21 led Havana to its eighth win of the campaign in a game that saw the scored tied seven times. Bob Rexroat and Mike Freitag paced the losers with 13 points a piece.

With Rushville up 58-57, Beaty was fouled in the act of shooting just as the final horn sounded. Stepping to the free throw line, Beaty connected on both free throws to give Havana a one point victory.

Havana, hitting 19-40 from the floor for 47% is 2-2 in conference action and 5-8 for the season. Rushville, scoring on 44% of their field goal attempts, is 2-2 in conference play and holds a season record of 4-7.

PRO GRID MONEY WAR CONFUSING

Every football fan in the country is well aware of the astronomical figures being tossed around by the two rival professional football leagues in their bidding for the top college stars of this year. Six-figure estimates are not uncommon, and there seems no end in sight.

With most of the top stars of this, and future, college seasons already under wraps, one can do a little totalling and see just how ridiculous this entire money battle has become.

For instance, if the figures being tossed around by those who are in a position to know are true, 20 of the top players already signed by various pro teams cost over $7 million, just what the United States paid for Alaska.

If that sounds unbelievable, consider: 1. astronaut Frank Borman, while setting space records hurtling around the world in his space capsule, found time to try to persuade Texas star Tommy Nobis to sign with the AFL Houston Oilers; 2. Texas A&M star Donny Anderson is said to have turned down an $887,000 package offer; 3. as soon as USC star and Heisman Trophy winner Mike Garrett signed with Kansas City of the AFL, rumors started flying to the effect that he signed with the Chiefs only because he had been promised the franchise would be shifted so he could play in Los Angeles.

All this and more for players who have not played a minute of pro ball yet. Imagine how, as they have themselves noted, all this spending makes the established veterans of the NFL and AFL feel. While they are playing full time for fractions of what the not-yet rookies draw, it seems reasonable to expect a bit of animosity.

One can realize that as long as one league offers outlandish figures, the other has to do likewise to stay in competition for the big name college stars. One can also understand that an agreement between the two as to limits and recruiting procedures could very easily put a stop to the money war.

With years of tradition and probably money ahead, the NFL again won the annual race, both in quality and quantity. In all, to date, the NFL has signed 75 percent of the 232 players they drafted that are immediately eligible to sign contracts to turn professional, 175 to the 40 thus far inked by the AFL. Eighteen are still unsigned. On the other side, the AFL has brought into camp 46 per cent of its 181 draftees, losing 78 of those to the NFL. One-hundred-eleven players in all were drafted by both leagues, with the NFL getting 79 and the AFL 28. Four are still unsigned.

Nine of the NFL teams were successful in signing their top draft choices, but you can bet they had to pay handsomely for them.

We're sure there is a solution to this mess. As soon as the two leagues begin to fully recognize the other, you may expect to see owners quickly put an end to this and save themselves quite a bit of money.

The best gesture we've heard of in response to this highest-bidder game was Chicago Bear owner-coach George Halas' move when he felt his top draft choice was playing both ends against the middle to get the most money. He simply told the rest of the NFL teams, "Any team in the NFL can have draft rights to him, we don't want him if it's just going to be a battle to see who has the most money."

Illini Keep Loop Lead On 98-84 Edge

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Illinois dropped eight of its first nine shots over Indiana's zone defense and beat the Hoosiers, 98-84, Saturday to hold the lead in the Big Ten basketball race.

It was Indiana's conference opener and the second victory in two games for the Illini. The early eight-of-nine gave Illinois a 16-10 lead. Indiana fought back and tied the score at 22-22 on a jump shot by Gary Grieger with 11:27 to play in the first half but never went ahead. Illinois pulled away to a 29-23 advantage and led 53-41 at the half.

The Illini lead shrank to eight points at 73-65 with 10:25 left in the game, before the visitors built it up to 21 at 96-75 with 2:53 to play.

Indiana switched to a man-to-man defense in the second half and went to a press after cutting the margin to eight points. Illinois stayed mostly in a loose man-to-man defense.

The Illini hit 60 per cent of their shots in the first half and finished with 54.9 per cent, getting 39 of 71. Don Freeman led them with 28 points on 10 of 19 from the field and 8 of 11 free throws, and Rich Jones added 20 on 8 of 23 and 4 of 6. Jones also had 14 rebounds.

Study Cost Cuts For Sewer Plant In Beardstown

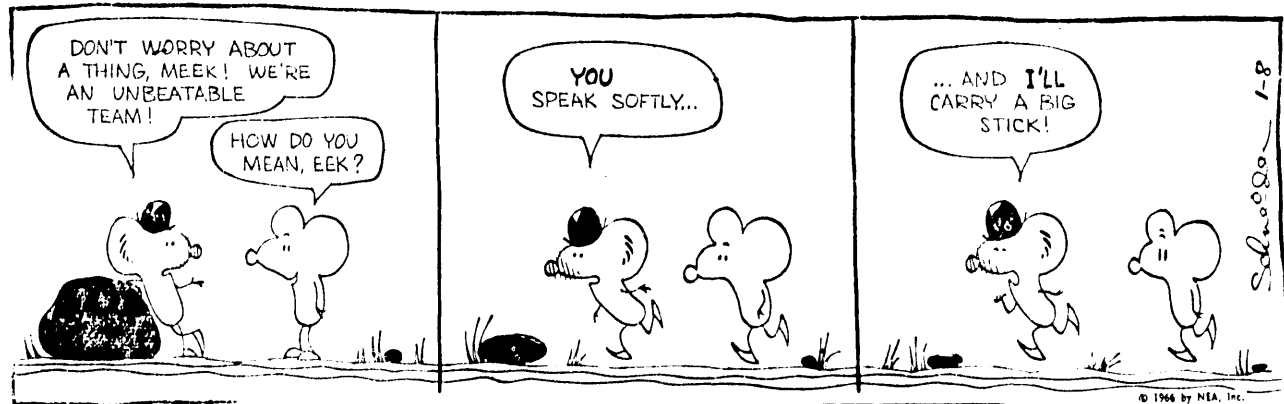

BEARDSTOWN — City officials continue to consider ways and means to cut the cost of a sewage disposal plant for the benefit of Oscar Mayer and company and have secured state permission to cross a highway with the outfall sewer in a cost cutting move. Original estimates on the expenditure for the lagoon type system was $500,000 but bids opened a few weeks ago were about $200,000 more—one source said that new restrictions imposed by the state as well as prices for bentonite clay were part of the reason.

The disposal plant must be furnished by the city as a part of the agreement which brings the $5 million dollar Mayer slaughtering complex here. The Goodell Engineering firm of Champaign drew up plans for the plant and the city council authorized revenue bonds to pay for it. But when bids were opened — separate estimates on the lagoon type plant and the outfall sewer — the total cost was over $700,000. Officials seem optimistic about the prospects for cooperation from Oscar Mayer although no definite announcement has been made as to just what form cost cutting cooperation will take. Consideration also is being given to use of a less expensive pipe in the outfall sewer. A representative of an aluminum firm appeared before the city council this week and recommended use of aluminum pipe.

William Roentgen, discoverer of the X ray, was the recipient of the Nobel Prize for Physics. Use of bentonite clay for lining the three lagoons which will be a part of the disposal unit at the slaughtering operation is said to be one big cost item. The bentonite lining for the lagoons is reportedly a way to prevent seepage and odor.

Here's a new type of bridge problem. Look over all the cards and see if you can figure out how Chicago expert Eddie Rosen managed to make four hearts without the benefit of any unusual help from his opponents.

Getting to four hearts was quite a problem to start. Eddie's double of two diamonds was primarily for takeout and North respected his wishes enough to go to two hearts as the least of the several evils he thought he faced. Eddie's jump to four wasn't too much of a gamble. All he really needed was to find his partner with the jack of clubs. Strangely enough, East's jack of clubs turned out to be his undoing. East played the king of diamonds and continued with the ace. Eddie ruffed and led the queen of clubs. West ducked and East made the mistake of letting his low club go. Eddie's next play was the king of hearts. East won and led a third diamond which Eddie ruffed high.

Then he cashed two high trumps in order to pull the opponents' teeth. Next came the ace and king of spades, followed by a low club. Poor East had to win the trick with the jack and had to lead a diamond to give dummy tricks with the queen of spades and jack of diamonds.

That particular queen-jack combination is worth 40 points in pinocchio. It was worth 620 points in this bridge situation. Note that East could have beaten the hand by leading the jack of clubs when he got in with the ace of trumps, and that if West had simply grabbed his ace of clubs when Eddie led the queen, the contract would have been set.

Reither On Beardstown

By Virgil Reither
BEARDSTOWN—The Chicago Tribune Sunday Magazine of January 2 contained a long story under the heading "Slow Boat to Chicago," featuring the activities of the Material Service company's towboat Irving Crown and its captain, Jack Little of 1000 Lafayette street, Beardstown.

Also mentioned in the story are Dan Brasel, pilot on the boat and Bill Griffin, mate. The story states that Material Service "seems to have recruited most of its crews from Beardstown."

Written by Ridgely Hunt and illustrated with colored pictures, the story relates how Little maneuvered the Irving Crown through the narrow Sanitary and Ship Canal above Western Avenue in Chicago. Hody Ashcraft of 1109 E. 7th street, has resigned his position with Glenn Ice and Fuel company and will soon take a job as a warehouse employee in Keokuk. Mrs. Ashcraft will continue to operate her beauty shop here for the time being and their son will finish high school here, according to present plans.

Bob Schall, former clerk for the H. E. Huss and Sons establishment here, began work at the First State Bank January 3. John Prief has been added to the clerical staff at Huss's.

The custom of caroling is traced back to the 13th century.

Travelers' Landmark For Half A Century Undergoing Changes

A landmark for weary travelers in Central Illinois for almost a half century is presently undergoing extensive remodeling which is expected to be completed sometime in mid-1966.

According to a statement released Saturday, work is presently underway on the Dunlap Motor Inn, which will include conversion of many rooms in the hotel into efficiency and one-bedroom apartments with modern kitchenettes.

The statement released, "The Dunlap Motor Inn, one of Jacksonville's largest and best-known buildings and institutions is now undergoing extensive renovation and modernization according to an announcement by Mrs. Millicent R. Samuel, president of the Jacksonian Hotel Inc., owner of the property, and by Fred Law who is associated with the owners in the renovation program.

"John A. Mayes of the American Institute of Architects, of Glen Ellyn, has been retained as the architect, and on the first floor he is designing substantial additional office space, some of which is already allocated.

"A new arrangement of restaurant and cocktail lounge facilities is being planned. A new zone-control system of cooling and ventilating will be added.

New Windows, Doors

"The outside will be modernized by replacing existing wooden sash windows and doors with aluminum frames and new large size plate glass. The West State street entrance will be framed in white cut stone.

"In the building's four upper floors, which are already fully air-conditioned, the modernization program will include conversion of many bedrooms to efficiency and one-bedroom apartments with modern kitchenettes and re-designed bathrooms.

"Much new piping, wiring, and interior decorating will be included. A new automatic elevator has been ordered for installation in May.

"Crabtree-Neff, Inc. is serving as general contractor. "The work is to progress in stages permitting present guests and commercial tenants to continue their occupancy during renovation with a minimum of inconvenience.

"Many rooms continue to be reserved for transient overnight guests.

"The restaurant and cocktail lounge facilities will be available during this period for both resident guests and the public, as will rooms for smaller private dinner and luncheon groups and meetings.

"Law, who has devoted many years to urban real estate and its modernization, stated that competent real estate opinion places the reproduction cost of the building with its five floors of fire resistant type construction, air-conditioning and elevators, plus land and parking lot, at well over $1,000,000.

Good Location

"This takes into account a location which had been classified as undoubtedly 'the best' in close proximity to churches, court house, banks, savings and loan, and many shops and offices, and which has within the building not only restaurant and cocktail lounge, but barber and beauty shops as well.

"The owners state that upon completion of the entire project this summer, Jacksonville will have one of the finest residential facilities in downstate Illinois with the best in restaurant and cocktail lounge as well as attractive office space."

The Dunlap Hotel was constructed almost within one year to the day.

A grand opening was held December 15, 1925 when the building was completed. Estimated cost of building was $400,000.

Jarvis Hunt of Chicago served as the architect, and the contract was let to J. B. French & Company of Chicago, who began demolishing the old buildings on the site December 1, 1924.

The new Dunlap was a community sponsored project, which began with an original group of 100 men, who pledged to take 2,000 shares of stock, or sell that amount to others.

Then came the general drive, which was spearheaded by the Chamber of Commerce. Subscriptions were secured from more than 600 persons.

Captain Alexander Smith, who became a clerk there about 1866, advanced from that position to manager and finally became owner about 1880.

Rockets Lead Perry All The Way

The Routt Rockets moved out to an early margin Friday night, on the shooting of senior guard Mike Fitzpatrick and coasted home for a 60-43 PMSC triumph over a ragged Perry triumph.

Fitzpatrick, who played the contest with sprained right ankle, tallied 12 of his game high 16 points in the first half, as the Rockets gained first and second stop bulges of 14-5 and 33-22 to back-in for the win.

The Rockets managed a slim 36-35 shooting clip shooting clip advantage in gaining their second straight win of the year, while bowing at the charity stripe by a 67-59 edge.

Fitzpatrick got the Rocket attack underway as they moved to a 13-4 advantage in the opening minutes, while permitting only two Pioneer attempts from the field.

Vaulting the spread to 26-10 midway through the second frame, the locals had their earlier domination of the boards unseated, with Perry cutting the gap to 26-17 with two minutes remaining in the half.

Five free throw conversions held off the visitor's surge, however, to mark the intermission tally at 33-22.

The upsurging Pioneers came back with the first bucket of the final 16 minutes to trail by only nine at 33-24. A Rocket fast-break spree soon put the game out of reach, however, as they rolled up 12 straight tallies to one solo marker for Perry, making the columns 45-25.

Perry wilted away at the margin during the closing action to trail by only 10 at 53-43, but charity conversions again thwarted the Pioneer's surge.

Paul Johnson paced the Pioneers with 11 in the contest, while Fitzpatrick with 16, and J. D. Zeller and Chuck McNeely with 11 led the now 2-5 Rockets.

Floor Errors Cost JHS Fourth Defeat

CANTON — A mistake-riddled Jacksonville High basketball team lost the ball on turnovers 28 times, here Friday night, and the Canton Little Giants handed the Crimson a 48-43 loss.

The sloppily-played non-conference game saw both clubs commit numerous floor errors, with Canton making less. The Little Giants' full-court press forced the Crimson into mistakes all evening, 14 in each half.

Canton grabbed a lead in the first quarter and was never headed although Jacksonville came from 11 behind in the first half to within one several times in a rallying fourth quarter. The Crimson were actually never out of the game, but several times were down by only one and had the ball, only to give it up again.

The splurge that gave the Canton club the upper hand was a 12-point scoring streak early in the second period, when five straight Crimson turnovers were turned into buckets by the Little Giants.

JHS grabbed an early 5-2 lead before Canton spurred back into an 8-5 margin that grew to 11-7 and 13-11 at the end of the opening frame.

After Jacksonville led 14-13 opening the second round, Canton broke loose for the next 12 straight points, eight by 6-5 center Frank Ball.

A technical foul call on Canton which was turned into a five-point play for the Crimson on free throws by Bob Donovan and Ron Coleman, and a resulting bucket by Coleman, pulled Jacksonville to within 27-23. Canton scored the final three points in the half and led at halftime, 30-23.

Jacks Get Close

Canton went scoreless for the first five minutes of the third period and three points by Coleman and a bucket by Duane Hess got the Crimson to within 30-28.

Coleman matched Pat Alig's two buckets in the remaining time as Canton took a slim 38-34 advantage into the final eight minutes.

A clutch bucket by Donovan and one from the corner by Coleman got JHS within 41-40, and again the Crimson got within one when Gary Ginder hit a tip-in and Rich Coble sank the first of two free throws.

Canton's Steve Conklin hit two straight free throws, after missing five in a row earlier in the game, with 1:30 left in the game in what turned out to be the winning margin, before Alig hit two more with nine seconds to ice the contest.

For the game Canton outshot the Crimson from the field, 36% to 33%, and outrebounded the losers, 28-25. Canton committed 23 turnovers in the game.

Coleman was once again the Crimson's top scorer with 15, while Ball hit 14 points for the winners.

The win boosted Canton to 6-4 on the year, and dropped Jacksonville to a 7-4 mark.

Waverly took a 36-35 lead into the locker room at halftime in a game that saw the score tied 12 times. The game was tied nine times in the second half with Waverly out-scoring Kincaid 19-18 in the final quarter to gain the victory.

Steve Timmons of Waverly paced the winners with 24 points while Jim Wyzard led the losers with 20.

With 50 seconds to go in the ball game and the score tied 69-69, Waverly tried to hold the ball for one shot when Jackson was fouled. Jackson scored two points on a one-and-one and Kincaid brought the ball in bounds and lost it on a travelling violation. Waverly then held the ball to run out the clock.

The MSM conference game gave Waverly a 2-2 conference record to Kincaid's 2-1 record in conference play. Waverly is 3-5 on the season and Kincaid sports a nine and six season record.

The Kincaid Ponies were only 5 for 19 from the free throw line while Waverly hit 11-16.

Editorial Comment

'Real' Price Increase

A spokesman for the Department of Labor made an interesting comment about the most recent announcement of a monthly rise in the cost of living. Deputy Commissioner Robert J. Myers of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, noting that the price index had gone up two-tenths of a per cent in November, cautioned against what he called the "psychological" danger of accepting price rises without question.

"I think it is very important," said Myers, "to keep watching prices because of the psychological situation." The point is one that warrants careful attention.

It is evident that Americans have more or less gotten used to having the cost of the things they buy — goods and services — edge up a little at a time right along. They are rather surprised when Labor announces that the index has held steady, and neither surprised nor much alarmed when the monthly announcement is that prices have risen another tenth of a per cent or so.

These gradual increments become far more meaningful and disturbing, however, when stated thus: Since the 1957-59 base period, which is really not very long past, family living costs have risen by 10.6 per cent. It costs us more than a tenth again as much to buy what we need and want than it did quite a bit less than a decade ago.

Concern is all the more warranted just now when one considers that Labor Department officials do not accept the easy explanation that Vietnam war costs are responsible for the accelerating rate of the price increase. Myers pointed out that prices ordinarily hold steady in November, and said, "This is a real increase." Real it is, and one that should be closely watched lest it get out of hand.

Everglades Problem

The controversy over placement of blame for the gradual drying up of the Everglades National Park in Florida continues. Many conservationists identify the Army Corps of Engineers, which has built extensive flood control projects in central Florida, as the chief culprit.

The Corps of Engineers denies this, blaming unusual drought conditions and contending, in the word of Army General Counsel Alfred B. Fitt, that "had man never intervened at all, the Everglades still would have been just as parched last spring." Dr. Clarence P. Idyll of the University of Miami's Institute of Marine Science puts the opposing view thus: "The very existence of Everglades National Park depends upon the supply of fresh water flowing into it from the north. Without this water the area will cease to be unique and its justification as a national park will disappear."

We are inclined to give more weight to Dr. Idyll's assessment, partly because his main concern appears to be preservation of this unique area, whereas the Corps of Engineers' viewpoint is inevitably colored to some extent by the wish to justify its projects. The Everglades Park biologist, Dr. William B. Robertson Jr., also is persuasive when he says that if the park is forced to depend on local rainfall alone "the certain trend will be downhill to a predictable conclusion — loss of the last functioning unit of South Florida wilderness."

This is a matter of interest and concern to all Americans who cherish the nation's remaining wilderness areas and wish to see them preserved. The Engineers are now studying the problem in cooperation with the National Park Service and Florida agencies. It is to be hoped that the study will be concluded as soon as possible so that a project for channeling needed water from the north can be gotten under way.

Dear Ann:

Terms Language at Hockey Games Offensive

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: Hockey season is here and I need to know the answer to a question. Is my husband trying to put one over on me when he says, "You can't come to the hockey game with me because the language you hear at the games is not fit for a lady's ears?"

What do people say at hockey games that ladies aren't supposed to hear? When I asked him who uses the bad language, the players or the spectators, he said, "Both."

I used to go to hockey games with my dad and brother when I was in high school and I don't remember hearing anything that wasn't nice. I'm the mother of two children and I resent being treated as if I were an adolescent. What do you think about this? —MRS. X. CLOUD-ED

Dear Mrs. X: Hockey fans are often salty talkers, but I doubt that you would hear anything at a hockey game that you wouldn't hear at a football game or for that matter any place where all types of people gather. If you want to go, your husband ought to take you.

Dear Ann Landers: Last year our daughter ran off and married a boy none of us approve of. Delores was not yet 16 so we had the marriage annulled. She kept sneaking out of the house to meet the boy after we had gone to sleep and it was impossible to control her. A few months ago it became apparent that Delores was pregnant. When the boy learned of her condition he told her he wanted nothing more to do with her. We sent Delores to a home for unwed mothers where she agreed to give up the child for adoption.

Three weeks ago Delores wrote that she has changed her mind. The boy is out there and wants to marry her. They want to keep the baby. We feel the boy is no good and will leave her eventually. Then she will be stuck with a child and we will have to take care of them both.

Will you please tell us what is the best thing to do? —OUT OF OUR MINDS

Dear Out: This girl is rebellious and determined to do as she pleases. You could not control her earlier and you can't control her now. She should have had professional help years ago. Stand by and be prepared to pick up the pieces.

Dear Ann Landers: We've been married six years and have four children. My wife stays up every night until 2:00 or 3:00 A.M. She says she has insomnia so she finds things to keep her busy like sewing or ironing or looking at TV. She claims her best sleep is a nap in the afternoon while the kids nap.

I get up at 7:00 A.M. and of course she is so beat at that hour she can't get her head off the deck. I make my own breakfast and the kids are awfully good about staying in bed until my wife gets them up. (She keeps them up late so they will let her sleep in the morning.)

We quarrel a lot and she complains that the romance has gone out of our marriage. She says I am cranky and I say she is lazy. What's wrong here? —SCOTTY

Dear Scotty: A woman who has had four babies in six years has her hands full. You can hardly call her lazy because she doesn't dance the frug at 7:00 A.M.

You both need to air your complaints to a third party. I recommend the clergyman who married you. When you learn what's bugging her and she learns what's bugging you, you can begin to pull together, instead of against one another.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Rear Guard Action

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

Washington Correspondent, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) There seems no question now that President Johnson is intent on giving his White House staff the Rooseveltian imprint of near-total anonymity.

Franklin D. Roosevelt wanted key assistants with a positive passion for invisibility. Lyndon Johnson evidently finds this approach eminently suited to his own style.

Perhaps inevitably, the gradual switch to this kind of staff has opened the President to the criticism that he is surrounding himself with a considerable group of faceless technicians.

The complaints come, of course, from outsiders who had enjoyed easy contact with the John F. Kennedy staff holdovers who from the outset of the Kennedy regime took on a sort of feature billing.

Even one of the President's friends, who expresses high regard for the present Johnson staff, thinks Kennedy may have been wise in allowing some of his aides to acquire a certain personal public status. Says this man:

"It was a very good way for a president to operate. The country seems to take comfort from knowing that he has some bright young men around him."

There were many reasons, adds this Johnson associate, why Kennedy permitted his staff to gain such high visibility.

Not least was his early preoccupation with the narrowness of his 1960 election victory and his candid desire to enhance his own stature in the office.

In their public aspect, Kennedy's aides did little to reinforce the empire building but dwelt heavily on efforts to reinforce him.

Johnson, with his 16 million vote margin in 1964, hardly needs such reinforcement.

Whatever benefit he might gain from allowing his staff people to go skittering around from television screen to speaking platform, Johnson appears willing to forego.

Clearly, much less information about him and the entire White House operation will henceforth find its way to the public eye and ear. "Inside stories" may be rarer and less rich in intimate detail.

However else the President

Washington

LBJ Builds a Faceless Staff

may feel he is served by this at least partial cloak of silence over his staff, it is plain that it will assist him mightily in what for him is a crucial part of decision-making—keeping the options open to the last hour.

Beyond question, Lyndon Johnson would rather not be loved than have an aide publicly illustrate his lovability by announcing on his own that the President has just named a deserving paraplegic, Joseph Glutz of Wyoming, to be one of 10 vice chairmen of the American Battle Monuments Commission.

The stretched-out departures of the "featured players" assembled by Kennedy have led finally to some reactions here and elsewhere which may prove unduly severe. The President's anonymous helpers are being scorned occasionally as "mere clerks."

These judgments have to be set down as premature. The ultimate measure of a White House staff is how well it serves the President. Until after the late-February departure of Mr. George Bundy, foreign affairs adviser, it will not be possible to build clear evidence of staff performance under the new circumstances.

Even then the gauge may not be too distinct. Presidential decision-making involves a complex interweaving of staff advice and lonely executive choice.

If the chroniclers of current history should rate Lyndon Johnson's coming hard decisions highly, then there will have to be a presumption that his staff is performing creditably—even though the nation may see or hear little of it.

Some Advice About Shrimp

By GAYNOR MADDON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q—My family likes shrimp very much. But I am confused about what color they should be when I buy them frozen or fresh. Will you please advise me?

A—Frozen and fresh shrimp come in different colors: Gray (the most common), called "Brazilian" or "grooved"; pink, called "pink gold"; and deep red, called "royal reds." The latter are not available widely because they swim in circles, such depths that shrimp trawlers are not equipped to catch them.

However, Bureau of Commercial Fisheries exploratory vessels have found them in great quantities.

Q—What is the best way to buy shrimp?
A—Frozen shrimp may be purchased in a variety of forms: Raw, in the shell; raw, in the shell but deveined; raw, shelled and deveined; individually glazed; cooked, shelled and deveined; breaded, uncooked; breaded, cooked; as well as in prepared dishes such as television dinners, omelets, curries, in cocktail sauce, stuffed and baked; freeze-dried.

The Mature Parent

Beware of This Kind

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE:

The man I am engaged to is terribly jealous of me. Recently, when I went home for the weekend, he accused me of being with another man. It is getting so I am afraid to go to parties with him because, after them, he starts a fight by accusing me of encouraging other men or by criticizing something I said or did. I am sure that this is the influence of his mother who doesn't like me.

ANSWER: I do. I think your man likes girls very much. Not just you. I don't think he likes girls in general. I would guess that the chances of your converting him to affection for our sex are very slim indeed.

You see, if men like us they don't constantly accuse us of being bad. It's only when they don't like us—when they can't trust their sexual feelings for us—that they have to find constant fault with us. They have to accuse us of unreliability by insisting that we spent weekends with other men when we haven't, by criticizing us as socially clumsy at parties, and by accusing us of other kinds of shortcomings that make their dislike of us seem reasonable to them.

Often, if we are involved with a man like this, we feel a curious dizzy feeling of unreality when his accusations start.

It is a very important feeling to become aware of. It tells us that we are, in fact, unreal to the man and that what seems to be going on between him and us isn't going on between him and us at all but between him and his own dislike for girls. It is a kind of inner drama he acts out between himself and the bad, unreliable creature he's sure we are.

Sometimes girls are so flattered by the jealousy contained in these accusations of interest in other men that they mistake it for intensity of love. However, the truth is that it is much less likely to represent love than it is to represent the man's effort to make the girl appear so contemptible to him that he'll be relieved of sexual desire for her. It is his effort to kill his feelings for her.

Liking girls is hard for men with "influential" mothers. Though they intensely resent their mothers' making up their minds for them, they need their mothers to make up their minds for them, being afraid of making up their own.

So what happens is all the suspicion, all the distrust they actually feel for their mothers gets transferred to girls. This enables them to continue to adore Mother as a Boy's Best Friend while at the same time they can pretend to be men. It is not bright to marry them.

FINDING THE WAY

Hope in Our Time

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There was a birth here. That's the remembrance which is ours two weeks after Christmas. It wasn't a pretty world into which the baby was born. There was a tyrant. There were soldiers of a conquering army. There were fools, idiots, cruel men and all ways the indifferent and the casual.

Now that the trimmings are packed away, the carols stilled and the trees burned, the harshness of the scene is apparent. There was a birth here. The birth came as a moment of pain in an age of pain. It was "an uncontrollable mystery on the bestial floor."

There was a birth here. Years ago a relative of our time came to visit in our home. When she left she kept the memory of four active boys. The years passed. Once more it was Christmas and she remembered us as we were, forgetting that in the weeks and years following that Christmas we had grown. Joyously she packed a box and sent it to us. It was a gracious thing to do. Imagine our laughter as we college boys unpacked the toys and gingerbread men.

Now the laughter has been stilled, for this is what we do with the babe of Bethlehem.

We want to freeze the action, keep in the manger and carol. It was a different world since there was a birth here.

The child grew. The birth is remembered because of the words, the deeds and the fact of the Man. Remembering his life, his birth is recalled. Not that the days slip by can we recognize the fact that it is the possibility of greatness in youth. It's more than a quip that says, "Behind every successful man is a surprised mother-in-law." Yet instead of breast-beating and hand-wringing, this man Simeon cradled the babe and talked of the days that were to come. There was a birth here.

This was much more than insight. This was the faith that God continues to break through our impossibilities and there is still the hope that one can find love incarnate. That's important for us to know in this new year.

There have been strident voices insisting that the social structures of our culture make love impossible. Some times there's enough evidence to tempt one to accept that. Yet that growing child was nursing through those first few weeks in a world of terror and somehow escaped the wild planning of the tyrant. Try to keep the manger and you learn that That's the afterglow of Christmas. There was a birth here. Years ago a relative of our time came to visit in our home. When she left she kept the memory of four active boys. The years passed. Be Prepared to Tell All

If You Phone White House

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Telephone callers to the White House are discovering these days that they must identify themselves by name before they will be put through to any staff official's office. For a brief time, operators were even demanding to know the calling number.

Presumably, the justification for this new procedure is that it promotes better record-keeping on the huge White House telephone inflow.

But the skeptics, particularly newsmen probing for information, suspect that the new system gives President Johnson an easy check on who is talking to whom.

Imagining the President furious over some unfavorable story made juicy by quotes from "inside the White House," one newspaperman said he could see Johnson summoning perhaps a dozen staff men who happened to be on the offending reporter's telephone call list and demanding:

"All right, now, who gave the guy those unfriendly quotes?"

A WELL-KNOWN Republican sauntered into a Washington hotel the other day, attired in slacks, a tan sport coat, and a jaunty Tyrolean hat.

A friend who spotted him said: "You're looking pretty sporty today."

The politician replied: "I'm on Medicare now. I can afford to dress well."

A RECENT GUEST at White House dinner was a bit embarrassed when he discovered that he was the only person at his table using a spoon on his dessert cake. He quickly regained composure by a bing his fork.

To put him at ease, a fellow guest remarked that some distant relatives of Calvin Coolidge once found themselves in a similar predicament some 40 years ago.

At a loss as to which utensil to use with each course, they solved the problem by taking their cue from Coolidge, who went fine until dessert, when Coolidge suddenly picked up a coffee saucer and poured cream into it.

At least half the people at the table had their own cream-filled saucers in hand when Coolidge placed his on the floor and called for his pet kitten Bouncer.

TRYING TO SUGGEST that his own schedule was flexible, a reporter seeking a date with Clark Clifford, an "outside adviser" to President Johnson, told Clifford's secretary he was happy to see the gentleman as late as seven in the evening.

Said the newsmen: "I know he likes to stay around the office late to work in quiet, and I thought it might be a good time."

The secretary, who appeared to be fighting a losing battle to get Clifford home earlier, responded goodnaturedly: "Get lost, mister!"

Oberammergau, a village in Bavaria, is famous for its wood-carving industry and the Passion Play presented every 10 years. Amateur actors are chosen from the inhabitants of the village and the culture community becomes involved in the spectacle. The play, which originated in 1634, is a gratitude for the village's escape from the plague, which killed 90 per cent of the population in 1634. The auditorium seats 5,200 spectators, more than the population of the village.

ORBITING LABORATORIES

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

Both the Air Force and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) are planning a series of Orbiting Laboratories. At first these will be more roomy spacecraft designed for stays in orbit of a month or more. Later they will grow into full-fledged space stations staying in orbit continuously while crews and supplies travel to and from them in ferry rockets.

Return To Earth

After they have boarded the Gemini-B spacecraft the astronauts will disconnect it from the MOL and return to earth, as shown in the picture. On the first few missions the MOL will be used only once. Later, however, a second crew may rendezvous with one of the stations.

Month In Orbit

The first manned MOL flight will come in the first half of 1968. During their thirty days in orbit the two man crew of this craft will be able to leave their space suits off since the crew compartment and work area will have a comfortable atmosphere. There will be a third compartment leading to the Gemini spacecraft and outer space.

Permanent Space Stations

The MOL and the AES will prepare the way for really large permanent space stations being planned by NASA. The first of these will be the MORL (Manned Orbiting Research Laboratory). A larger version of the MOL carrying a crew of four to six on flights of up to a year starting in 1973 and 1975.

Let's Go Birding

By Emma Mae Leonhard

During the winter months we expect to see a few Great Horned Owls and hope to see one or two Long-eared Owls, but not usually in the same tree, particularly in the same tree at the same time. December 11 broke our record: in the top of the same Hemlock in Nichols Park sat those two species of owls—one each.

We had seen two Great Horned Owls in the same tree in Diamond Grove Cemetery during more than one year; we had seen one Great Horned Owl more than once in Nichols Park. We had, however, never found a Long-eared Owl before at either owl-haunted place. We always visited the pine groves at Lake Jacksonville for our Long-eared Owl.

How did we know that both these large birds were owls? It was a morning, heavy with clouds, and the refuge for these birds was like a gray cave. Yet we could see these two bulky forms sheltered by the Hemlock branches and knew that they were owls.

Questions Answered

Fortunately for us the heads of the two owls were in a good position for our study, and it was their heads that answered our question as to their identity.

The Great Horned had its usual ear-tufts or horns slanting back on either side of its broad brown forehead. The ear-tufts of the Long-eared were longer and were placed toward the center of its narrower brown forehead, sticking straight up rather than slanting out at acute angles like those of the Great Horned.

Cat Owls

As they moved away from us, they trod the air as noiselessly as the cat's padded feet tread the earth. These two kinds of owls are sometimes called Cat Owls for their mysterious slyness, their catlike silent actions, their catlike squalls, and especially their conspicuous ear-tufts not unlike the ears of cats. dare we mention it—for their appetite for song birds, game birds, squirrels, and rabbits.

Yet we like them all, or most of us do.

TaleBearer

The gossip goes from door to door.

He drops his bones, and gathers some.
Then strews them... all a-kind word.

They are so very true...

MR. MURPHY'S GOAT

By John Rankin

With amazing skill and daring 12-year-old Scott Graham swerved his bicycle around the corner from Woodland Avenue into Locust street on the last lap of his afternoon paper route.

Then at the end of the block he turned down a narrow and little used road and headed for his last two customers out at the very edge of the city limits.

Slowing his speed as he bounced along over the rock-strewn and thinly populated route the youngster's dark eyes lit up with humor as his thoughts turned to the elderly and rather peculiar pair. Mrs. Lindsay with her flowers and cats and pet snake, and Mr. Murphy next door with his goats, pigs, chickens and ducks had, from time to time, provided some lively entertainment to say the least.

Watch Those Cats

At Mrs. Lindsay's place Scott threaded his bike through a half dozen or more cats getting up to the house and put her paper in a wooden box nailed securely to the wall beside the front door. Then stepping around a pig and a goat he went next door and left Mr. Murphy a copy under a chicken coop on the back porch and had started to leave when a red-hot argument suddenly broke loose back of a shed out near the alley.

Oh, oh, they're at it again, he thought with a touch of humor or lighting up his features, and waited several moments in the shadows of some vines at the back of the house. And finally as the heated dispute died down somewhat he turned his bicycle headlights on in the deepening dusk and headed for home.

Big Squabble

Mom was in the kitchen as Scott hurried in and slung his coat over a chair and tossed his canvas pouch on the table.

"Hey, Mom, you should have heard the big squabble, he began excitedly. "Mr. Murphy and Mrs. Lindsay are really tearing into each other something fierce again."

Her dark eyes showed surprise as she turned from the stove. "But I thought they were on peaceful terms again," she said quietly. "What is it this time, dear? Mrs. Lindsay's cats annoying Mr. Murphy, perhaps?"

Scott's eyes twinkled merrily. "No, Mrs. Lindsay claims Mr. Murphy's goat chewed her wash right off the line and she's really kicking up a storm about it, and threatens to go to the police if he don't get rid of the thing."

Dad came in from another room and stood in the doorway grinning smugly. "I'm sure Mr. Murphy agreed to teach the animal better manners and promised severe disciplinary measures if the act is repeated." He said in a humorous voice.

"Oh no, he didn't. He said he'd rather watch a goat eat an old faded out dress than to hear some people chew the rag," Scott added with a grin.

"Just about anything can pop up in that menagerie," Dad shot back. "Perhaps next we'll learn that Mrs. Lindsay is teaching her pet snake to hide out in Mrs. Murphy's whiskers."

Mom gave Dad a stern look. "Why Mark Graham! I really believe you enjoy the childish and continual bickering of those elderly folks." She said crisply, and turned away.

Trouble Again

A couple of nights later Dad and Scott were in the living room when Mom came in and took a seat by the window. "I trust that Mr. Murphy and Mrs. Lindsay are on peaceful terms again," she remarked casually.

Scott looked up quickly. "Didn't seem much like it when I stopped by there tonight. Mrs. Lindsay has a skunk now running around all over the place with her cats. Mr. Murphy claims it's catching his chickens and swears he'll take the thing to the Humane Society or something if he can get his hands out!"

And No Zip Code To Help

Seventy-five years ago Sam Nichols of the Jacksonville Journal staff made a trip to Pike county and when he returned he observed that one nice thing about the county was that if a man had nothing else to do he could always get a job being postmaster "because Pike county is very well fixed in that line."

The other day a Journal reader came in with "The Gazetteer of the United States, showing the population of every state, county, town and village, according to the census of 1870." It was published by George F. Cram of Chicago.

There's 334 pages in the book and each page bears three columns of fine print, listing 100 names to the column.

Reading it is mighty hard on the eyes. But it shows that not only Pike county, but every county in Illinois "was well fixed" so far as postoffices were concerned. For Illinois there's 34 columns of postoffices and place names where mail could be directed. It appears that Illinois had about 2,880 post offices in 1870. Today it has less than 1,300 and the postoffice plans to knock off quite a few of them in the coming months.

50 Different Places

Undoubtedly I skipped one or more postoffices in Pike county, because that crowded, fine print makes for hard reading. But I found 37 postoffices and 13 place names where the people could get their mail — a total of 50 spots on the map that a mail clerk had to know. And know it he did: his civil service certificate proved that and he could sit down in a chair and drone off postoffices by name, county and railroad. If one of these old codgers were alive he'd go over big on TV.

Well, in Pike county there were (numbers indicate population in 1870): Atlas, 30; Barry, 1,354; Baylis, 368; Bedford, 20; Bee Creek, 10; Cool Bank, 60; Detroit, 101; El Dara, 241; Fish Hook, 50; Florence, 150; Griggs, 1,400; Horton Station, 10; Hull, 800; Kinderhook, 500; Martinsburg, 50; Maysville, 20; Milton, 415; Montezuma, 50; Nebo, 452; New Canton, 424; New Hartford, 110; New Salem, 307; Pearl, 928; Perry, 705; Perry Springs, 20; Pike, 10; Pittsfield, 2,295; Pleasant Hill, 310; Rockport, 225; Sheehorn, 10; Shepherd, 25; Shinn, 10; Strout, 25; Summer Hill, 150; Time, 146; Valley City, 50.

Places in the county where a man might get his mail were generally crossroads stores. These included Aladdin, Arden, Brewster, Buck Horn Island, Derry, East Hannibal, East Louisiana, Griggsville Landing, Hadley, Quincy Junction and Wabash.

And just to make things confusing the gazetteer noted that Bee Creek was also known as Chowrow and Baylis was sometimes called Pineville.

Now there are 17 postoffices in Pike county.

Plenty In Greene

Greene county didn't lack for postoffices.

They were Athensville, 150; Baldwin, 390; Barrow, 100; Berdan, 150; Bluff Dale, 65; Carrollton, 2,258; Columbiana, 50; Fayette, 150; Felter, 25; Greenfield, 1,181; Kane, 551; Patterson, 160; Rockbridge, 886; Roodhouse, 2,860; Schutz Mills, 30; Walkerville, 100; White Hall, 1,961; Woody, 65; Wrightsville, 200.

And of course any competent postal clerk of 1870 knew Daum, Drake, Eldred, Happyville, Hurricane, Kaser and Riverdale were in Greene county.

In those days people living around Eldred got their mail at Columbiana, but when the railroad went through the people of Columbiana had to go to Eldred to get their mail.

Didn't Hillview exist in 1870? If so Mr. Cram forgot to put it in his gazetteer.

No Lack In Cass

Cass county also had plenty of postoffices.

They were Arenzville, 356; Ashland, 1,045; Beardstown, 4,226; Berrytown, 390; Bluff Springs, 30; Chandlerville, 910; Hegener, 40; Little Indian, 10; Newmansville, 25; Philadelphia, 175; Sylvan, 10; Virginia, 1,602.

And if you were a Cass county resident you'd get your mail if it was addressed to either Anderson, Berrytown, Burlingame, Cass, Gurney or Victoria, Cass County, Illinois.

Scott county, from the beginning, seemed disinclined to scatter postoffices all over the place. The 1870 gazetteer listed Alsey, 150; Bluffs, 421; Exeter, 244; Glasgow, 187; Manchester, 408; Merritt, 100; Naples, 452; Oxville, 120; Riggston, 50; Winchester, 1,542. Only two place names were found: Bloomfield and Plum.

Many Changes Hereabouts

But there's been quite a change in Morgan.

The postoffices listed were Alexander, 150; Arcadia, 100; Bethel, 50; Chapin, 500; Concord, 100; Franklin, 578; Jacksonville, 12,985; Jordanville, 10; Litterberry, 75; Lynnville, 200; Markham, 20; Meredosia, 621; Murrayville, 422; Neelyville, 75; Pisgah, 10; Rohrer, 10; Sinclair, 100; Waverly, 1,337; Woodson, 200.

Place names were Arnold, Big Sandy, Evans' Mills, Kershaw's Springs, Morgan, Yatesville and Youngblood Prairie.

Morgan, west of Chapin had a postoffice when it also had the biggest passenger and freight depot in the entire state of Illinois, on the Northern Cross railroad. Arnold later got a postoffice which lived 20 years or so, and Youngblood Prairie also got a postoffice, but it was named Nortonville. In 1870 Nortonville was in Will county. When the town dried up and the residents of Youngblood Prairie petitioned for a postoffice they somehow got the name of Nortonville.

Does anybody know how that happened?

In my boyhood days I stood in awe of the mail clerk in my hometown. And that feeling has not changed, although he's been dead 30 years.

Wonderful Johnny

He stood about 5'3", weighed 110 pounds, had stooped shoulders and a very large nose, was slightly near-sighted, neat and precise to the point of finickiness. I truly believe that every post office in the U.S.A., and what railroad or railroads went there.

His memory was dazzling, not only in the postoffice business but in everything. When some of the boys around town got in an argument about when something happened invariably one of them said, "I'll prove it was Johnny." So they went to see Johnny and ask him and he'd snap out the answer, and the loser never doubted for a minute but what Johnny was right, and would pay off his bet without question, pronto.

Johnny never married. When asked why he said he was afraid of marriage, that "if by chance there were children I am afraid they would have my looks and their mother's brains." He said this years before it was credited to George Bernard Shaw when the publicity man for Isadora Duncan, the fabulously beautiful dancer, proposed that Shaw and Miss Duncan wed and produce the perfect child.

I'm not saying Shaw didn't say it, but I heard it from Johnny first.

Watchword: Efficiency

I wonder what Johnny would think of the great efficiency of the postoffice today. According to the publicity section of that great institution developed by Benjamin Franklin it is practically perfect today, and bound to get improved.

How could the postoffice get more efficient? For instance, if you write a letter to a friend in Chicago that letter goes first to Springfield, then to St. Louis and then to Chicago.

Undoubtedly the next time the department "streamlines" operations your letter will go to K.C., or maybe even Denver before it goes to Chicago.

It wouldn't surprise me.

The Leeds (English) MERCURY of the 27th ult. says: About two o'clock on Tuesday morning, as a young man was going home, past the new Congregational Church, Pudney, he was startled by the appearance of a ghostly figure in white, as if it had come out of the adjoining graveyard. Whether it was a "creature of the heat-oppressed brain," (as he was just coming from a public-house), or a veritable reality, he could not tell. However, he mustered courage to approach the dreadful object, which he discovered to be a young woman, upright and sound asleep. She had on only a nightdress, and, on being awoke, screamed in finding herself in the street. She was taken to a house near and supplied with clothing, and then accompanied home. She had walked more than half a mile in her sleep, and had got out of bed in a dream, unlocked the door, and started upon her nocturnal journey without having disturbed any of the family.

News, Views Century Ago

From the Jacksonville Journal: FRANK GLOSSOP, the Agent and Traveling Correspondent of the Springfield Week, visited our city last week. Frank is a clever chap, and a close observer. He speaks well of Jacksonville.

SEE, SEE. The Great Historical Painting, J. L. Williams' great moving PANORAMA OF THE BIBLE, at Strawn's Hall, commencing Wednesday, January 17th, and continuing six nights only. This is the largest painting of the sacred scriptures in the world, covering 4,000 square yards of canvas. Tickets 50 cents; children half price. (ADV.)

THE DONATION PARTY at the East Charge M.E. Church on Friday evening last, was well attended and about four hundred dollars, in money and valuables, were donated to the Rev. A. Temple. A novelty gift was from the young people, in the shape of an insurance policy upon the life of Mr. Temple, of two thousand dollars, for the benefit of his family.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION—We learn that an effort is about to be made to organize in Jacksonville, a Young Men's Christian association, similar to those now flourishing in many of our cities. We are at a loss to understand how a measure fraught with so much importance could have been so long neglected in a city like ours.

From the Jacksonville Sentinel: POOR HOUSE FOR SALE—The sale of this valuable and beautiful tract of land, now occupied as a county poor farm, just east of the Blind Institution, and within the limits of the corporation, will be sold by auction on Saturday, 27th January. A fine opportunity for speculation is here offered, as the tract, containing 44 acres, can be laid off in suburban lots of convenient size for residences and cultivation, which will at once command large figures.

The County Court proposes to apply the proceeds of the sale to the purchase and improvement of a larger county farm beyond the city limits.

The admirable entertainments of Prof. Macallister, at Strawn's Hall, have been drawing crowded audiences during the past week. His magical illusions and feats are highly attractive, and prove him to be a master hand at his profession.

The large subscription club with which our democratic friends at Arcadia favored us last year, expired last week. Will not our friends there see that it is renewed?

The fine open winter weather we have been enjoying for several weeks has for a time departed. On Tuesday night a storm of sleet and rain set in and has continued incessantly ever since. The side walks have been covered with ice, and passengers have, in every truth, had to "walk on slippery places."

From the Carrollton Gazette: The cause of the tardiness in the arrival of the trains is attributed to the caution taken to prevent accidents on those portions of the road but recently completed.

Thursday's 7:48 P.M. passenger train was delayed until after midnight on account of finding the afternoon freight train off the track in the vicinity of Macoupin bridge.

We are informed that there has recently been established a new post office in this county, by the name of Bear Creek P.O. It is situated six miles north west from Greenfield and Mrs. Charles Tanks is the P.M.

Large lots of cattle and hogs are awaiting shipment at all points in this county, and much damage has been done our stockmen on account of a failure to obtain transportation. The road, however, appears to be doing all it can to supply cars, as extra freight trains have been run every day this week.

An incident occurred at St. Louis, illustrating the fact that mules are not only the most sagacious of all four-legged animals, but they sometimes do things on purely scientific principles. A drove of about 200 of these large-minded beasts were brought to the Illinois shore, opposite the city, and it was concluded that the best way to get them across was to start them on the ice and let them walk over. As soon as they reached the ice, instinct taught them that they had embarked on a dangerous journey, and instantly the oldest mule in the drove — one, too, that had never been at a circus and had no education — took the lead, and one at a time the whole 200 "fell in" and followed their leader in single file, with safe spaces between, and thus, stretching themselves in a long line, they crossed the river. The circumstance was witnessed by a number of gentlemen, who were impressed with this wonderful illustration of mule sagacity.

A Chicago clergyman missed his stockings on Christmas morning, and after a long search found one on each horn of a new milch cow, which had been presented to him by his parishioners, and ornamented in this way to indicate that it was a Christmas gift.

A prominent bachelor politician on the Kennebec, remarked to a lady that soapstone was excellent to keep the feet warm in bed. "Yes," said the young lady, who had been an attentive listener, "but some gentlemen have an improvement on that which you know nothing about." The bachelor turned pale, and maintained a wistful silence.

The Hartford DAILY COURANT, with the present year, enters upon the 102d year of its uninterrupted publication.

The wheat yield of Minnesota is said to be unprecedented, it averaging 27 bushels to the acre, and the entire crop being estimated at 12,000,000 bushels, which is 48 bushels to each inhabitant — man, woman and child — of the whole State.

Here's a new type of bridge problem. Look over all the cards and see if you can figure out how Chicago expert Eddie Rosen managed to make four hearts without the benefit of any unusual help from his opponents.

Getting to four hearts was quite a problem to start. Eddie's double of two diamonds was primarily for takeout and North respected his wishes enough to go to two hearts as the least of the several evils he thought he faced. Eddie's jump to four wasn't too much of a gamble. All he really needed was to find his partner with the jack of clubs. Strangely enough, East's jack of clubs turned out to be his undoing.

East played the king of diamonds and continued with the ace. Eddie ruffed and led the queen of clubs. West ducked and East made the mistake of letting his low club go. Eddie's next play was the king of hearts. East won and led a third diamond which Eddie ruffed high.

Then he cashed two high trumps in order to pull the opponents' teeth. Next came the ace and king of spades, followed by a low club. Poor East had to win the trick with the jack and had to lead a diamond to give dummy tricks with the queen of spades and jack of diamonds.

That particular queen-jack combination is worth 40 points in pinhole. It was worth 620 points in this bridge situation.

Note that East could have beaten the hand by leading the jack of clubs when he got in with the ace of trumps, and that if West had simply grabbed his ace of clubs when Eddie led the queen, the contract would have been set.

Reither On Beardstown

By Virgil Reither
BEARDSTOWN—The Chicago Tribune Sunday Magazine of January 2 contained a long story under the heading "Slow Boat to Chicago," featuring the activities of the Material Service company's towboat Irving Crown and its captain, Jack Little of 1000 Lafayette street, Beardstown.

Also mentioned in the story are Dan Brasel, pilot on the boat and Bill Griffin, mate.

The story states that Material Service "seems to have recruited most of its crews from Beardstown."

Written by Ridgely Hunt and illustrated with colored pictures, the story relates how Little maneuvered the Irving Crown through the narrow Sanitary and Ship Canal above Western Avenue in Chicago. Hody Ashcraft of 1109 E. 7th street, has resigned his position with Glenn Ice and Fuel company and will soon take a job as a warehouse employee in Keokuk. Mrs. Ashcraft will continue to operate her beauty shop here for the time being and their son will finish high school here, according to present plans.

Bob Schall, former clerk for the H. E. Huss and Sons establishment here, began work at the First State Bank January 3. John Prief has been added to the clerical staff at Huss's.

Capitano, Sr. of Garden City, Long Island, New York. Their wedding is planned for February nineteen, at St. Patrick's Catholic church in Garden City.

Miss Hoecker, a graduate of Jacksonville High School, attended Western Illinois University at Macomb and graduated from the Weaver Air Line School in Kansas City, Missouri. She is employed by Eastern Air Lines in New York.

Her fiancé graduated from the J. Frank Carey High School, Long Island, New York and attended Pace College, New York. He is a member of the United States Marine Reserves and is employed by the Police Department, City of New York.

FRANKLIN — A mid-holiday ceremony Sunday afternoon, December twenty-sixth, united in marriage Miss Sandra Lee Austif and Donald D. Campbell. The vows were pledged at the Franklin Christian church before the Reverend Merrill Franklin, pastor of the church.

Red roses adorned the candle-lit altar. Miss Grace Armstrong was at the piano and Mrs. Merrill Franklin sang during the prelude. Altar tapers were lighted by Nancy Hartman and Nancy Fitzhugh registered guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith of Franklin and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Campbell, Franklin route two. Mr. Smith gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's cousin, Mrs. Jerilyn Turner of Hillsboro was matron of honor. Miss Vicki Jarvis, Jacksonville, niece of the groom and Miss Pat Scherfberg, also of Jacksonville, were bridesmaids. The attendants were gowned alike in floor-length dresses of blue tulle and lace on empire lines falling entrain. Short veils adorned their matching headpieces and each carried a single long stemmed rose tied with a blue ribbon.

The bride wore a formal gown of peau d'ange lace and bridal tulle embellished with seed pearls and featuring a detachable train. A crown of pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion and she carried a hand bouquet of white roses and ivy with valley lilies.

The bride's mother wore a royal blue ribbon knit dress with a lighter shade of blue accessories. The groom's mother wore a light blue suit with navy accessories. Both wore white pompon corsages.

A reception was held at the church following the ceremony. Assisting here were Mrs. Joan Langdon, Mrs. Judy Crow, Mrs. Marie Ross, Mrs. Vera Austif and Miss Sharon Ross.

Both young people graduated from Franklin High school. The bride completed her education at Hardin Business College in Jacksonville and is employed in the Division Plant of General Telephone Company of Illinois. The groom is serving with the U.S. Navy.

Among the special guests were Mrs. Romer Ross, grandmother of the bride and Miss Carey Campbell, great aunt of the groom.

NAMED FROM ALGONQUIAN — Lake Michigan, third largest of the Great Lakes, was named from the Algonquian Indian term for a large body of water, "Michigan" or "Mississigamun."

Routt Wins 2nd 60-43; JHS And ISD Beaten

Rockets Lead Perry All The Way

The Routt Rockets moved out to an early margin Friday night, on the shooting of senior guard Mike Fitzpatrick and coasted home for a 60-43 PMSC triumph over a ragged Perry bunch.

Fitzpatrick, who played the contest with sprained right ankle, tallied 12 of his game high 16 points in the first half, as the Rockets gained first and second stop bulges of 14-5 and 33-22 to back-in for the win.

Presenting a stiff 2-3 zone defense, Routt forced the hapless Pioneer quintet into 23 turnovers during the encounter, while picked-off nine foe passes for nine buckets via the fast-break route.

The Rockets managed a slim 36-35 shooting clip shooting clip advantage in gaining their second straight win of the year, while bowing at the charity stripe by a 67% to 59% edge.

Fitzpatrick got the Rocket attack underway as they moved to a 13-4 advantage in the opening minutes, while permitting only two Pioneer attempts from the field.

Vaulting the spread to 26-10 midway through the second frame, the locals had their earlier domination of the boards unseated, with Perry cutting the gap to 26-17 with two minutes remaining in the half.

Five free throw conversions held off the visitor's surge, however, to mark the intermission tally at 33-22.

The upset-minded Pioneers came back with the first bucket of the final 16 minutes to trail by only nine at 33-24. A Rocket fast-break spree soon put the game out of reach, however, as they rolled up 12 straight tallies to one solo marker for Perry, making the columns 45-25.

Perry wittled away at the margin during the closing action to trail by only 10 at 53-43, but charity conversions again thwarted the Pioneer's surge.

Paul Johnson paced the Pioneers with 11 in the contest, while Fitzpatrick with 16, and J. D. Zeller and Chuck McNeely with 11 led the now 2-5 Rockets.

Floor Errors Cost JHS Fourth Defeat

CANTON — A mistake-riddled Jacksonville High basketball team lost the ball on turnovers 28 times, here Friday night, and the Canton Little Giants handed the Crimson a 48-43 loss.

The sloppily-played non-conference game saw both clubs commit numerous floor errors, with Canton making less. The Little Giants' full-court press forced the Crimson into mistakes all evening, 14 in each half.

Canton grabbed a lead in the first quarter and was never headed although Jacksonville came from 11 behind in the first half to within one several times in a rallying fourth quarter. The Crimson were actually never out of the game, but several times were down by only one and had the ball, only to give it up again.

The spurge that gave the opening the second round, Canton broke loose for the next 12 a 12-point scoring streak early in the second period, when five straight Crimson turnovers were turned into buckets by the Little Giants.

JHS grabbed an early 5-2 lead before Canton spurted back into an 8-5 margin that grew to 11-7 and 13-11 at the end of the opening frame.

After Jacksonville led 14-13, the opening the second round, Canton broke loose for the next 12 a 12-point scoring streak early in the second period, when five straight Crimson turnovers were turned into buckets by the Little Giants.

A technical foul call on Canton which was turned into a five-point play for the Crimson on free throws by Bob Donovan and Ron Coleman, and a resulting bucket by Coleman, pulled Jacksonville to within 27-23. Canton scored the final three points in the half and led at halftime, 30-23.

Jacks Get Close
Canton went scoreless for the first five minutes of the third period and three points by Coleman and a bucket by Duane Hess got the Crimson to within 30-28.

Coleman matched Pat Ali's two buckets in the remaining time as Canton took a slim 38-34 advantage into the final eight minutes.

A clutch bucket by Donovan and one from the corner by Coleman got JHS within 41-40, and again the Crimson got within one when Gary Ginder hit a tip-in and Rich Coble sank the first of two free throws.

Canton's Steve Conklin hit two straight free throws, after missing five in a row earlier in the game, with 1:30 left in the game in what turned out to be the winning margin, before Ali hit two more with nine seconds to ice the contest.

For the game Canton outshot the Crimson from the field, 36% to 37%, and outbounded the losers, 20-25. Canton committed 23 turnovers in the game.

Coleman was once again the Crimson's top scorer with 15, while Ball hit 14 points for the winners.

The win boosted Canton to 6-4 on the year, and dropped Jacksonville to a 7-4 mark.
